Babe Ruth Team May Be On Way To National Crown

In only its second year of existence, a local Babe Ruth League all-star baseball team may be headed for national prominence.

That team is the Irving-Lake All-Stars, composed of the best 16 to-18 year-old Babe Ruth performers from Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Streamwood, Hanover Park and Bartlett. The Irving-Lake squad has already won its district title and last weekend won the state championship in Champaign.

Lou Bocci, a former collegiate and professional baseball player and coach of the team, will guide his club to the Ohio Valley Sectional Tournament in Alpena, Mich., this weekend. This tourney encompasses a 7-state area and the winner will advance to the national championships in North Carolina Aug. 10-17.

Bocci boasts his team's chances to take the sectional crown and go on to the nationals.

"Our chances are real good," Bocci said. "You have to have good pitching, and we've got that. You have to have good hitting, and we get that in spurts. And when we were in Champaign, we had the good Lord on our side. We had a little luck, but I think we had the best team there — no doubt about that."

Irving-Lake first won the district test at Joliet July 14-16 by dropping its first game and then winning three in a row. Then at Champaign, the local squad reeled off four consecutive wins.

THE FIRST three of those wins in the state tournament wert one-run squeakers. Irving-Lake beat host Champaign 4-3 Friday afternoon as catcher John Gimmler became only the fifth player ever to hit a home run over the deep outfield fence. Pitcher Ken Gast, who hasn't lost all year, was the winner and Larry Koath exhibited fine defense in center field.

Mark Faber struck out 14 Mattoon hitters in the second game Friday night as Irving-Lake won 1-0. Gerry Kindred stole home for the only run of the game.

The locals nipped Chicago Heights 5-4 Saturday as Steve Hull drove in the tying and winning runs in the seventh inning.

And in Sunday's championship game, Irving-Lake's Bill Arkus hurled 12 innings and pitched out of tight jams in the ninth and 10th innings to help Irving-Lake to the state title.

Bocci also said he felt indebted to his assistant coaches, Ceph Johnson of Schaumburg and Bob Barna of Streamwood, calling them "good knowledgeable baseball men."

With a 7-1 record in tournament play and the Sectionals coming up, Bocci couldn't help but be optimistic.

WORKING IN THE laboratory of Alexian Brothers Medical Center was a "learning experience" for aspiring medical student Mike Blood, a sophomore at Conant High School. He worked with Dr Donald Fox for six weeks this summer under a program sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Babe Ruth Champs Need Cash

The future of Woodfield's Babe Ruth state championship baseball team in sectional and national competition may be determined by dollars collected this week rather than runs scored in next weekend's competition.

Lou Bocci, ine of the organizers of the league, said the team needs donations to meet travel expenses for the 7-state sectional tournament at Alpena, Mich.

Bocci said the team already has made arrangements for housing and meals during the weekend double elimination tournaments, but he said money to get the 22 players and coaches to the games still is a problem. He estimated the cost at $1,500.

"We are hoping that the communities of Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Bartlett and Streamwood which sponsored the team will be able to offer some money," Bocci said.

Bocci said representatives of the team will try to contact some local businesses for donations.

"We have to leave on Thursday so this will have to be a pretty quick fund-raising drive," Bocci said.

Persons interested in making contributions may contact Bocci at 149 W. Berkley, Hoffman Estates.

Charge 5 Stole Clothing

Action by a Woodfield clothing store security guard and police in Schaumburg and Elk Grove Village resulted in the arrest of five Chicagoans over the weekend.

Schaumburg police said four women and a man were arrested Saturday after a security guard allegedly observed them taking clothing valued at nearly $500 from Madigan's in Woodfield.

The four women refused to open their shopping bags for the security guard and then rushed from the store. The guard followed the four and observed them getting into a car. The guard called police, giving a description of the car and the license number. Elk Grove Village police stopped the car a short time later on Rte. 53 and made the arrest.

Police said Johnny Draper, 27; Gloria Rodgers, 20; Lynell Dampier, 23; Lee Ann Gates, 23, and Mary Hamilton, 25, were all charged with petty theft and possession of stolen property.

Besides the clothing, the group also allegedly had a puppy, believed to be stolen from a Woodfield pet store, in their possession at the time of the arrest.

Bond has been set at $5,000 for each of the five.

A Head Start On Careers

by MARY HUTCHINGS

It's not "Marcus Welby," "The Doctors" or "Hospital," but a program sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Unit of the American Cancer Society has introduced two Hoffman Estates students to real-life hospital work.

Diane Behan and Mike Blood, seniors at Conant High School, received scholarships from the society which gave them the opportunity to spend the past six weeks in the lab of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

Working under Dr. Donald Fox, the students spent a week watching lab technicians and doctors work in each of five departments, including surgical pathology, chemistry, bacteriology, humantology and blood bank.

The program was designed to help aspiring medical students decide if they are really interested in a medical career. Mike, who is thinking about Illinois Wesleyan for his pre-med program, said the summer work has confirmed his intentions to be a doctor. He commended the program because "some people have to wait until they are out of medical school to find they don't like it."

Diane "isn't absolutely sure," that she wants to be a doctor, though she plans to apply to Northwestern University's six-year medical sciences program. Being a woman doctor "isn't as big a deal as it used to be," she said and she's fairly certain she'd like to try.

SHE GETS upset when some hospital personnel don't take her ambitions seriously and she was disturbed when they described her as "typical" when she left an autopsy before it was over. She knows she will get used to it, as the doctors have told her they "stop thinking about it" after enough experience.

Both students are surprised at how much they have learned from watching and from performing some of the tests and experiments themselves.

The Cancer Society pays transportation and meals for the students, who are in the lab from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily. Not yet 18, Mike says it's difficult to find summer jobs. "This is more fun than working in McDonalds, and much more interesting. You're not pressured to learn stuff, and you don't have to do anything with it."

Diane and Mike are honor students at Conant; Mike is in the band and Diane is in Drama Club. Both have a background in biology and chemistry.

DR. FOX said the main impetus of the program is to "keep their interest in medicine, and the secondary effect is cancer control." Though he won't encourage or discourage Diane in her pursuit of a medical career, he says, "she's a bright girl, and if that's what she wants, that's what she should try to do."

He believes the lab is a good experience for aspiring doctors because "it's not divorced from any part of medicine."

Students from 35 suburbs, Dr. Fox reports, were eligible for the program. Students from all over Chicago who were involved in it will be the guests of the Cancer society Aug. 11 at luncheon and a tour of the society's Chicago hospital laboratory.

As they finish up their six weeks of watching, asking why and learning, the two prospective M.D.'s are enthusiastic about hospital workers who so patiently explained things to them.

"Sometimes you knew you were getting in the way," Mike says, "but nobody said anything and nobody looked down on you. If you did something wrong, nobody got upset."

12 Mayors Study Plan For Housing

by KAREN BLECHA

Twelve mayors, including one from the Northwest suburbs, are attempting to formulate a volunteer program for distribution of low and moderate-income housing throughout the suburban Chicago area.

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert and 11 other representatives of a six-county-wide area have been meeting since December to try to piece together a tentative housing plan.

The mayors were brought together by the Housing Coalition of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities and are receiving technical assistance from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC).

THE IDEA FOR such a housing program came from Jack Pahl, an NIPC commissioner and former Elk Grove Village mayor. He has been meeting with the mayors who represent Kane, McHenry, Will, DuPage and Lake counties and the north, northwest, south, southwest and west regions of Cook County. Towns represented include Flossmoor, Wood Dale and Evanston in addition to Mount Prospect.

"The way I see it is that if we don't work out our own housing programs now under the control of local government, the federal court will give us a court-imposed program," Pahl said. "And the courts are very insensitive to the backgrounds and characteristics of our communities."

Pahl pointed to a suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union that would require the distribution of 60,000 low-income housing units on a "fair-share" basis. The suit is now before U. S. District Court Judge Richard Austin.

Pahl said the housing meetings have been kept quiet because "no one wants high visibility on a sensitive program like this." He said this was why he chose to work through the Leadership Council, a private agency.

According to Pahl, the housing group has been studying statistics provided by

Woman Serious After Collision

Dorothy Gascon, 43, of Hoffman Estates, remained in serious condition Monday after a two-car collision Saturday on Higgins Road east of Rte. 53 in which three other persons were injured.

Police said an eastbound car driven by Frank Gascon, 197 Payson, Hoffman Estates, crossed the center line on Higgins Road and collided with a westbound car driven by Nick Chionis, 1008 Cornell, Schaumburg. Gascon was charged with improper overtaking.

Authorities said damage was to the front end of the Chionis car and to the right side of Gascon's car.

Gascon, Chionis and Lillian Chionis, 50, were treated and released at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village.

Mrs. Gascon sustained multiple injuries and was in the hospital's intensive care unit Monday.

Property Classification

Public Tax Assessment Hearings Set This Week

Citizens, builders, real estate agents, businessmen and school officials are scheduled to testify at public hearings this week on a new system of tax assessments for Cook County.

Public hearings will be held today and Thursday by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton on how to classify various types of property for assessment and local taxation purposes.

THE HEARINGS are being held in connection with the new Illinois State Constitution which permits the classification of different types of properties in computing assessments.

Under the old constitution, all property was required to be assessed at 100 per cent of its value, although in practice the law was rarely enforced.

Thomas M. Tully, chief deputy assessor, said the hearings are to help the assessor decide how many categories should be established for classification of property and at what percentages of market value various categories of property should be assessed.

This week's hearings follow a series held last week at which testimony was heard from the Greater Chicago Committee, the Town Hall assembly, theChicago Real Estate Board and The Citizens Action Program.

Slated to testity today or Thursday are Cook County Supt. of Schools Richard Martwick, the Greater North Michigan Avenue Association, the United Builders Association of Chicago and the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

OTHERS WHO will appear include Phillip Watson, the assessor of Los Angeles County and president of the International Association of Assessing Officers; Edward Durschlag, a South Side real estate agent; the South Side Builders Association and the Hegewisch Community Committee.

Richard Michael, a Loyola University law professor, is presiding as the chief hearing examiner at the sessions.

The meetings will be from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the county board chambers on the fifth floor of the Cook County building in Chicago.

"After the hearings have been concluded and a thorough study of the problems is completed, Prof. Michael as the chief hearing examiner, then will make recommendations to Assessor Cullerton on these important questions," Tully said.

Kept Loaded Gun: Ex-Panther

Deborah Johnson, who was sleeping next to Fred Hampton the night the Black Panther leader was killed in a police raid, testified yesterday that she kept a loaded 12-gauge shotgun in the bedroom.

Miss Johnson, 21, said the shotgun was assigned to her as a party member. She said Hampton also was assigned a shotgun and sometimes kept a .45 automatic in the bedroom.

She made the statements during some four hours of meticulous cross-examination by defense attorney Thomas Sullivan during the conspiracy trial of Cook County State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 codefendants.

The 14 are accused of conspiracy to obstruct justice by altering and concealing evidence about the Dec. 4, 1969, weapons raid on a West Side apartment in which Hampton and Mark Clark, another Panther leader, were killed.

MISS JOHNSON also told Sullivan that she was aware of a "mandate" from national party leaders advocating resistance to police raiding parties.

In a vivid description of the predawn raid during direct testimony Friday, Miss Johnson said neither she, Hampton or another party member who was in the bedroom with them attempted to pick up weapons or otherwise resist the police raiders.

Miss Johnson told Sullivan that Hampton taught her to use the shotgun and other weapons between May and December, 1969. She said she practiced firing the shotgun in an open field.

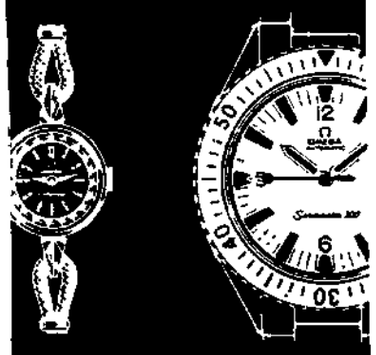

ON THE NIGHT before the raid, she testified, Hampton and other party members attended a political orientation class on "the strategic means to resist the power structure." But Miss Johnson said she went to a girl friend's house and did not attend the session.

Miss Johnson said she quit the Panthers in 1971 and now lives alone with her 2½-year-old child. She is employed in the billings and accounts department at Marshall Field & Co. department store.

She told Sullivan that as a party member she frequently used the word "pig" and defined it as referring to "any person who moves to take the life or attempts to take the life" of a Panther member.

Rumor of a possible Democratic slate in Schaumburg municipal elections next spring was quashed by a high level party spokesman last week.

"Such a move would be in opposition to our philosophy concerning national party politics in local elections," said Committeeman John F. Morrissey.

Emphasizing that his party had been forced to formally enter the 1971 Hoffman Estates race by the township GOP, Morrissey stressed that a Democratic ticket will, however, be run in that village next April.

Meanwhile, the GOP is said to be revving up for a full-scale battle against the Schaumburg United Party headed by Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Although still unconfirmed, it is believed that Township Supervisor Vern Laubenstein will be one of the GOP trustee candidates. Won't it be interesting to see who his running mates turn out to be?

STATE REP. Eugenia Chapman, D.-Arlington Heights, said a mouthful last week.

Discussing the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, Mrs. Chapman contends passage of such legislation will not make men and women the same.

"Not only would it be undesirable, but that would surely take more than a constitutional amendment," she commented. Amen, Eugenia!

Mental Health Center May Open Next Month

A new mental health center to serve Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships may be in operation in August, Jordan Rosen, director of Elk Grove Village Community Service, said yesterday.

Community Service received a $52,000 grant earlier this month from the state to establish a mental health center to serve the two townships. Rosen said the new center would operate out of the present Community Service offices on Biesterfield Road in Elk Grove Village and possibly from space in the Schaumburg Township hall.

Rosen said his organization actually won't be recognized as a mental health center until a psychiatrist can be hired. "State funding will begin when the psychiatrist joins the staff, which hopefully will be in August," he said.

Rosen said he also has been interviewing prospective staff members, including two full-time social workers, a full-time outreach worker and a full-time secretary. The psychiatrist would be part-time, he said.

ELK GROVE and Schaumburg townships, along with Wheeling and Palatine townships, have been served by the Northwest Mental Health Clinic in Arlington Heights.

Rosen said he met with Dr. Eugene Trager, director of Northwest, and Bob Geigner, of the state mental health department, Friday to discuss the transition to the new mental health center.

"We (Community Service staff) also have been meeting with various groups in Schaumburg Township, including schools and churches, to tell them about the new mental health agency that will serve the area," Rosen said.

COMMUNITY SERVICE applied for a grant from the Illinois Department of Mental Health in January, but funds for the state agency were not approved by the Illinois Legislature until June. The Elk Grove Village office was notified of the grant by the governor's office this month.

Dr. Trager had opposed the formation of the Community Service mental health center saying the move was "premature."

12 Mayors

NIPC that show the need for low and moderate-income housing in the various county areas. He said the 12 mayors will soon start talking to other officials in their areas about a housing plan.

"There will be 'X' number of units that will be needed for each area. Then it will be up to the local communities in that area to make the decision on where the housing should go," Pahl said.

HE SAID THE housing would probably include units for senior citizens, people who can't afford to live where they work and single people "who can't afford to live in the communities they were brought up in." He said the group is using federal standards when defining income: $6,000 to $12,000 a year for moderate and $6,000 and under for low income. The figures depend on family size.

The group hopes to have a complete six-county housing plan including proposed sites and a 10-year implementation program in two years, Pahl said.

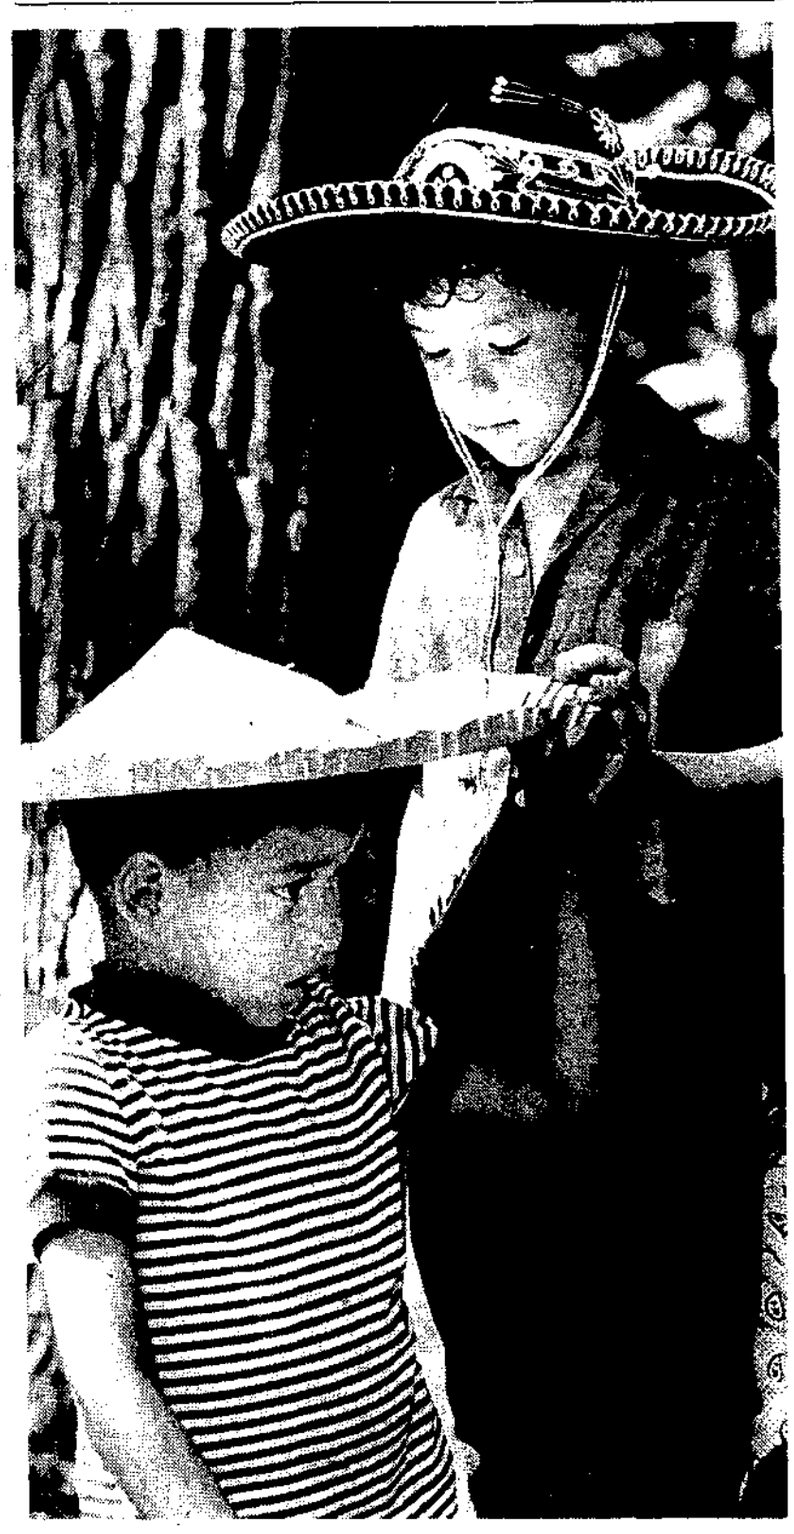

"The plan is to get a local coalition together in each community that will work on their own programs," Pahl said. He said agencies such as planning commissions and zoning boards would join religious and civic leaders and local officials in the coalition.

Pahl said the mayor representatives would also work with governmental agencies such as the Northwest Municipal Conference in formulating regional plans.

"The whole key to it is that everyone is doing a little bit so that no one community gets the burden. This way everyone will get their fair share," he said.

Pahl pointed out there are a variety of ways communities can provide low and moderate-income housing. He said a pamphlet describing each plan is being prepared by NIPC and will be circulated in the various communities.

Some communities will probably react negatively to the plan when first approached, Pahl admitted. However, he said he believes those communities will finally agree.

Second Fire Station Now Protecting Northeast Area

Formal opening of Schaumburg's second fire station Sunday assures the northeast section of the village of complete emergency protection.

On a one-acre site donated to the village by J. Emil Anderson and Sons, developers, the glass and brick single-story structure was recently completed at a cost of $224,000.

Eventually, the building will become headquarters for the village fire department and will contain both administrative and central alarm facilities.

It will primarily serve the Woodfield Mall area and residential and high rise development in the north end of Schaumburg.

Dedication ceremonies, attended by a number of suburban and Chicago fire department officials, were presided over by Chief Lloyd Abrahamsen, who traced the history of the development of the village department.

Abrahamsen, who had been with the Chicago Fire Department 26 years, came to Schaumburg to assume the full-time post of chief in January 1970.

Other speakers included Mayor Robert O. Atcher and Trustee Raymond Kessell, chairman of the police and fire committee.

Barry Goldberg, Schaumburg Jaycees president, also formally launched Project Red Ball during the dedication.

THE JAYCEES PLAN to distribute decals door-to-door to be placed in the upper levt hand corner of any window of bedrooms in which children sleep. In the event of fire, firemen will first check rooms with the Red Ball decal. Valuable time and lives can be saved in this manner, according to Jaycees.

Construction of a third village fire station in the southern end of the village will also take place in the near future.

A site in Centex-Schaumburg Industrial Air Park has been earmarked for the facility.

Jaycees To Set Up Bartlett Chapter

The Schaumburg Jaycees are sponsoring the formation of a new chapter of the organization in Bartlett.

"Once an organization is on its feet and functioning as well as we are, it's ready to help plant the seeds of a Jaycee organization in another community," said Barry Goldberg, Schaumburg chapter president.

He said Bartlett seemed to the local group as an area ready for a community and service organization such as the Jaycees.

Bad Weather Is One Cause

Low Attendance Marks Migrant Camp

Some days there were as many leaders as there were children but everyone still managed to have a good time at the Girl Scout day camp for migrant children.

Offered on an experimental basis by the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County, the day camp was designed for 60 Mexican-American children. During the course of the two-week program, which ended Friday, 38 children attended but on some days attendance was as low as 12.

"The main problem was, we were competing with the summer migrant program offered by the school districts," said Miss Paula Siegel, camp coordinator. The weather didn't help either, she added. Some days were excessively hot while on other days there were thunderstorms.

Children at the day camp ranged in age from 4 to 13 years old and came from all over the Northwest suburbs and as far away as Cary. The children were referred to the program by the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Working with the children and Miss Siegel were 12 Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts from the Northwest area.

THE DAY camp, which was funded by the Girl Scouts, was originally planned to be a seperate unit from the regular Girl Scout Day camp. Because of low attendance the few younger and older children were integrated into the regular day camp program. It also wasn't long before the units in the regular day camp were inviting the group to share their lunch.

During the day camp the children worked on nature crafts, songs, games, fishing, dancing and cooking out.

One day the group made a pinata which they proceeded to break open. On the following day they made sombreros and some came dressed in Mexican costumes. This was part of International Day at the camp and the group had decided to represent Mexico.

Shindig Parade Set To Kick Off Firemen's Fest

Clowns, bands and floats will kick off the 8th annual Schaumburg Firemen's Shindig, Saturday.

A parade will begin at 11 a.m. at the Nathan Hale School, Wise Road and Braintree Drive. The parade will feature fire department equipment from Schaumburg and other neighboring communities, and marching units from the Army and Marines.

The parade will travel north on Braintree Drive and end at Schaumburg High School.

A day long carnival, featuring amusement rides and games, will be held at the Schaumburg Plaza on Schaumburg Road, just east of fire station one.

SCHAUMBURG Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamsen said the proceeds raised from the day's events will be used to aid the projects of the department's benevolent fund.

He said the department will also be conducting safety demonstrations throughout the day at the shopping center.

Refreshments will also be served during the carnival.

Abrahamsen said the Shindig was started when the department had only volunteer firemen and the village was very small.

"They used the money to buy equipment, because there was not anywhere else to get the money," the chief said.

Today, with the village a little more prosperous and maintaining many full-time firemen, the department is working to establish a fund for small equipment items and a benefit fund for firefighters who might be injured on the job, he said.

7 Face Drug Counts Today

Seven persons arrested in two area drug raids last month will appear today in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

The first raid, at 505 W. Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights, netted 35 pounds of marijuana and smaller quantities of barbiturates, amphetamines, hashish and hallucinogins. It took place June 13 and closed down what police called "the headquarters for a major north suburban wholesale drug ring."

Agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) arrested Jerry Timm, 24, of 505 W. Camp McDonald Rd.; William E. Orce, 24, and Claire L. Orce, 20, of 19 N. Dryden St., Arlington Heights; and Paul S. Gilman, 21, of 1216 Stratford, Arlington Heights. All were charged with possession of marijuana.

In addition, Timm was charged with possession of controlled substances and Orce was charged with unlawful use of a weapon.

THE OTHER THREE were arrested the following night at the Old Ivy Apartments, 2032 Algonquin Rd. in unincorporated Mount Prospect. Here the MEG officials seized 18 pounds of marijuana and other illegal drugs.

Arrested were Daniel Austin, 21, of 510 Thorndale Ave., Elk Grove Village, and William Lambert II, 23, of the raid address, on charges of delivery of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver; and Joe G. Milton, 23, of Denton, Tex. for possession of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver.

All are scheduled to appear today in court on these charges.

A fourth person, William Beck, 23, address unknown, is not expected to appear today. He was arrested in the raid at Old Ivy Apartments but there was already an FBI warrant outstanding for this arrest. The FBI charge was for flight to avoid prosecution.

The total value of the drugs seized in the two raids was $40,000, according to MEG officials.

Rumor of a possible Democratic slate in Schaumburg municipal elections next spring was quashed by a high level party spokesman last week.

"Such a move would be in opposition to our philosophy concerning national party politics in local elections," said Committeeman John F. Morrissey.

Emphasizing that his party had been forced to formally enter the 1971 Hoffman Estates race by the township GOP, Morrissey stressed that a Democratic ticket will, however, be run in that village next April.

Meanwhile, the GOP is said to be revving up for a full-scale battle against the Schaumburg United Party headed by Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Although still unconfirmed, it is believed that Township Supervisor Vern Laubenstein will be one of the GOP trustee candidates. Won't it be interesting to see who his running mates turn out to be?

Discussing the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, Mrs. Chapman contends passage of such legislation will not make men and women the same.

"Not only would it be undesirable, but that would surely take more than a constitutional amendment," she commented. Amen, Eugenia!

Mental Health Center May Open Next Month

A new mental health center to serve Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships may be in operation in August, Jordan Rosen, director of Elk Grove Village Community Service, said yesterday.

Community Service received a $52,000 grant earlier this month from the state to establish a mental health center to serve the two townships. Rosen said the new center would operate out of the present Community Service offices on Biesterfield Road in Elk Grove Village and possibly from space in the Schaumburg Township hall.

Rosen said his organization actually won't be recognized as a mental health center until a psychiatrist can be hired. "State funding will begin when the psychiatrist joins the staff, which hopefully will be in August," he said.

Rosen said he also has been interviewing prospective staff members, including two full-time social workers, a full-time outreach worker and a full-time secretary. The psychiatrist would be part-time, he said.

ELK GROVE and Schaumburg townships, along with Wheeling and Palatine townships, have been served by the Northwest Mental Health Clinic in Arlington Heights.

Rosen said he met with Dr. Eugene Trager, director of Northwest, and Bob Geigner, of the state mental health department, Friday to discuss the transition to the new mental health center.

"We (Community Service staff) also have been meeting with various groups in Schaumburg Township, including schools and churches, to tell them about the new mental health agency that will serve the area," Rosen said.

COMMUNITY SERVICE applied for a grant from the Illinois Department of Mental Health in January, but funds for the state agency were not approved by the Illinois Legislature until June. The Elk Grove Village office was notified of the grant by the governor's office this month.

High School Will View Results Of Experiment

by WANDALYN RICE

When students return to Forest View High School this fall, administrators and teachers will watch their reactions to their new class schedules with greater than usual interest.

The schedules the students pick up will reflect, for the first time, an effort to let them choose their own teachers. Sophomores, juniors and seniors got the chance to express preferences for teachers when choosing classes last spring.

High School Dist. 214 has adopted a goal this year calling for increasing student participation in choosing classes in the future and Forest View is the first school to try it.

School officials will be watching the reactions of those who get their preferred teachers and those who don't

"We know there will be a large number of requests for teachers that won't be filled," Jack Martin, assistant principal said "Right now we know of about 300 individual teacher choices that were denied"

So far, he said, most of the denials have resulted from errors made by the students in marking computer cards and because teachers chosen are not scheduled to teach the class for which they were selected. More students will lose teacher choices when a second computer run gives them a schedule and locks them into certain time periods for their classes Martin said

"IF THERE is a conflict between a section where a student has selected a teacher and a class that is offered only once during the day, the computer is programmed to put the student into another section, rather than eliminate a class," he said.

The process of allowing students to select teachers began at Forest View last January, when the first steps toward registration started. "We told students approximately who would be teaching what," Martin said, "but we tried to make clear that we couldn't be absolutely sure because staff can change."

Not all students had the opportunity to choose teachers, he said, because many students were signing up for courses with only one section and only one teacher.

Because of the use of computer scheduling, Martin said, "If we get 50 per cent of the kids with the teachers they've selected, I'll feel we are fortunate. I just hope the students don't get terribly discouraged if they come back and find they don't have the teachers they chose."

THE DISCOURAGEMENT might be cut down, Martin said, if the school goes to a system of hand registration, allowing the students to pick up class cards and resolve conflicts as they arise in the same way students do in choosing college classes.

But even with the problems that need to be worked out, Martin said this first effort at letting students choose classes has already brought some surprises.

"The thing that surprised me was the variety of teachers who were chosen," he said. "As an administrator I have my prejudices about who is a good teacher and some of the students chose teachers I didn't think were that good. When that happens you start to wonder why."

Is Sacrifice Worth The Effort?

Treat Alcoholic With Realism

by RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK — There is the ominously empty bottle.

There is the unconscious, disheveled figure slumped across a sofa

There is someone who is an alcoholic and though it is your own husband or wife or mother or father you are agonizingly, despairingly, absolutely unable to do anything to help.

Where can you turn?

The traditional advice has been that you try to persuade the alcoholic to visit his doctor, his clergyman or Alcoholics Anonymous and generally use tender loving care no matter what. But a new book, "The Alcoholic in Your Life," suggests an alternative place to turn to· in the general direction of the door

"WHEN IT IS apparent no amount of aid is going to turn the tide" writes Jo Coudert, "must a strong life be sacrificed to prolong an enfeebled one? I think not I think a choice must be made and that it must be to save the healthiest. Anything else is waste compounded"

Miss Coudert, a writer-editor who specializes in psychology and is managing editor of the International Journal of Group Psychotherapy, is a small, melancholy woman who speaks from unhappy experience Her mother became an alcoholic when Miss Coudert, an only child, was in her mid-teens Miss Coudert's father left them and she took care of her mother for about 10 years, nursing, coaxing, pleading, scolding. All futility

"I remember being envious of the other girls at school," she says wistfully. "They had mothers who acted like mothers, while I had a mother who was more like my child."

When she was 25, Miss Coudert gave up trying to help her mother and moved away. They never lived together again, though her mother lived 20 more years

AND SHE SAYS she does not regret her action

"I would not even have done it differently if the outcome had been 20 days instead of 20 years because her life was no pleasure to her and brought no pleasure to other people, and I cannot believe that an earlier death was something to be prevented at all costs"

Miss Coudert has since found herself in the role of "coalcoholic" — her term for someone close to an alcoholic but not an alcoholic himself — because of the addiction of two close friends.

"You have to know what you can do about it and what you can't," she says "You have to know just how much you can take And you have to recognize that alcoholism is a stubborn, intractable condition."

HER VIEWS ARE NOT revolutionary. She is not the only person who has given up and left an alcoholic to fend for himself But Miss Coudert is unusually frank about the necessity for considering the possibility that an alcoholic may be untreatable

An AA pamphlet on 'The Alcoholic Husband," says, "You may have a husband of whom you despair completely. He is violent, or appears definitely insane when drunk Doctors may shake their heads and advise to have him committed In many ways this man may seem to be a 'hopeless' drunkard — but A A experience has shown that very few drinkers, however far down the ladder of alcoholism they may be are 'hopeless'"

Miss Coudert, who grimly contends it is best to accentuate the negative, says: "If the coalcoholic is not to abandon herself to apathy and defeat, or alternatively, if she is not to abandon the alcoholic, perhaps it is hope that she must give up."

Surprise–A Heat Wave In Summer

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here it is near the end of July and much of the nation has been experiencing heat waves Which comes as a big surprise to utility companies in areas where there have been power shortages.

"If this had happened in February, we would have been prepared for it," the utility companies say "But we weren't expecting a heat wave in midsummer."

The main trouble is air conditioning. There is fully enough electricity available to run all of the air conditioners in cool weather But the public perversely insists on running air conditioners in hot weather

This is called an "energy crisis."

AND WHAT does officialdom do about the crisis? Officialdom urges the public to use less electricity during periods when the public uses more electricity. But it doesn't work.

The public simply has not been conditioned to act in the public interest. Through artful advertising, the public has been conditioned to drive cars and run air conditioners. Promoting the public interest will require something equally artful.

At the moment, the public is going in strong for the "natural look" in cosmetics, plastics, hair styles, clothing and organic food So why couldn't officialdom take advantage of that with a public service campaign extolling the wonders of "natural heat?"

First we see Ed McMahon fiddling with some knobs in a tastefully furnished condominium. He turns our way, says, "Oh, hi there. Tired of having artificially cooled air circulating through your house or apartment this summer?

"Then do what I'm doing — turn off that air conditioner and heat your home the natural way — open a window. For less than pennies a day, you can have your home permeated by the same pure unadulterated heat produced only by the natural rays of the sun"

NOW WE SEE a young woman in a diaphanous negligee silhouetted before the open window of a darkened bedroom. She stretches sensuously and ecstatically murmurs, "Love that natural heat. Since turning off my air conditioner, my figure has improved 37 per cent"

Followed by an "American Gothic" couple "No doubt about it, Ma," the Titus Moody type twangs. "This is the same kind of old-fashioned natural heat we used to swelter in back on the farm"

Only in this manner can officialdom get the public to act in the public interest If the public interest isn't nostalgic, seductive or non-fattening, the public isn't interested.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Your articles on health are the subject of many discussions when friends meet. I wish you would discuss how doctors can help us who have "just nerves" or rather how we might help ourselves. I read that making a diagnosis of "just nerves" is the toughest diagnosis to make. It is also a difficult one for the patient to accept.

The pain is real regardless of what's causing it I had this problem and it caused me to be more nervous just trying to describe my pain. Finally, I was diagnosed as a mild diabetic with diabetic neuritis. I have been getting B-12 shots every six months and I'm much improved I also take tranquilizers. My weight was ideal — even the envy of fat friends

Dear Reader — You're right A diagnosis of "nerves" is a difficult one to make It means that the doctor has to be satisfied that there is no other mechanism causing the pain or symptom Since so many things cause pain this automatically means excluding an awful lot of disorders And, you're right — it hurts just as bad regardless of the cause If a patient has pain in the leg, he needs help for this pain whether it's caused by nervousness or poor circulation.

THE ROLE OF A doctor is to help his patient At times he can't unless he levels with him and makes sure he understands he doesn't have any serious disease and that his problem is really related to nervousness or emotional factors.

Ideally, the doctor then delves into the life situation factors that are responsible for the nerves and the symptoms. Unfortunately, many doctors seeing lots of patients don't have time to do this in great detail for one patient. Neither the dictor nor the patient can afford for him to do this. This is one of the dilemmas of our society.

Many simple problems of nerves are benefitted by eliminating habits which contribute to nerves, specifically drinking coffee which is a nerve stimulus and is certainly the cause of many people's indigestion problems and "nervous stomach." Nervous individuals should avoid all other stimulating drinks such as tea and colas and should avoid cigarettes. A good regular exercise program is also helpful.

HIGH ON THE list of important treatments for "nerves" is a sympathetic friend. I want to emphasize that I said friend, because the person often needs an ear outside the famly setting. In the course of talking about one's problems to someone you can trust, a person often works out his own solution. This is part of what psychiatry really is. Even if your friend doesn't do anything but listen, the fact that you have verbalized the things in life that worry you or distress you helps you to sort them out and identify your problems and begin to face reality. Of course, this won't solve the total problem for many people, but it does help some

Diabetic neuritis certainly is painful and it is also sometimes difficult to diagnose in its early stages That's one of the other dilemmas that doctors have — some diseases in their early development present so few findings that they are not easily diagnosed

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

James Kauder, one of the top young west coast players, has produced a book called the Bridge Philosopher. It is a collection of 40 hands played by him in rubber bridge and duplicate games. Written in the first person, each hand shows some interesting feature of card play.

The general tenor is to encourage bridge players to think and while the book is rather advanced it is well worth reading by anyone who wants to get a first hand look at expert thinking.

Here we find Jim in a normal three-no-trump contract. The heart lead makes it impossible for Jim to try to develop the club suit and he must go after three diamond tricks.

He leads a diamond to dummy's queen at trick two. The queen holds and Jim's firth thought is to continue with the ace. A little more thought shows that there is a better play at his disposal, provided that West does hold the king of diamonds.

Jim returns to his hand with the king of spades and leads the diamond jack.

The play would cost him an overtrick in case West had started with king and one. It makes no difference against any 3-3 break or if East started with a doubleton 10-spot but it brings home the contract against the actual holding of king-10-x-x in the West hand

Mrs. Nicklas Retains Post In College Unit

Jessalyn Nicklas, chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, has been reelected secretary of the Illinois Community College Trustees' Association (ICCTA).

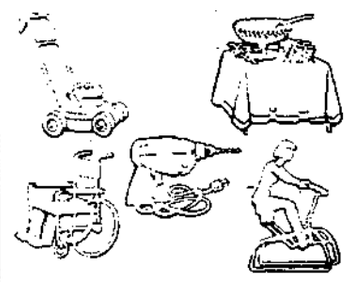

Mrs. Nicklas was first elected to the office when the ICCTA was formed in 1970.

"The function of the trustees' association," Mrs. Nicklas explained, "is to represent the boards of trustees from all 38 Illinois community colleges at the state level."

The trustees are represented by the ICCTA at the Board of Higher Education, the Illinois Junior College Board and other state agencies. The association also works closely with the Illinois Council of Public Community College Presidents.

Work on educational and other programs for the benefit of community college trustees is another part of the ICCTA operation, according to Mrs. Nicklas. She cited, as one example, a recent workshop which covered the legal and philosophical aspects of the trustees' position.

According to the ICCTA past president John M. Lewis of Carl Sandburg Community College in Galesburg, "Mrs. Nicklas is one of the most dedicated and hard working trustees in the state of Illinois. She has done an outstanding job in the work of the association."

Harper Seminar On Phase II Set

"Phase II (Prices) And You" is the title of an executive seminar to be conducted at Harper College in Palatine, Aug. 2.

It is a sequel to the wage control seminar held in May for more than 100 managers in the area.

Seminar leaders are William Davies, attorney, and Kenneth Johnson, accountant for Motorola, Inc. in Franklin Park. Both men have extensive experience with Motorola in interpreting, advising and implementing Phase II programs.

The leaders will present the general rules; clarification of companies; exemptions; base, custom and new product pricing; retail procedures, justification, monitoring and reporting of price increases; profit margin limitations, and Price Control Commission remedies for violations.

In addition, Davies and Johnson will be prepared to answer questions submitted by applicants with advance registrations.

To register or to obtain further information, Persons may contact the Community Services office at Harper College, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine, or telephone 359-4200, extension 248.

Glen's Bike Is Returned

Glen's bike is back.

The Herald reported Friday that someone took a large, three-wheeled bike from the garage of a retarded teenage boy in Rolling Meadows.

Sunday night another teenage boy who said he lived in Palatine appeared at Glen's home with the bike. The boy said he found it in the Arlington Crest area of Palatine and was returning it.

The boy said he had walked the bike all the way from Palatine.

The bike was still in working order, although a fender, speedometer and basket were missing and the handlebars had been exchanged.

You Must React Quickly To Emergencies On Road

More than 100 million Americans will take to the highways this year in pursuit of vacation pleasure. Chances are that many of them will be confronted with an emergency driving situation that allows little or no time for decision making — and many will make the wrong response.

The Chicago Motor Club offers these tips on what to do in emergency situations:

—BRAKE FAILURE. If your brakes fail, pump the pedal to build up enough pressure to restore some braking action. If this fails, apply steady pressure to the parking brake. Caution is necessary because the parking brake controls the rear wheels and you must be prepared to release the brake if the rear wheels lock. If your car has a manual transmission, downshifting also will serve as a braking force. Watch for an escape route, a safe exit from the highway and alert others to your difficulty by sounding your horn and flashing your lights. In extreme cases you may have to stop your car by other means, such as running along an embankment, driving into bushes or hedges or against a curb.

—TIRE BLOWOUT. The first thing to do if a tire blows out is to keep a firm and steady grip on the steering wheel. Hold the vehicle on a straight course and concentrate on maintaining or regaining control. Never slam on the brakes. Ease up on the accelerator, allowing the engine to slow the vehicle, and once you have the car under control, apply the brakes with a firm and steady pressure. A front tire failure will cause the car to pull to the side; a rear tire blowout can cause weaving or fishtailing.

—RUNNING OFF THE ROAD. If you should run off the paved shoulder of the highway, maintain a firm grip on the steering wheel and keep the car traveling straight ahead straddling the pavement edge. Do not whip the vehicle back on the pavement. Next, ease off the accelerator so the car will slow gradually. Avoid braking if possible, but if necessary, use a gradual pumping action. Before returning to the pavement, make a complete visual check ahead, to the side and the rear. Never return to the pavement when a car is approaching. When the way is clear and your speed has been greatly reduced, turn the wheel sharply, permitting the vehicle to climb the pavement edge to get back on the roadway.

—FIRE. If a fire breaks out under the hood, turn off the ignition and all other electrical switches. Use a fire extinguisher if available. If not, use a blanket to smother the fire. Since fires usually are from electrical short circuits, use a jack handle to rip out all burning wires. If the fire is out of control, move at least 100 feet away since the gas tank may explode.

MORE THAN 50 ENTRIES in the photography division of the 1972 North Cook County 4-H Fair made judging difficult for Greg Warner, summer intern in the photography department of Paddock Publications. The fair was held over the weekend near the Elks Club in Arlington Heights. Greg, a sophomore at Southern Illinois University, was the only judge in the photography contest.

Mrs. Nicklas Retains Post In College Unit

Jessalyn Nicklas, chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, has been reelected secretary of the Illinois Community College Trustees' Association (ICCTA).

Mrs. Nicklas was first elected to the office when the ICCTA was formed in 1970.

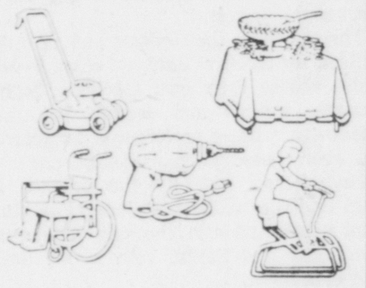

"The function of the trustees' association," Mrs. Nicklas explained, "is to represent the boards of trustees from all 38 Illinois community colleges at the state level."

The trustees are represented by the ICCTA at the Board of Higher Education, the Illinois Junior College Board and other state agencies. The association also works closely with the Illinois Council of Public Community College Presidents.

Work on educational and other programs for the benefit of community college trustees is another part of the ICCTA operation, according to Mrs. Nicklas. She cited, as one example, a recent workshop which covered the legal and philosophical aspects of the trustees' position.

According to the ICCTA past president John M. Lewis of Carl Sandburg Community College in Galesburg, "Mrs. Nicklas is one of the most dedicated and hard working trustees in the state of Illinois. She has done an outstanding job in the work of the association."

Technical Excellence Tops Programs

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The technical brillance of television is often more fascinating than its programming quality. And the equipment on hand for several major events this summer — the Olympics and the political conventions — is an example.

Consider, for instance, this report from Ampex Corp., whose videotape and audio recorders will be prime tools in international coverage of the Olympic Games from Munich Aug. 26 to Sept. 10:

"THE TELEVISION audience will approach one billion because of satellite communication and videotape recording. Events taking place in Munich will be televised worldwide via communication satellites 22,300 miles in space. These fixed space relay stations will carry the Munich events to any of six continents in four-tenths of a second . . .

"In addition to replaying pictures and accompanying sound, each satellite has transmission channels for up to 21 commentators. Four satellites will thus have a capacity of over 80 languages, which should be ample for all requirements involving direct broadcasts in a large number of languages."

For the political conventions, meanwhile, and for video news in general, CBS-TV announced development of "a color light amplifier — the first of its kind — that makes it possible to film during dawn or night hours without artificial light."

THE AMPLIFIER wasn't used during the Democratic convention because, according to a network executive, a situation didn't arise for it. But as another executive at CBS-TV says, "We will be able to film in almost total darkness. The amplifier opens whole new areas of coverage to television news film."

For televiewers just interested in news coverage, this comment by a CBS-TV executive puts the development closer to home: "Artificial lights had not only become a danger to our film crew but often created artificial conditions."

Sidewalk Days Offer Music, Carnival Rides, Bargains

The "Floating Opera" band will headline entertainment of the Talented Teen Revue at Arlington Heights Sidewalk Days Thursday night on the stage at 114 W. Campbell. The program will start at 8 p.m.

The band includes two Arlington High school musicians, lead guitarist Craig McGowan and Brent Bauske, vocalist and bass guitar; vocalist and rhythmn guitarist Jeff McGuire of Arlington Heights and Prospect High School drummer John Krienitz from Mount Prospect.

Solo singer Vicki Conter of Elk Grove High School, organist Pamela Poole of Palatine, and singing duo Cathy and Chris Trotter of Miner Junior High School will also entertain.

Dancers scheduled to appear include Diana Sample, second runner-up in the recent Miss Mount Prospect contest; and June Rold dancers Joy and Dawn Wanner of Mount Prospect. Chris Trotter will perform a series of magic acts.

Other teens wishing to audition for the dhow are invited to call Mrs. Joe Wanner at 392-2331.

Other entertainment for Sidewalk Days will include a Delores Eiler dance review Friday evening and the Singing Strings Saturday night. A kids' dog show is scheduled for the Cultural Center site at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Carnival rides in the downtown area will operate Wednesday evening through Sunday. Daytime ride discount tickets will appear in the Herald Wednesday an Thursday. The Sidewalk Days sale wi begin Thursday morning.

Technical Excellence Tops Programs

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The technical brillance of television is often more fascinating than its programming quality. And the equipment on hand for several major events this summer — the Olympics and the political conventions — is an example.

Consider, for instance, this report from Ampex Corp., whose videotape and audio recorders will be prime tools in international coverage of the Olympic Games from Munich Aug. 26 to Sept. 10:

"THE TELEVISION audience will approach one billion because of satellite communication and videotape recording. Events taking place in Munich will be televised worldwide via communication satellites 22,300 miles in space. These fixed space relay stations will carry the Munich events to any of six continents in four-tenths of a second . . .

"In addition to replaying pictures and accompanying sound, each satellite has transmission channels for up to 21 commentators. Four satellites will thus have a capacity of over 80 languages, which should be ample for all requirements involving direct broadcasts in a large number of languages."

For the political conventions, meanwhile, and for video news in general, CBS-TV announced development of "a color light amplifier — the first of its kind — that makes it possible to film during dawn or night hours without artificial light."

THE AMPLIFIER wasn't used during the Democratic convention because, according to a network executive, a situation didn't arise for it. But as another executive at CBS-TV says, "We will be able to film in almost total darkness. The amplifier opens whole new areas of coverage to television news film."

For televiewers just interested in news coverage, this comment by a CBS-TV executive puts the development closer to home: "Artificial lights had not only become a danger to our film crew but often created artificial conditions."

Carol Lucas, Terry Bracke Wed In Evening Ceremony

In an evening ceremony June 30 Carol Ann Lucas and Terry George Bracke, both of Palatine, became man and wife. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William R. Lucas, 145 Norman Drive, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Bracke, 328 W. Glade St.

For the ceremony, held in St. Thomas of Villanova Church, the bride chose a gown of white Nottingham English and Venise lace, styled with a gathered skirt and full sleeves. Her elbow-length veil was attached to a headpiece of white roses and stephanotis, which matched the flowers in her bouquet.

Betsey Lawrence of Palatine was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Nancy Lucas, sister of the bride, and Michelle and Debbie Bracke, sisters of the groom.

The attendants wore organdy gowns edged in white eyelet ruffles, each gown a different color including blue, ink, yellow and lavender. They carried baskets of daisies.

The groom's 10-year-old cousin, Connie Hunt of Palatine, was flower girl. She wore a pink and white flocked organdy dress.

Best man was John Burtis of Palatine, and ushers were Bill Dunlavey of Glenview, Mark Adamson and Jim Beldocci, both of Palatine. Scott Lucas, 9, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

A reception was held in Willow Creek Clubhouse, Palatine, after which the couple spent four days at the Palmer House in Chicago for their honeymoon.

Mrs. Terry Bracke

The bride was graduated from Palatine High School and attended Northern Illinois University. She is now a student at Harper Junior College and is employed by Mobil Chemical Co.

The groom, a graduate of Fremd High School and the American Conservatory of Music, is a musician.

The newlyweds are living in Palatine.

Sisters In Dual Wedding

It was quite natural for two sisters, Sandra and Carol Heck of Mount Prospect, to decide on a double ceremony for their wedding day. They attended Forest View High School and Eastern Illinois University for two years together and both met their husbands on the Charleston, Ill., campus.

Their dual wedding took place the afternoon of June 17 in South Church Community Baptist, Mount Prospect.

Sandra met Robert Schanzle of Carmi, Ill., at Eastern but after their graduation both worked on their master's at the University of Illinois. They will continue to live in Urbana while Bob completes his doctorate. She will be teaching nearby in Rantoul.

CAROL MET Paul F. Brown of Taylorville on a blind date during summer school at Eastern. He was visiting the campus at the time. Since the wedding she and her husband have gone to Ft. Bliss, Texas, where he is stationed in the army. The son of the Paul Browns of Taylorville, Paul is a graduate of Purdue University. Carol earned her degree at Eastern this past spring.

The two brides are daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Paul H. Heck, 916 E. School St. They served each other as maid of honor.

Sandra's bridesmaids were the groom's sisters, Ellen and Julie Schanzle. Bob's brother Charles was his best man. The four are children of Mr. and Mrs. George Schanzle of Carmi.

Bob's groomsmen were Al Parker of Champaign and Richard Clippinger of Fort Collins, Colo.

The two bridesmaids chosen by Carol were Kay Cummings of Champaign and Marty Mann of Rolling Meadows. James Coulter of Virginia was Paul's best man, and his groomsmen were Jay Bowers, Detroit, and Jeffrey Heck, the brides' brother.

The Paul Browns and Bob Schanzles

ALSO IN THE BRIDAL procession were a flower girl and a ring bearer. Jenny Schanzle, 3, a niece of Bob Schanzle, carried the flowers; Kent DeLay, Paul Brown's nephew, the rings.

The nuptials were set in two colors, aqua and lavender. Carol's attendants wore the lavender and Sandra's the aqua, all of them coordinating their flowers in both colors. The two brides chose similar gowns and bouquets but did wear identical veils and headpieces.

After the wedding 185 guests joined the foursome for dinner and dancing at the Royal Court Inn, Des Plaines.

The Bob Schanzles honeymooned in the Smoky Mountains, the Paul Browns in the west.

Dear Dorothy: We have a dreadful mole problem. Every time we look out, there is another stack of fresh dirt. Do you know of any insecticide or other method to control these pests?

—J. K.

No insecticide will have any effect on moles. However, the proper insecticides to get rid of earthworms, grubs, beetles and insect larvae will get rid of the moles, too. After all, these are what moles live on and once you eliminate their food supply, they will leave.

Some readers report they've had success with putting the laundry detergent (with little blue particles in it) or mothballs or crystals in the runs. The experts sneer at these home remedies and say that not even poisonous gas will do the trick. The Department of Interior says traps will work if put in the most frequently used runs.

Tip to brides: If you like cucumber, try adding some chopped cucumber to your potato salad. They're good, too, added to a bowl of borsch mixed with a heaping tablespoon of sour cream.

Stopped in at a neighbor's to see how their moving was coming along and, to my complete surprise, saw a bare wall on which had been a beautiful pastoral scene. All along I thought it had been wallpaper. She had bought two lengths of this beautiful material, sewed them together and pasted them on the wall with sticky tape just made for this kind of enterprise.

California, Las Vegas Honeymoon

A honeymoon to California and Las Vegas followed the July 2 nuptials of Donna Marie Braunsreuter and George Christensen Jr. in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Braunsreuter, 731 N. Kennicott, Arlington Heights, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Christensen of Lake Forest.

For her wedding the bride wore an ivory gown of crystal chiffon in a sleeveless style with high neck and re-embroidered Alencon lace trim. Her floor-length veil was attached to a lace cap, and she carried a round bouquet of Amazon lilies, stephanotis and ivy.

Maid of honor was Beth Hipskind of Belleville, Ill., Donna Marie's college roommate, and bridesmaids were Karen Guenther of Milwaukee, Wis.; Valerie Jack of Linden, N.J., cousin of the bride; Sue McCabe of Davenport, Iowa; and Johnelle Foley of Minneapolis, Minn.

THE MAID OF HONOR wore a sleeveless yellow gown of brushed jersey with a gathered skirt, turtleneck and hood. The bridesmaids' gowns were of an identical design in lime green. The attendants carried bouquets of Peruvian lilies, yellow shastas and yellow daisies.

John Enos of Lake Forest was best man, while ushers included Gary Braunsreuter of Arlington Heights, brother of the bride; Hugh Christensen of Lake Forest, brother of the groom; Tim Killinger, and Michael McMurray, both of Lake Forest. A reception followed the ceremony at Nordic Hills Country Club.

The bride is a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows and Barat College, Lake Forest. She teaches first grade at Hunting Ridge School in Palatine. The groom was graduated from Lake Forest High School and Northern Illinois University and is a commodity broker with Lauhoff Grain Co. at the Chicago Board of Trade.

Mr. and Mrs. George Christensen Jr.

The couple is now residing in Wheeling.

Steak Fry Next Juniors' Event

A couples' steak fry is the next social planned for Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club. This is an annual party, to be held Saturday at Jewel Park in Barrington.

At the Juniors' June board meeting the announcement was made of a scholarship award to Mrs. Ted Passarelli, daughter of the William Donovans of Mount Prospect. Gail is a senior at Illinois State University majoring in education for the physically handicapped. Both she and her husband are '69 graduates of Prospect High School.

This is the seventh scholarship given by the Juniors this year.

Plans are already underway for the club's garden membership tea, scheduled for Sept. 10 at the John Diserio home. The annual tea is held in fall to acquaint prospective members with special interest groups and activities of the club.

X-Ray Caution

Two of every three Americans are exposed to one or more x-ray examinations annually. The federal government is conducting a campaign to make sure that these persons don't get more exposure than necessary. The main concern: the danger to health posed by too much radiation. Some authorities feel many persons receive more x-rays than they should. (UPI).

Schaumburg Woman's Club Membership Tea Thursday

Schaumburg Woman's Club will hold a tea Thursday evening at 8:30 at the home of Mrs. Edward Vesely, membership chairman. Anyone interested in attending may call Mrs. Vesely at 394-1774 for further details.

The club was founded in the spring of 1961, and over the past 11 years has worked on many fund-raising projects to benefit individuals and organizations. Each year students in the area have received scholarships such as Allerton Park Art School, conservation, music and many others. The members have collected thousands of cancelled stamps to benefit wounded veterans and The Children of Norway.

In Schaumburg, the club has sponsored Girl Scout Troops, packed needy baskets at Christmas and continued the Helping Hand Program. Donations of time and money have helped Schaumburg Park District, Athletic Association, Hockey League, Schaumburg Festival of Arts, each village school and the Schaumburg Library.

Any woman of Schaumburg is eligible to join the club. Residents are invited to attend the tea and get acquainted with several of its members.

Steak Fry Next Juniors' Event

A couples' steak fry is the next social planned for Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club. This is an annual party, to be held Saturday at Jewel Park in Barrington.

At the Juniors' June board meeting the announcement was made of a scholarship award to Mrs. Ted Passarelli, daughter of the William Donovans of Mount Prospect. Gail is a senior at Illinois State University majoring in education for the physically handicapped. Both she and her husband are '69 graduates of Prospect High School.

This is the seventh scholarship given by the Juniors this year.

Plans are already underway for the club's garden membership tea, scheduled for Sept. 10 at the John Diserio home. The annual tea is held in fall to acquaint prospective members with special interest groups and activities of the club.

X-Ray Caution

Two of every three Americans are exposed to one or more x-ray examinations annually. The federal government is conducting a campaign to make sure that these persons don't get more exposure than necessary. The main concern: the danger to health posed by too much radiation. Some authorities feel many persons receive more x-rays than they should. (UPI).

Schaumburg Woman's Club Membership Tea Thursday

Schaumburg Woman's Club will hold a tea Thursday evening at 8:30 at the home of Mrs. Edward Vesely, membership chairman. Anyone interested in attending may call Mrs. Vesely at 894-1774 for further details.

The club was founded in the spring of 1961, and over the past 11 years has worked on many fund-raising projects to benefit individuals and organizations. Each year students in the area have received scholarships such as Allerton Park Art School, conservation, music and many others. The members have collected thousands of cancelled stamps to benefit wounded veterans and The Children of Norway.

In Schaumburg, the club has sponsored Girl Scout Troops, packed needy baskets at Christmas and continued the Helping Hand Program. Donations of time and money have helped Schaumburg Park District, Athletic Association, Hockey League, Schaumburg Festival of Arts, each village school and the Schaumburg Library.

Any woman of Schaumburg is eligible to join the club. Residents are invited to attend the tea and get acquainted with several of its members.

Next On The Agenda

BUFFALO GROVE-WHEELING LALECHE LEAGUE

"The Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties" will be the topic under discussion for the Buffalo Grove-Wheeling La Leche group. This, the second meeting in a four-part series, will be held in the home of Mrs. James Broskow, 258 Lincoln Terr., Buffalo Grove, tonight at 8:30.

Mrs. Julius J. Fejes will open discussion on some of the more common worries and misconceptions about breastfeeding, combined with some more specific ways of taking care of baby and oneself.

Visitors are welcome, as are babies, said Mrs. Fejes. A loan library is also provided. For further meeting information or counseling, interested readers may contact Mrs. Fejes at 541-1674.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS HOMEMAKERS

Arlington Heights Homemakers are hoping for a perfect summer afternoon Thursday, for Mrs. R. A. Levine has invited them to her Barrington home for a picnic on the lawn.

Each member will bring a dish from a favorite recipe as well as a "trash or treasure" white elephant for the auction to be held after the luncheon. Most of the afternoon will be devoted to good old-fashioned visiting.

TRAVEL LORE

by Clare Wright,
TRAVEL EDITOR

What do you think are the top tourist attractions in Europe and the Middle East?

We asked a few well-traveled friends that question the other evening and came up with a variety of answers.

The Louvre in Paris . . . the Houses of Parliament and Big Ben in London . . . the Trevi Fountain in Rome . . . The Egyptian Museum in Cairo.

Well, the folks at TWA — who have a real knack for making surveys — have done some research on the famous shrines and landmarks overseas that are the No. 1 attractions for sightseers.

Here's what they came up with:

LONDON — The Tower of London. We're told that 3 million visitors a year form a procession to the Tower to see the magnificent Crown Jewels, the Yeomen of the Guard (Beefeaters), the tame ravens, historical treasures, and the damp, dark cells where many famous persons were held prisoner. As often as we've been to London we never tire of visiting this fascinating spot.

PARIS — The Eiffel Tower. It's still the granddaddy of Paris attractions. For eight francs ($1.44) you can buy a ticket that takes you clear to the top. It's a sensational view — but if you're short on time — or chicken about heights — try the second level where there's a fine restaurant. We think the view there is pretty spectacular. The food's good too.

GENEVA — The Wonder Fountain. This is an incredible sight. The fountain pumps 110 gallons of water every second, leaving the base at the amazing speed of 125 miles an hour and reaching a height of 470 feet before cascading down in the arch.

FRANKFORT — The Frankfort Zoo. This is surely one of the most elaborate zoos to be found anywhere in the world. Its animal population is more than 5,000. Among the special attractions you can watch them train elephants, lions and tigers

LISBON — The Belem Tower and the National Coach Museum.

MADRID — The Prado Museum

ROME — The Colosseum. Frankly, we find this place somewhat awesome. Oh, it's plenty impressive all right, but every time we've wandered through its ruins we can't help thinking about the hundreds and hundreds of people who died such violent deaths there. Don't miss it though — if you go to Rome. You can wander around any time of the day or night for no charge.

MILAN — The Duomo, largest Gothic structure in Italy. It was raining the day we stopped there, but no dull skies could dim the grandeur of this white marble cathedral built in the form of a Latin cross. The roof is covered with 135 marble spires, each bearing a statue. The tower rises 354 feet high, and a guide told us it offers a breathtaking view of the Alps in the distance.

TEL AVIV — The Wailing Wall. The giant wall, whose recently excavated lower layers date back to the Second Temple (70 A.D.), is today the holiest of sites for the Jewish people Below ground level the stones probably date back to the First Temple of Solomon

ATHENS — The Parthenon This monument is generally considered the most perfect object ever fashioned by the hand of man. Climb to the top of the Acropolis and wander through this great marble temple. But if you really want to capture the full impact of the Parthenon and the Acropolis hill, attend one of the Sound and Light spectacles.

CAIRO — The Great Pyramid of Khufu. The Greeks called him Cheops — but whatever the name of this Pharaoh his temple is spectacular. A solid mass of limestone blocks taking up a space of 13 acres!

We weren't adventurous enough to climb the outside (some do) but we did make the ascent on the inside and that's pretty impressive too. If you can take the nasty disposition of the camel, ride one up to the Great Pyramid.

And as in Athens, be sure to attend the Sound and Light performance at the Pyramids.

These are the top attractions for sightseers listed in the survey by TWA. If you've been to these cities, do you agree that these are the sightseeing spots that command the most attention?

Bermuda's Liquid Assets

Shimmering Waters' Temperatures Reach 80s In August

by ERIC JOHNSON

HAMILTON, Bermuda — There is no truth to the rumor that a visitor to this Atlantic archipelago was spotted leaving the colony with the rudimentary beginnings of webbed feet

The taxi driver's tale of a Mount Prospect visitor developing a set of gills after only two weeks has yet to be confirmed. And no matter what you may have heard, the average Bermudian youngster does not start growing piscine scales or pectoral fins on his third birthday.

These are Bermuda summertime stories. Exaggerations, but stemming from the fact that both visitors and mudians alike spend hour after hour in, under or on the clear, warm waters that nuzzle this tiny island chain 600 miles off the U.S. east coast.

The sea is the colony's warm-weather medium. It comes in various colors, various depths, various states of agitation, and you can enjoy its warmth any time of the day or night, be you athlete or ruminant.

WARMED by a sub-tropical sun and insulated from the cold Arctic currents by the Gulf Stream, Bermuda's waters are actually balmy enough to live in all year — but Bermudians themselves rarely go near the water until May 24.

By mid-June, water temperatures are into the middle 70s, and they continue to climb until August, when both water and air temperatures hover in the 80s.

And as the sea is around almost every bend in the road, Bermuda provides a kaleidoscope of nautical adventures — swimming and sailing; helmet-diving tours, snorkeling and scuba-diving; sightseeing cruises by power and sail craft; shore, reef or deep-sea fishing; yacht and fitted-dinghy races weekly, and most important — a generous selection of uncrowded beaches for laying lazily on the sand or in the surf.

For those with more of the spectator in their blood, a variety of sightseeing cruises offer a waterside view of the island chain, a relaxed hearing of the island's history, tales of some of its quaint characters, rum swizzles or perhaps a lunch and swim on a hidden island beach.

Bermuda also offers licensed sailboat skippers whose boats are in the 30-foot range and once were the playthings of rich Bermudians. These sturdy sloops are outclassed now by faster racing craft, but under the skillful hands of men like Howard Simmons, Earl Wilkinson and Howard Powell, give you an idea of why Bermudians have always been superb mariners.

BERMUDA BEACHES are powder-soft and caressed with warm fingers of sea water. Some are nestled between jagged limestone cliffs and others stretch for miles along the South Shore in unbroken expanses of pink-tinted sand. In August, water temperatures climb into the 80s, inviting visitors to swim, lie on the sand, snorkel or explore coral reefs with Scuba gear.

WHILE RUNNING, beating or reaching around the Great Sound or placid North Shore, veteran sailor Simmons, for instance, gives insights into Bermuda's historic past and fascinating present that no guidebook ever could cover. And while heeling his sailboat over farther and farther, seeing how far he can go before you cry uncle and climb over the weather rail, he delights in pointing out the pink island fortress where "The Wizard of Oz" was written, the spot where a demented Bermudian once did away with his wife, or even the private island favored by Twiggy on her frequent visits to the colony.

The powerboat cruises carry larger audiences and are likely to concoct a seagoing rum swizzle about the time you pass the house where Eugene O'Neill lived. These cruises also include lunch, some shore time in Somerset at the western tip of the island, and views of startling sea gardens on the coral reefs

Meanwhile glass-bottomed boat cruises are concentrating on the coral reefs and their multi-colored inhabitants — red hinds, sponges, sea puddings, angelfish, parrot fish, sea fans and brain coral.

If you'd just as soon catch fish as look at them, the Bermuda Charter Fishing Boat Association has any number of charter skippers, most with record catches to their credit, who can take you deep-sea fishing over Challenger Banks to the southwest of the island chain.

For those whose milieu is below the surface, the best way to be introduced to Bermuda's watery treasures is from the air

From an aircraft, snorkelers and SCUBA divers can get some idea of what awaits them below as they fly over transparent blue and green waters with coral reefs and "boilers" showing through, appearing to be marine freckles Several square miles of coral flats extend north of Bermuda, alive with reef fish and the shells of sunken ships. The South Shore's pink sand beaches are protected by a line of reefs about 20 miles long, stretching from one end of the island chain to the other. They also abound with fish and sunken wrecks

BERMUDA'S WATERS long have been havens for scuba and skin-diving enthusiasts. One of the earliest skin-diving schools were opened here by Park Breck when the sport still was in its infancy, and today three schools — operated by Breck, Kevin Burke and David McLeod — offer instruction in snorkeling and scuba-diving techniques, and conduct tours for swimmers with all degrees of skill. Their courses range from an introduction to snorkeling, through underwater photography and dives onto wrecks in 60 feet of water

But you don't have to be athletic to enjoy Bermuda's underwater world. A man named Bronson Hartley, headquartered in the quaint village of Flatts, takes even non-swimmers, aged 8 to 80, out to the north shore reefs for helmet dives in 12 to 15 feet of water

Taking visitors in groups of four, with an onboard compressor supplying continuous fresh air, Hartley guides you through an underwater world where plants look like animals and animals look like plants — but he carefully explains the differences through a system of hand signals and written notations.

Hartley also may have originated that idea of people developing webbed feet. He estimates he's spent seven years of his life under water. Knowing the waters of Bermuda, that's not such a terrible thought.

IRISH HONEYMOON

Aer Lingus-Irish, the Irish International Airline and Top Flight Tours have a honeymoon package for couples planning a wedding between November and March

Northwest suburban honeymooners can have "that week to remember" in Ireland staying at top class hotels with breakfast every day, a free car, suggested list of itineraries all for $387 per person including round trip economy air fare from O'Hare Airport.

Even the brochure for the tour called "Honeymoon Ireland" has a romantic touch It comes designed as a wedding invitation and outlines where to stay in Dublin, Killarney, Cork, Blarney, Galway, Connemara — all in the South of Ireland, which, of course, remains tranquil and at peace.

The newlyweds will find special flowers in their hotel room on arrival and champagne will be served with their first Irish dinner.

Before they leave from Shannon airport they will be presented with "a gallon of Irish cheer" made up of bottles of whiskey, gin, mead, Irish Mist and a special Irish moonshine called Potcheen.

"Second honeymooners" are eligible for this package too, according to Aer Lingus

SHAPE UP AT A SPA

Now you can get healthier and tour Austria, Italy and Switzerland too.

It's all part of a deluxe three-week Health Spa Tour being offered by Spa Tours and Lufthansa Airlines, Sept. 14 to Oct. 6.

The Spa Tour headquarters will be Bad Obladis, a sunny Tyrolean spa that has been a retreat for European royalty since the 1500s.

The health and beauty program at Bad Obladis was designed by a famous European endocrinologist. Each guest is given an individual program based on his or her consultation with the resident doctor. Spa treatments include medicinal baths, taking the waters, diet and juice diets, Kneipp with modern equppment, sauna, massage and cosmetic healing.

Interspersed with the special cure treatments are excursions across the Austrian border into Italy and Switzerland.

Climax of the trip will be one night in Munich to celebrate the Oktoberfest.

Inclusive price of the tour, including air transportation from Chicago to Munich via Lufthansa economy class jet, is $875 Your travel agent has details.

$5-A-DAY GREEK HOLIDAYS

Olympic Airways offers 12 different packages in its $5-A-Day Tours.

The "combination holiday" brochure, available from Northwest suburban travel agents, spells out individual requests and then answers them with a tailored program to fit the need.

For example, the request "I'd like to start with four days in Athens, then receive a car with unlimited mileage (or railpass ticket) for nine days of touring through Greece" is answered by program number one

Eleven other tours include Classical Greece, Corfu, Rhodes, Crete, Turkey, Paris and cruises to the Greek islands

SOUVENIR HUNTERS

STANTON, Mo. — Women are more interested in buying souvenirs than are men, according to a survey conducted by the operators of Meramec Caverns. Eight of 10 women buy souvenirs at the cave while the figure for men is 4 of 10.

Both men and women prefer souvenirs with something about Jesse James on them. James and his gang hid out in the cave during the 1870s.

Airline Offers Golf Tourney For Amateurs

Jack Nicklaus makes competing in a golf tourney look easy, but how easy is it really?

United Air Lines, co-sponsor of the annual $200,000 Hawaiian Open, is now giving armchair golf "pros" an opportunity to find out for themselves by sponsoring the 1972 Hawaiian Amateur Golf Classic

The Classic, designed by Pacific Golf Enterprises, consists of 54-hole stroke play tournaments on three of Hawaii's most beautiful and famous golf courses — Makaha Valley Inn and Country Club, Royal Kaanapali Golf Course and the Keauhou Kona Country Club. In all, 19 individual tournaments will be played, with the last one beginning Dec. 9.

Each tournament, open to all amateur golfers with established handicaps, will have its own individual winners, and the golfer posting the lowest net score will be crowned the 1972 Hawaiian Amateur Golf Classic Champion.

Entry fee is $368 (based on double occupancy, excluding air fare). For accompanying non-golfers, the cost is $230 (excluding air fare, based on double occupancy). For single golfers, the fee is $420.

INCLUDED IN THE fee are:

- 7 nights superior (or better) hotel accommodations at Makaha Valley Inn, Maui Surf and Kona Surf
- 6 rounds of golf, including cart, at the Makaha Valley Inn and Country Club, Royal Kaanapali Golf Course and the Keauhou Kona Golf Course.
- Lei greeting.
- All ground transportation from airport to hotels.
- All porterage and luggage handling fees, tips and gratuities at hotels and golf courses.
- Arrival cocktail reception.
- Awards cocktail reception and tournament briefing.
- Tournament director and tournament escort
- Prizes and tournament mementoes.

Women may compete in their own event apart from the Classic itself. Also offered to the women are tennis and bridge tournaments, Polynesian specialty cooking classes, shopping and sightseeing tours (optional) and an Aloha cocktail reception and awards banquet.

Reservations may be secured from your travel agent. Remaining tournament dates are Aug. 5, 12, Sept. 2, 16 and 30, Oct. 14, 28; Nov. 11, 25 and Dec. 9.

No Cash For Vacation? 'Use Your Credit Power'

"Use Your Credit Power" emphasizes the First Arlington National Bank as announcement is made of a special promotion to the Hawaiian Islands beginning Oct. 1

"To most people a vacation is a necessity, not a luxury," says Mrs. Rose Marie Friedrich, manager of the travel department of the bank.

"After 50 weeks of hard work and much tension, two weeks of fun and relaxation are well earned Unfortunately, ready cash is not always available and we feel people sometimes forget the value of their credit power."

The First Arlinton National Bank travel department accepts most major credit cards as payment for trips and also encourages people to use the bank's "Line-O-Credit" program, according to Mrs Friedrich

THE TRAVEL agency's special Hawaiian Islands promotion features "play today and pay tomorrow" tours that depart every Sunday until Dec. 1, via American Airlines.

The tours will visit four islands and the price includes round trip air transportation, flower lei greeting, transfers, sightseeing, cocktail party and accommodations based on double occupancy at first class or deluxe hotels.

The superior two-week holiday is $449 plus tax and service, and the deluxe program is $529, plus tax and service

Mrs Friedrich says that anyone making a reservation on the Oct. 1 departure, deluxe tour, will be guests of the First Arlington National Bank at a luau in Honolulu

"Because October is 'Aloha' month in the Islands, we suggest early reservations for this trip," continued Mrs Friedrich.

A color brochure on the Hawaiian Islands tours and more detailed information on the bank's "Use Your Credit Power" program for vacations is available in the travel department of the First Arlington National Bank, corner of Campbell and Dunton in downtown Arlington Heights.

What do you think are the top tourist attractions in Europe and the Middle East?

We asked a few well-traveled friends that question the other evening and came up with a variety of answers.

The Louvre in Paris . . . the Houses of Parliament and Big Ben in London . . . the Trevi Fountain in Rome . . . The Egyptian Museum in Cairo.

Well, the folks at TWA — who have a real knack for making surveys — have done some research on the famous shrines and landmarks overseas that are the No. 1 attractions for sightseers.

Here's what they came up with:

LONDON — The Tower of London. We're told that 3 million visitors a year form a procession to the Tower to see the magnificent Crown Jewels, the Yeomen of the Guard (Beefeaters), the tame ravens, historical treasures, and the damp, dark cells where many famous persons were held prisoner. PARIS — The Eiffel Tower. It's still the granddaddy of Paris attractions. For eight francs ($1.44) you can buy a ticket that takes you clear to the top. It's a sensational view — but if you're short on time — or chicken about heights — try the second level where there's a fine restaurant. We think the view there is pretty spectacular. The food's good too.

GENEVA — The Wonder Fountain. This is an incredible sight. The fountain pumps 110 gallons of water every second, leaving the base at the amazing speed of 125 miles an hour and reaching a height of 470 feet before cascading down in the arch.

FRANKFORT — The Frankfort Zoo. This is surely one of the most elaborate zoos to be found anywhere in the world. Its animal population is more than 5,000. Among the special attractions you can watch them train elephants, lions and tigers.

LISBON — The Belem Tower and the National Coach Museum.

IRISH HONEYMOON

Aer Lingus-Irish, the Irish International Airline and Top Flight Tours have a honeymoon package for couples planning a wedding between November and March.

Northwest suburban honeymooners can have "that week to remember" in Ireland staying at top class hotels with breakfast every day, a free car, suggested list of itineraries all for $387 per person including round trip economy air fare from O'Hare Airport.

Even the brochure for the tour called "Honeymoon Ireland" has a romantic touch. It comes designed as a wedding invitation and outlines where to stay in Dublin, Killarney, Cork, Blarney, Galway, Connemara — all in the South of Ireland, which, of course, remains tranquil and at peace.

The newlyweds will find special flowers in their hotel room on arrival and champagne will be served with their first Irish dinner.

Before they leave from Shannon airport they will be presented with "a gallon of Irish cheer" made up of bottles of whiskey, gin, mead, Irish Mist and a special Irish moonshine called Potcheen.

"Second honeymooners" are eligible for this package too, according to Aer Lingus.

TOM'S TWISTER

What is 12 feet in diameter, holds 20 passengers and revolves 35 times a minute? It's Tom's Twister, a thrilling new ride at Six Flags Over Mid-America, southwest of St. Louis on I-44 west.

Centrifugal force is the key principle in ole Tom. When his cylindrical compartment reaches a speed fast enough to hold his passengers against the wall — the floor drops out

Tom's Twister is just one of numerous rides and attractions featured in Six Flags Over Mid-America. The park is open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. through Labor Day.

SHAPE UP AT A SPA

Now you can get healthier and tour Austria, Italy and Switzerland too.

It's all part of a deluxe three-week Health Spa Tour being offered by Spa Tours and Lufthansa Airlines, Sept. 14 to Oct. 6.

The Spa Tour headquarters will be Bad Obladis, a sunny Tyrolean spa that has been a retreat for European royalty since the 1500s.

The health and beauty program at Bad Obladis was designed by a famous European endocrinologist. Each guest is given an individual program based on his or her consultation with the resident doctor. Spa treatments include medicinal baths, taking the waters, diet and juice diets, Kneipp with modern equppment, sauna, massage and cosmetic healing.

Interspersed with the special cure treatments are excursions across the Austrian border into Italy and Switzerland.

Climax of the trip will be one night in Munich to celebrate the Oktoberfest.

Inclusive price of the tour, including air transportation from Chicago to Munich via Lufthansa economy class jet, is $875. Your travel agent has details.

$5-A-DAY GREEK HOLIDAYS

Olympic Airways offers 12 different packages in its $5-A-Day Tours.

The "combination holiday" brochure, available from Northwest suburban travel agents, spells out individual requests and then answers them with a tailored program to fit the need.

For example, the request "I'd like to start with four days in Athens, then receive a car with unlimited mileage (or railpass ticket) for nine days of touring through Greece" is answered by program number one.

Eleven other tours include Classical Greece, Corfu, Rhodes, Crete, Turkey, Paris and cruises to the Greek islands.

ANTIQUE FLEA MARKET

What promises to be the nation's largest urban flea market will open at Independence Mall in Philadelphia, Sunday, Aug. 6, continuing every Sunday through the beginning of November.

The new program will include more than 100 select antiques and crafts exhibits, special museum and historic displays, a large outdoor cafe area with live musical entertainment and weekly "happenings."

SOUVENIR HUNTERS

STANTON, Mo. — Women are more interested in buying souvenirs than are men, according to a survey conducted by the operators of Meramec Caverns. Eight of 10 women buy souvenirs at the cave while the figure for men is 4 of 10.

Both men and women prefer souvenirs with something about Jesse James on them. James and his gang hid out in the cave during the 1870s.

Airline Offers Golf Tourney For Amateurs

Jack Nicklaus makes competing in a golf tourney look easy, but how easy is it really?

United Air Lines, co-sponsor of the annual $200,000 Hawaiian Open, is now giving armchair golf "pros" an opportunity to find out for themselves by sponsoring the 1972 Hawaiian Amateur Golf Classic.

The Classic, designed by Pacific Golf Enterprises, consists of 54-hole stroke play tournaments on three of Hawaii's most beautiful and famous golf courses — Makaha Valley Inn and Country Club, Royal Kaanapali Golf Course and the Keauhou Kona Country Club. In all, 19 individual tournaments will be played, with the last one beginning Dec. 9.

Each tournament, open to all amateur golfers with established handicaps, will have its own individual winners, and the golfer posting the lowest net score will be crowned the 1972 Hawaiian Amateur Golf Classic Champion.

Entry fee is $368 (based on double occupancy, excluding air fare). For accompanying non-golfers, the cost is $230 (excluding air fare, based on double occupancy). For single golfers, the fee is $420.

INCLUDED IN THE fee are:

- 7 nights superior (or better) hotel accommodations at Makaha Valley Inn, Maui Surf and Kona Surf.
- 6 rounds of golf, including cart, at the Makaha Valley Inn and Country Club, Royal Kaanapali Golf Course and the Keauhou Kona Golf Course.
- Lei greeting.
- All ground transportation from airport to hotels.
- All porterage and luggage handling fees, tips and gratuities at hotels and golf courses.
- Arrival cocktail reception.
- Awards cocktail reception and tournament briefing.
- Tournament director and tournament escort.
- Prizes and tournament mementoes.

Women may compete in their own event apart from the Classic itself. Also offered to the women are tennis and bridge tournaments, Polynesian specialty cooking classes, shopping and sightseeing tours (optional) and an Aloha cocktail reception and awards banquet.

Reservations may be secured from your travel agent. Remaining tournament dates are Aug. 5, 12; Sept. 2, 16 and 30; Oct. 14, 28; Nov. 11, 25 and Dec. 9.

No Cash For Vacation? 'Use Your Credit Power'

"Use Your Credit Power" emphasizes the First Arlington National Bank as announcement is made of a special promotion to the Hawaiian Islands beginning Oct. 1.

"To most people a vacation is a necessity, not a luxury," says Mrs. Rose Marie Friedrich, manager of the travel department of the bank.

"After 50 weeks of hard work and much tension, two weeks of fun and relaxation are well earned. Unfortunately, ready cash is not always available and we feel people sometimes forget the value of their credit power."

The First Arlinton National Bank travel department accepts most major credit cards as payment for trips and also encourages people to use the bank's "Line-O-Credit" program, according to Mrs. Friedrich.

THE TRAVEL agency's special Hawaiian Islands promotion features "play today and pay tomorrow" tours that depart every Sunday until Dec. 1, via American Airlines.

The tours will visit four islands and the price includes round trip air transportation, flower lei greeting, transfers, sightseeing, cocktail party and accommodations based on double occupancy at first class or deluxe hotels.

The superior two-week holiday is $449 plus tax and service, and the deluxe program is $529, plus tax and service.

Mrs. Friedrich says that anyone making a reservation on the Oct. 1 departure, deluxe tour, will be guests of the First Arlington National Bank at a luau in Honolulu.

"Because October is 'Aloha' month in the Islands, we suggest early reservations for this trip," continued Mrs. Friedrich.

A color brochure on the Hawaiian Islands tours and more detailed information on the bank's "Use Your Credit Power" program for vacations is available in the travel department of the First Arlington National Bank, corner of Campbell and Dunton in downtown Arlington Heights.

SCLC's Study Not Best Step

This is no time for yet another study, even if the study is about a difficult and important topic — racism in the Northwest suburbs.

If there's racism at work here, the very nature of it makes it difficult to define. More relevant than a study is that men and women of good will unite to make certain that every American is treated equally here.

The source of our concern was the announcement recently that the Suburban Division of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) was planning to launch a study to determine the extent of local racism.

Labeled an "affirmative action program" by Clyde Broks, suburban SCLC chairman, the study will encompass educational opportunities for minority students, industrial hiring practices and open housing provisions.

The study is needed, according to Brooks, because of the increasing number of minority persons living in the suburbs and the expectation that more will be drawn here by the expanding labor market.

We concede that the SCLC's concern is legitimate. That concern was activated earlier this year after an incident in Hanover Park involving the cross-burning on the lawn of a family that had adopted a black child.

Racial attitudes in the Northwest suburbs have never been marked by a universally receptive attitude towards members of minority groups, especially black people.

When low-cost housing has raised its head as an issue here, the reaction has been a mixture of sincere and well-intelligent questions about the nature of the housing and the outright anti-black rhetoric ("I wouldn't want one of THEM living next door to me.")

Yet, it seems somewhat pointless for the SCLC to study the issue and attempt to come up with a definition of racism.

Is the man who opposes low or moderate-income housing a racist — or does he have other reasons to oppose such housing? What is a racist — is he defined by his stand on issues, or is there some internal invisible quality that makrs him?

Whatever the name, it's clear that in some areas members of minority groups don't get housing or job breaks. But, at the same time some strides have been made in employment and in other areas.

How to proceed? Continue to attack the problem at specific points, but do it with a pace which takes into consideration the conservatism of the suburbs.

We aren't suggesting, by any means, that the SCLC should give up the quest out here for the rights which every other citizen has.

We're suggesting a quiet but firm struggle, centered on specific problems in individual communities, will not polarize residents against the SCLC. The gains and defeats will not be as spectacular, but the benefits will include an easier acceptance of minority groups within the social framework of the Northwest suburbs.

One needs only to recall the resentment raised in 1968 by the Kerner Commission when it used "racist" to describe white America. Only a more moderate approach will be more effective in the Northwest suburbs.

Where To Leave A Note (Or Two)

Before I leave for work today I'd like to leave a note reminding somebody to take out the garbage and bring in the milk, preferably before one or both turn sour. But all my best note-leaving places are taken. And ther's no sense in putting a note ON the garbage because if anybody noticed the garbage in the first place there'd be no need to leave a note in the second place.

Like any well-organized household we have a bulletin board full of notes which nobody reads. There's the shrimp and pineapple recipe I clipped two years ago but any time I notice it I'm out of shrimp and the stores are closed — and reminders about semi-important appointments, like with the doctor and the dentist when nothing's wrong but we ought to have a checkup only not right now — and the name of a highly recommended upholsterer overlaid with a bulletin from the IRS about some new ruling which is why I won't be needing the upholsterer's name for another year.

Dorothy Meyer

Really urgent notes don't belong on the bulletin board.

Things such as today's garbage and milk detail, and the resetting of the only alarm clock in the house, and Mike calling to remind John about the softball game at 6 o'clock, and was the Terry who called Marilyn a sometimes date or her girlfriend with the low voice — these things need prime viewing space. Like on the bathroom mirror (it has to be the mirror — nobody around here reads toilet seats) or on the face of the television set (only if the cat is in the basement because he eats every piece of paper he can reach) or in the middle of the picture window (but then I have to leave another note to not close the drapes) or on the refrigerator door.

There was a time I considered the refrigerator door as the place most likely to succeed, but then everybody got so used to it they considered a note on the door as part of the decor. When we had to buy a new refrigerator Wally turned thumbs down on every model we looked at because "there must be something wrong with the door, it looks funny to me."

John says I'm no better than the rest of the family about noticing notes. He once reasoned that the best place to leave a note about resetting the alarm clock was under the alarm clock. Foolish boy. After having me for a mother for 19 years he should have known that anything that wakes me up out of a sound sleep is silenced through a reflex action born strictly out of panic and has nothing to do with my being conscious. The alarm clock could be resting in a pot of gold or a nest of rattlesnakes and I'd never know the difference.

Next he taped the note on the bathroom mirror so I'd see it when I brushed my teeth. He didn't realize that I always brush my teeth with my eyes closed because I can't stand the way I look first think in the morning. I even put my makeup on with my eyes closed which accounts for the way I look shortly after the first thing in the morning when I get to the office.

Now he tapes his notes to me on the coffee pot.

Lacking any place for me to leave a note for him I guess this is going to be another one of those days — I take out the garbage and we have sour milk doughnuts again.

The FENCE POST
Letters to the Editor

Politics is Politics and Misrepresentation is Misrepresentation ... but sometimes the twain does meet.

I take exception to a Fence Post letter in your newspaper on July 17 by Mr. Michael T. Taras of Arlington Heights.

In attacking Sen. Charles Percy's record for the elderly, Mr. Taras stated that "This man (Sen. Percy) has done nothing for the elderly — this man (Sen. Percy) is not fit to be your senator or mine."

Mr. Taras — if he is not purposely misrepresenting the facts — should take a closer look at Senator Percy's record for the elderly.

I quote only a few of the accomplishments of the Senator: As a member of the Senate Special Committee on the Aging, Senator Percy has had a great opportunity to help focus national attention on the problems of older Americans. He has introduced a package of 12 bills providing special approaches to the problems of transportation, employment, health care, housing, nursing homes and recreation for the elderly.

The Senator has spent more time and energy on the problems of the elderly than on any other single domestic issue in the last six years ... because the elderly are the hardest-hit victims of inflation, and too often the victims of neglect.

The Senate now is considering Senator Percy's "National Plan for the Elderly," which would accomplish the following:

—Assure those over 65 that they may earn up to $2,400 this year and $3,000 next year, and still retain all their Social Security benefits. (Eventually the earnings limit would be completely removed).

—Increase immediately Social Security benefits by 20 per cent across-the-board and provide automatic cost-of-living increases thereafter.

—Guarantee full Social Security benefits for widows.

—Include all costs of all prescription drugs under Medicare.

—Permit deduction of all medical expenses for taxpayers over 65.

—Assure the availability of nutritious meals for needy elderly citizens.

—Provide for fare reductions for the elderly on various modes of transportation during non-rush hours.

—Improve long-term nursing facilities through more effective standards, inspection, licensing and personal training.

—Fund the construction of community centers for the aging.

Adoption of this plan would mean a new national commitment to America's senior citizens.

These are the facts ... Let's hope that Mr. Taras is merely misinformed and not politicking. Let's set the record straight. Senator Percy is a friend of the elderly and his record shows that he does care.

Discarding Cash

Sometimes it's possible to do a b too well.

Take the government, which has always put great effort into making U.S. currency something very special in the physical sense, using the sturdiest paper and most indelible ink to guarantee durability and discourage counterfeiting.

The result is a currency uniquely resistant to wear and tear — something very special indeed, as any traveler who has had the self-destruct bills of many other nations crumble in his hands knows from personal experience.

Still, even the supertough greenbacks eventually wear out. Worn-out bills return whence they came, to the Federal Reserve, which in the past has disposed of them by the simple and efficient method of burning.

Simple, that is, until the environmental movement began to have an effect on public policies. With the widespread adoption of antipollution ordinances banning large-scale burning, the government is turning to other methods of disposing of its old money — currently about 2,500 tons a year with a face value of some $12 billion.

The Federal Reserve would like to join the current trend toward recycling, chopping up the tattered bills for reuse. Which raises a difficult question: What use?

After going through the shredders, the fluff that once was money is still green since removing that superindelible ink would be a very difficult and expensive process. And turning it into paper again — not good enough for new bills but suitable for top-quality stationery — is ruled out as too tempting and convenient for counterfeiters.

The government is looking into various industrial and construction possibilities, packing and other purposes, but so far the market can absorb only a fraction of the supply available.

So, as it stands, the government faces a real and growing problem of how to dispose of money.

Considering how budgets and deficits tend to run, who would ever have believed it possible?

Can A Donkey Survive On Olive Branches?

The "open" new politics' Democratic National Convention has come and gone. The four-day McGovern love feast and roll call party is over. What now? One reads of olive branches sticking out of all of George McGovern's pockets, but to whom are they extended? To Mayor Daley who broke the rules and was cast into outer darkness? To the 900,000 voters whose ballots for convention delegate were not recognized? Or are the olive branches extended to the group headed by Alderman Singer who were elected by nobody, their virtue being that they were for Senator McGovern. Maybe all the olive branches will be given to Jesse Jackson who managed to attain a place of distinction in the Illinois delegation, no mean feat for someone who is not a registered Democrat and has publicly endorsed Charles Percy for re-election.

The old political guidelines, so everybody says, do not apply anymore. So, maybe it is good politics to cast all the older leaders out and replace them with new faces unencumbered with the problems of being chosen by the people. All the same, it leaves me wondering whether the Democratic donkey can father new hope on a diet of olives.

Northwest Suburbs 'Good Host'

Recently High School Dist. 214 hosted the National Association of Student Council Convention, which brought a large gathering of student government leaders from throughout the country.

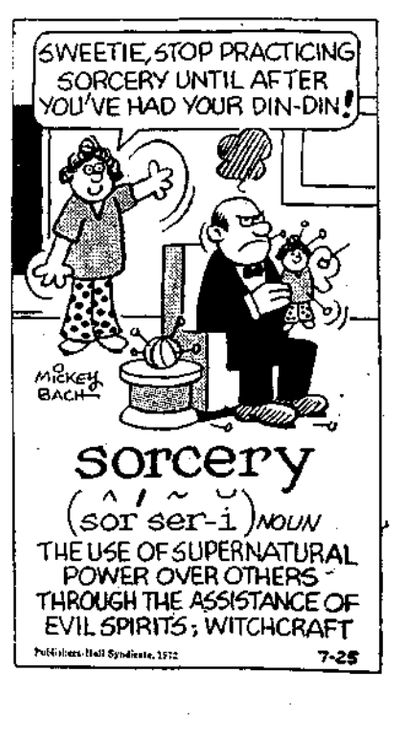

Forest View High School in Arlington Heights was the host school around which the five days of activities revolved. The other high schools in the district were also involved in the planning and helped in the running of the convention.

The theme of the National Association of Student Councils Convention was "Youth in Action," appropriate indeed as more and more students throughout the country are becoming involved in finding solutions to the problems which face us today.

The Connecticut delegation would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank all the students, parents, and adults who gave of their time, their homes, and of their hearts, in order that the 36th Annual NASC Convention could be the overwhelming success it was.

Still, even the supertough greenbacks eventually wear out. Worn-out bills return whence they came, to the Federal Reserve, which in the past has disposed of them by the simple and efficient method of burning.

Simple, that is, until the environmental movement began to have an effect on public policies. With the widespread adoption of antipollution ordinances banning large-scale burning, the government is turning to other methods of disposing of its old money — currently about 2,500 tons a year with a face value of some $12 billion.

The Federal Reserve would like to join the current trend toward recycling, chopping up the tattered bills for reuse. Which raises a difficult question: What use?

After going through the shredders, the fluff that once was money is still green since removing that superindelible ink would be a very difficult and expensive process. And turning it into paper again — not good enough for new bills but suitable for top-quality stationery — is ruled out as too tempting and convenient for counterfeiters.

The government is looking into various industrial and construction possibilities, packing and other purposes, but so far the market can absorb only a fraction of the supply available.

So, as it stands, the government faces a real and growing problem of how to dispose of money.

Considering how budgets and deficits tend to run, who would ever have believed it possible?

Can A Donkey Survive On Olive Branches?

The "open" new politics' Democratic National Convention has come and gone. The four-day McGovern love feast and roll call party is over. What now? One reads of olive branches sticking out of all of George McGovern's pockets, but to whom are they extended? To Mayor Daley who broke the rules and was cast into outer darkness? To the 900,000 voters whose ballots for convention delegate were not recognized? Or are the olive branches extended to the group headed by Alderman Singer who were elected by nobody, their virtue being that they were for Senator McGovern. Maybe all the olive branches will be given to Jesse Jackson who managed to attain a place of distinction in the Illinois delegation, no mean feat for someone who is not a registered Democrat and has publicly endorsed Charles Percy for re-election.

The old political guidelines, so everybody says, do not apply anymore. So, maybe it is good politics to cast all the older leaders out and replace them with new faces unencumbered with the problems of being chosen by the people. All the same, it leaves me wondering whether the Democratic donkey can father new hope on a diet of olives.

EDITORIAL: How should we determine if we need another hospital in the Northwest suburbs?

Thanks For The Boost

We wish to extend our deep appreciation for the wonderful way in which you handled our publicity for our Country Fair and Flea Market. It was a huge success and it has inspired us to go forth with bigger and better things. The Des Plaines Historical Museum was free to the public that day, and from our count 400 guests enjoyed the tour. Our Flea Market drew 64 dealers, from which just about everything was sold or displayed. Over 600 viewed and purchased articles of their choice.

Again we want to thank you for the publicity given us.

Northwest Suburbs 'Good Host'

Recently High School Dist. 214 hosted the National Association of Student Council Convention, which brought a large gathering of student government leaders from throughout the country.

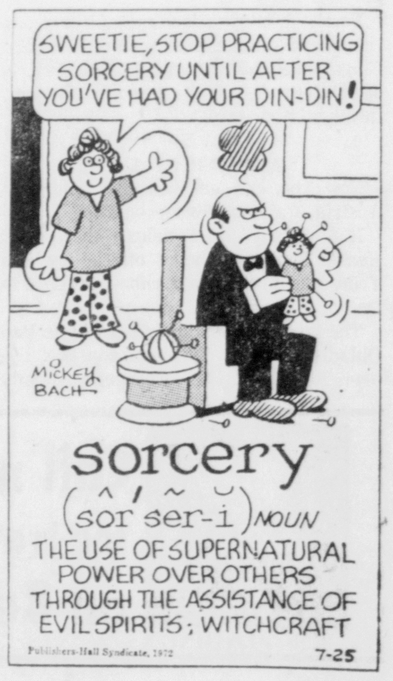

Forest View High School in Arlington Heights was the host school around which the five days of activities revolved. The other high schools in the district were also involved in the planning and helped in the running of the convention.

The theme of the National Association of Student Councils Convention was "Youth in Action," appropriate indeed as more and more students throughout the country are becoming involved in finding solutions to the problems which face us today.

The Connecticut delegation would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank all the students, parents, and adults who gave of their time, their homes, and of their hearts, in order that the 36th Annual NASC Convention could be the overwhelming success it was.

Business Today

by RON SCHERER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Trading stamp companies, around since 1896, have withstood the assaults of congressmen, consumer groups and angry housewives. Now they face the threat of discount stores.

The managements of such companies as Sperry & Hutchinson S&H, E.F. MacDonald Plaid Stamps, Triple S, Eagle and Blue Chip Stamps always have been nimble and aggresive. They now are hedging against a decline in their business by diversification. And they may need it if the major food chains have success with their "discount" stores.

The first eliminations came in February when A&P decided to open up A&P-W E O (Where Economy Originates) stores. The company says it will phase out Plaid Stamps from 300 stores and eventually may eliminate them entirely.

GRAND UNION and Acme Markets have done away with Green Stamps in certain areas. Grand Union stopped giving S&H Green stamps in the Washington, D.C., area on June 24 and some of its own Triple S stamps in the Hagerstown, Md., area.

"We feel that at present, in this very sophisticated marketplace, other advertising and promotional approaches might be more successful," a Grand Union spokesman explained.

"Stamps just are not an effective tool or device anmore," said Acme Markets.

A Trading Stamp Institute spokesman said stamp eliminations come in waves and cycles but admitted the business "has flattened out . . . plateaued." Other sources indicate the trading stamps volume has dropped in the last three years from $540 million to $450 million.

E. F. MacDONALD showed a loss last year and in its shareholders' report the company said about three-fourths of A&P's issuing outlets had dropped stamps and more may do so. Trading stamp officials like to point out A&P was the last one in the lick-and-stick business and the first one out. A&P retorts that it already has begun soaking up larger portions of the market with its discounting.

Stamp companies are trying to gear up for a downward trend. MacDonald and Sperry & Hutchinson have diversified, although both companies say trading stamps still are their most important business.

Consumers, Industry Crowd Airwaves

Pollution By Electronics

by LEA TONKIN

A clutter of noise in our gadget-laden society is causing electronic pollution.

From the beautician zapping away unwanted facial hair to the driver activating the ignition switch in his car and a sleuth making use of an electronic "bug," American consumers and industry are crowding the airwaves with a jumble of radio frequency (RF) energy.

So troublesome is this cacaphony of the airwaves that the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) is threatening a major crackdown on manufacturers producing the culprit polluters. The FCC, as policemen of the radio spectrum, is fanning its authority out into 10 new regional centers in an effort to step up regulatory activity. The first of these centers is in Park Ridge.

Radio noise produced as a by-product from the operation of electrical or electronic equipment is just one of the types of electronic pollution the agency seeks to manage. The control of undesired emissions from deliberate generators of RF energy, whether licensed or unlicensed, as well as frequency assignments to licensed stations are included in its task.

Bringing the gospel of spectrum compatibility to the industrial experts who can do something about it, FCC brass were on hand at a symposium held recently at Arlington Park Towers, Arlington Heights. The Institute of Electrical & Electronics Engineers, Inc. (IEEE), sponsored the national conference

"THE CONTROL of radio interference must constantly be held up as a goal to the electrical/electronics industry," said Herman Garlan, FCC's chief of the Radio Frequency Devices Branch, office of the chief engineer. The agency now has the regulatory authority to control radio interference (noise) potential of devices which produce RF energy as a normal by-product of operation, Garlan told conference participants.

"It includes noise generated by the commutator motor in a vacuum cleaner as well as the interference produced in the ignition system of a gas-fired engine — in automobiles, power lawn mowers, outboard motors, etc," he said. The common arc welder and fluorescent lights also fall in this category.

Garlan said the FCC is asking industry to adopt voluntary standards to control these unintentional RF emissions. He warned, however, that if "the radio noise situation becomes worse, the commission may have to move to exercise its jurisdiction in this area."

Deliberate generators of RF energy comprise another area to be regulated. Children's walkie talkies, high frequency welders and the epilator used to destroy unwanted facial hair are included in this cateogory. "As you can see, the FCC gets into everyone's hair," quipped Garlan. Licensed stations, which may radiate a signal beyond the area in which they are licensed to serve, are also in this category.

In contrast to the Department of Defense or aerospace programs, civilian use of RF-emitting receiving devices is generally not under the control of the same user. The result: polluters seldom experience the interference they cause and the recipients of this unwanted noise is usually unable to do anything about it.

THE COMMUNICATION systems for low flying aircraft, telephone operating equipment, computers and a myriad of other devices can go awry when bombarded by this pollution. So the FCC is trying the most simple means of keeping down this noise — going directly to the manufacturer for compliance.

Higher costs will result in some cases from the testing and installation of RF suppression (shielding) equipment. This is why the FCC must move slowly toward compliance, according to Garlan "Before we impose a requirement that will add to the cost of a product, we must be absolutely sure that the benefits to the general public will outweight the burden of increased cost to the several purchasers of the suppressed product," he said.

Domestic microwave ovens, ultrasonic medical equipment and certain other equipment will probably remain unchanged, the FCC executive said. However, glue-setting machines and plastic sealers are among the industrial products to be tested for compliance before they leave the plant.

RADIO INTERFERENCE is a greater than average problem for plants in the vicinity of an airport, according to Jim Klouda of Elite Electronic Engineering, Inc, Chicago. He served as publicity chairman for the IEEE symposium. RF noise can interfere with communications of low flying aircraft," he said.

Klouda's company offers a testing and consulting service to industry. The company can test the amount of RF energy transmitted at a facility and suggest shielding equipment to curb this often unintentinal noise.

The need for testing and shielding installation cropped up in the last 20 years as the use of RF energy generators increased, Klouda said. Shielding is commonly installed on the walls, floors, ceiling and doors of plants where heat sealing equipment or other electronic "noisemakers" are used in production, he said.

Nuclear Data Sees Trend Toward Improved Sales

A trend toward improved sales and operating results was reported by Richard J. Sandberg, president of Nuclear Data, Inc., Palatine. This was reported despite a net loss of $592,902, or 82 cents a share, for the three months ended May 31.

Sandberg reported that all company divisions performed as projected in the first quarter, including the Electronic Store Information Systems Division (ESIS), which was the primary contributor to the losses sustained, and the Scientific Systems Division, which returned to profitability.

The ESIS system is a new product which speeds customer checkout in chain store operations and greatly improves management access to information. Jewel Companies, Inc. has contracted to purchase 1000 ESIS terminals and 24 stores operated by Dominick's, a midwestern food retailing chain, are to be equipped with the system.

"It is anticipated," Sandberg reported, "that a private financing of $4 million will be consummated by the end of the second quarter. We need this additional working capital to relieve our current tight cash flow position and to permit planned expansion," he stated.

The company's net sales for the three months ended May 31 reached $3,353,095, compared to $2,346,765 for the same period last year.

Polo Food Merges With Allied Mills

Polo Food Products Company, subsidiary of Allied Mills, Inc., has merged with the parent company and surviving corporation

Shortly before the effective date of this meryer, Allied Mills completed the purchase of the plant and 17 acres of prime industrial land in Schaumburg, where Polo Foods has carried on its business since 1969

The Polo Food plant has been cited by a number of magazines and trade sources as one of the showcase food processing plants in the United States.

At the plant, Polo produces frozen diced poultry for institutional, commercial and retail markets. In addition, the company is moving into convenience foods for home and industry and will be marketing entrees and red meat products as well.

Swiss May Join UN, Retain Neutrality

by NORRIS WILLATT
London Financial Times-UPI

LUGANA, Switzerland — The Swiss, having decided to join the International Monetary Fund and having become involved in negotiations over a working arrangement with the Common Market, are now weighing the possibility of joining the United Nations without compromising their traditional neutrality.

A number of members of Parliament spoke in favor of the step when the subject was recently debated in the National Council, the lower house. They said that as the country was already participating in the "technical United Nations" it ought to take the ligical step of joining the "political United Nations."

Switzerland works with many nonpolitical United Nations agencies, such as those concerned with development and aid; peace-keeping missions, as in Cyprus and Korea; and economic cooperation. It subscribes also to United Nations bond issues.

Switzerland is associated with the Economic Commission for Europe, a regional agency of the United Nations, with headquarters in Geneva. It has participated in the drafting of international conventions by the International Law Commission. It also participated actively in the organization of the Stockholm Conference on the Environment.

DEBATE IS now under way at government level, even if it has not yet percolated down to the population as a whole, as to whether Switzerland's traditional concept of standing apart from conflicts among nations can be reconciled with membership of an organization concerned with the peaceful improvement of the human lot.

The difficulty, as the Swiss said, is that the United Nations also is committed to a policy of collective security, which involves its member nations in sanctions, including military sanctions, against nations regarded as offenders against the common code by its Security Council. Some Swiss say that this is more of an apparent than a real hurdle against membership, since neutrality and collective security have a common aim — the maintenance of peace.

They also point out that under Article 48 of the United Nations Charter, the Security Council has the power to exempt certain states from participating in sanctions. Also, in spite of not being a member, on occasion Switzerland has voluntarily committed itself to participation in a sanctions policy, as in the case of Rhodesia.

The desire to find a formula by which a neutral Switzerland could still accept and be accepted for membership is sharpened by a number of considerations. Thus, the more the Swiss become involved in the activities of the non-political agencies, the more ambiguous becomes their position as a non-member.

It also prevents them from having any say in the political decisions which determine the policies of the so-called technical agencies by which they are bound.

THEN, AS the United Nations moves more and more towards universality, the more isolated becomes the situation of neutral Switzerland. A new era in this respect has opened with the admission of mainland China to the agency. Now, as a result of the detente between West Germany and the Soviet Union and Poland, the two Germanys are expected shortly to apply for membership. The process may eventually spread to South and North Korea.

So, instead of two worlds of member and non-member countries, Switzerland might find itself isolated. Also, other nations have found United Nations membership perfectly compatible with the status of neutrality, notably Austria, with which lately Switzerland has formed close ties.

Such arguments obviously appeal strongly to younger members of Parliament, who have no personal experience of the application for United Nations membership. Most of their elders seem to favor the idea, but advocate moving more gradually. The only outright opposition comes from the Republican Movement, led by James Schwarzenbach, the leader also of the antiforeigner crusade in both Parliament and the country.

One thing is certain, before any concrete move is made, the issue would have to be submitted to a referendum.

Local Entries Impressive In State Softball Tourney

by JIM COOK

The letters "SS" mean "Super Sport" in the minds of automotive buffs, but in Des Plaines and specifically Rand Park over the weekend, the "SS" tag belonged to the supersports from South Stickney — the newly-crowned 1972 State 16-Inch Softball Tournament Champions.

South Stickney overcame a field of 32 entries in the 7th annual affair sponsored by the Illinois Park and Recreational Society and hosted by the Des Plaines Park District.

The two-day tourney was blistering both from the standpoint of the weather and of the overall play. Upsets, romps and thrillers all found a home within the high-caliber of competition.

The 10 area representatives didn't disappoint either. No less than seven survived the first round only because they eliminated the other three in head-to-head opening-round pairings.

Three of the seven battled their way into the quarter finals while two were still alive in the semi's Sunday afternoon. Park Ridge and South Stickney earned the championship berth, however, with the overall decision shifting to the "SS" boys by a 12-4 count.

Buffalo Grove, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove, Mount Prospect, Schaumburg and Des Plaines all advanced after first-round action and all by fairly decisive scores.

The Buffalo Grove Bruins, second-seeded in the prestigious tourney, sent Arlington Heights home with a quick exit, 18-3, by virtue of scoring in every inning and on homers by Ed Pitts, Bill Nay and Ken Irzal.

Palatine sent Wheeling home early, 15-8, but needed a seven-run outburst in the first extra inning to accomplish the feat. Mike Thomas and Mark Lindstrom paced the victors with three hits apiece.

Rolling Meadows had an easy time in extinguishing Joliet from the tourney, 14-7, as Jim Weber homered and Bob Koss notched three hits.

Tight defense paved the way for Elk Grove to oust Harvey, 8-3. Offensive support came from Tom Ostuoba's homer and a trio of safeties by Jim Miles.

Mount Prospect pulled the day's biggest upset by spanking third-seeded Evanston, 11-9, behind Marty Epperly's four singles and Len Kerber's three hits.

Schaumburg earned the stingy label after deflating DeKalb, 7-4, on the hurling of Jay Carlson. Vince Franzone and John Graffio ripped homers in the affair that found Schaumburg come storming from behind on the crest of a five-run sixth.

Des Plaines started fast with a five-run first and ended even more impressively with a seven-run seventh in crushing Prospect Heights, 18-7. Jerry Lipkin, Ed Gibis and winning pitcher Shelly Skidelsky hammered circuit clouts while Ed Fink blasted three hits.

THE BEST IN Sports

The competition stiffened considerably in the second round, but three local teams still found the winning track.

Highly regarded Buffalo Grove stifled Oak Park, 8-1, as Don Welker fired a nifty seven-hitter and Bob Nay, brother Bill and Joe Sharley supplied two hits apiece.

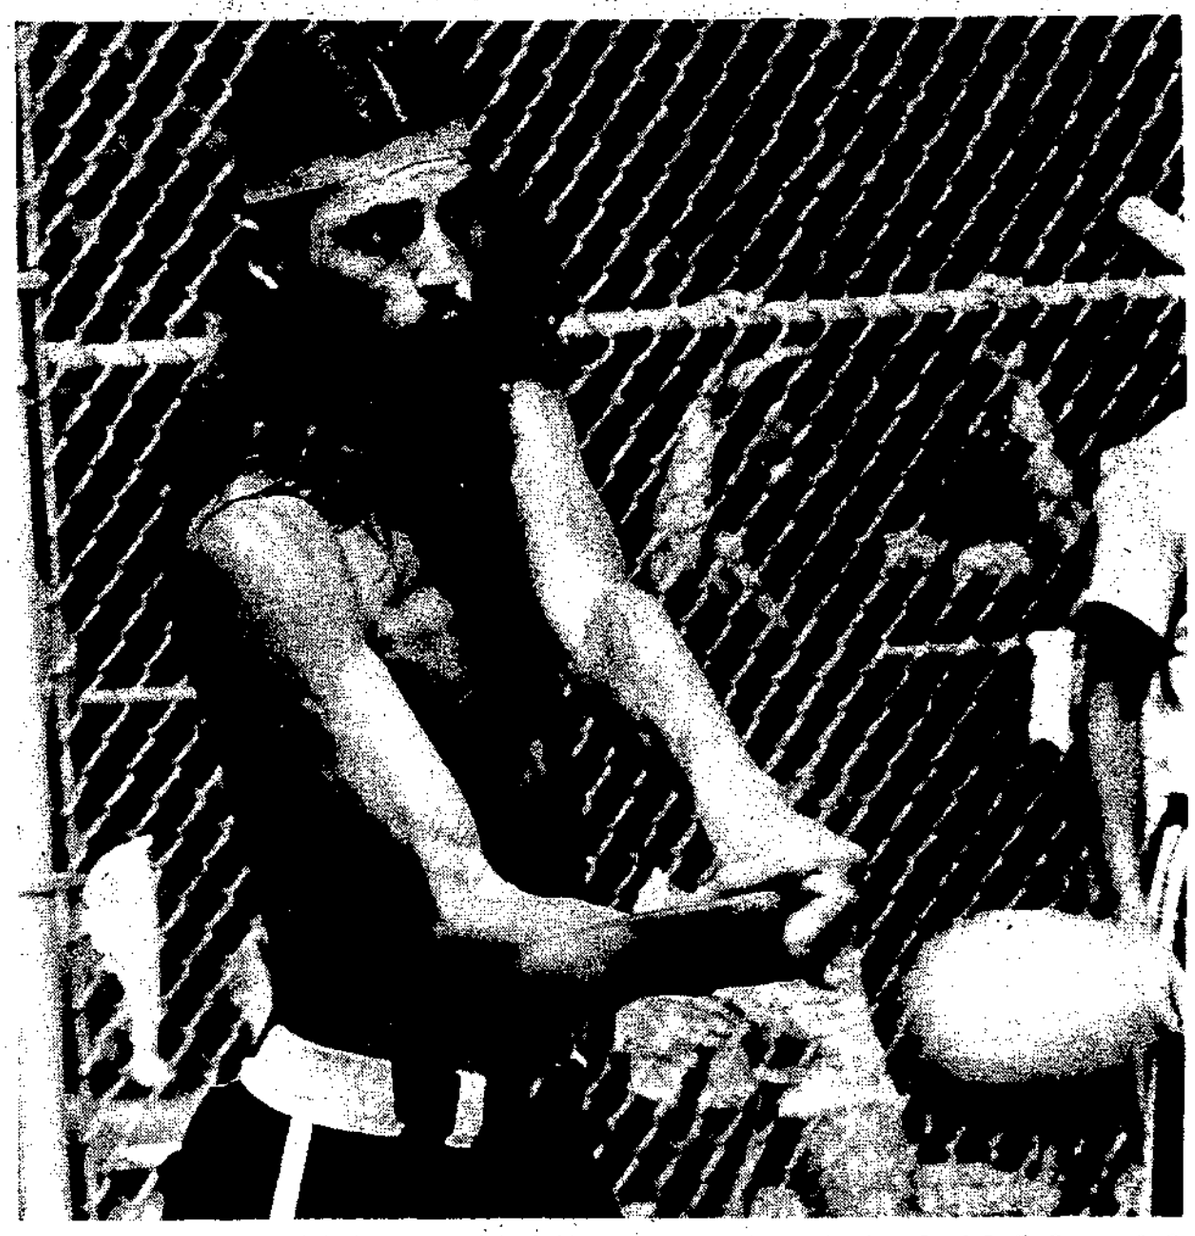

In another cutthroat contest for the area, Mount Prospect bombed Schaumburg, 14-4, on Bob Rickman's three runs batted in and two each by Bob Braun, Jack Olson, Marty Epperly and Les Preuss.

Des Plaines was the final area entry to land a quarterfinal berth by slamming Waukegan, 16-4. Shelly Skidelsky allowed just seven hits and Jerry Lipkin and Ed Gibis walloped homers.

The second round was the limit for Palatine which got raked by Glenview, 9-3, Rolling Meadows who was the lone shutout victim wound up on the short end of a 13-6 count against Franklin Park.

Buffalo Grove etched a 9-4 verdict over Glenview to gain the semi's via a 14-hit

Larry Everhart

There are plenty of people who find it hard to agree with Spiro Agnew on any subject. But I think it very difficult to dispute Agnew's musings on athletics.

What the Vice-President calls "values and lessons of sport in our society, the vital role competition plays in our system . . . much of my philosophy on life" was expounded in a national magazine article some time back and I thought that what he had to say made a lot of sense.

We have all heard the praises of athletics sung repeatedly, and even though we may agree, we may sometimes grow weary of hearing those praises. But sometimes it is good to remind ourselves of the value of competition — especially since much of what has been happening in this country in recent years runs counter to this idea.

There are those (who probably would not read sports pages or this column in the first place) who like to philosophize against games, to "put them in their places and call them inconsequential, childish time-users.

This column, at times in the past, has attempted to point out that athletics — especially on the level of youths, the level this newspaper mostly deals with — should not be overemphasized and must be kept in proper perspective.

While this is true, there is another side to the coin. Agnew put it well when he wrote, "I believe that sport, all sport, is one of the few bits of glue that hold our society together, one of the few activities where young people can proceed along traditional avenues, where objectives are clear, where the desire to win is not only permissible but encouraged, and, conversely, where a man can learn to lose without being destroyed by the experience."

This last point is an intriguing one. If you have a son in little league, high school sports or in any kind of youth competition, ask yourself the question. How well does he accept losing? Does it teach him humility, how to roll with the punches, or any other worthwhile lessons? Or is he merely learning — from you, from his coach, or otherwise — how to make excuses, how to blame everyone but himself for his failures?

Sometimes we tend to excuse nonachievers and underemphasize hard work. We generalize about certain groups of people and if they are not successful, we say it is the fault of environment or heredity or teachers.

These excuses have become more convenient in recent times because the trend of thought has been that it is bad to want to win too much. This runs counter to today's youth values of peace, love and brotherhood.

The real question is, how much is wanting to win too much? To me, that limit is not reached as long as no one is deliberately injured and rules are not broken.

What is the sense in taking the time and effort to compete (which is considerable in almost any league) if you don't play to win? Just because competition and learning values may be more important than winning in youth sports does not mean that it is wrong to go all-out. Successful athletes have never gotten where they are without maximum effort all along — to WIN.

Agnew put it well when he wrote, "I would not want to live in a society that did not include winning in its philosophy; that would have us live as identical lemmings, never trying to best anybody at anything, all headed in the same direction . . . striving not for individual excellence. I would rather be a failure in a competitive society — which is our inheritance — than to live in a waveless sea of nonachievers.

"Those who scoff at the desire to win in sport are those who basically are afraid to lose. They won't try because they do not want to risk failing."

Continuing on this train of thought, one might ask, how great are the consequences of failing? Although we try not to think negatively, what happens if we do lose?

Unfortunately, our society being what it is, losing can be a trauma. A permanent psychological scar might be left on a young boy who strikes out in a crucial situation in his team's little league championship game, or a high school kid who fumbles on the two-yard line in the big game of the year or misses the final deciding shot in a basketball tournament game. He will suffer tremendously and the bitter taste might stay with him for a long time. The same can be true on a larger scale — in one's job or personal life.

Yet, is failure in sports so undesirable that it is justification not to try as hard as one can all the time? Should we slight the importance of winning? Here is where many have a difference of opinion, and hers is where I again concur with Agnew's words: "A man who has not known failure cannot fully appreciate success. You can't know pleasure in any greater degree than you have known pain."

If this were not the case, sports would not be worth playing. In fact, they would not exist as we know them. Victory was that much sweeter for the New York Mets and their fans three years ago when they won the World Series simply because the Mets for years had been the laughing stock or professional sports.

To use more local examples, the Cubs and their fans went deliriously wild with joy in 1969 when the team spent most of the season in first place — because the Cubs had been in the second division most of the preceeding 24 years. To a lesser extent, the White Sox have had a big surge in attendance and fan excitement in the last year or so because the team was pathetic in the three seasons before.

So the moral of the story is this: It is not wrong to want to win badly even if you aren't a pro. This applies to you when you are on the golf course, bowling alley, playing ping-pong or poker. It is so because this country is based on competition. And what's so wrong about that?

Don't get me wrong. I am not necessarily a Spiro Agnew fan. I have not decided how I will vote in November and even if I knew, I am not a political editorial writer.

But I must agree with Spiro on the broad subject of athletic competition.

Lions Claw 1st Place From Ridge, 2-0

by JIM COOK

The Ninth District has in one week,, probably more to settle than the recently adjourned Democratic National Convention.

The standings took another rollercoaster ride Sunday when Logan Square, behind the combined two-hit efforts of hurlers Ken Martin and Jim Miller, blanked Park Ridge, 2-0.

Another jewel of a pitching battle that has characterized district play this season unfolded at 11:30 Sunday morning with Martin opposing Park Ridger Greg Ciezadlo.

The two magicians traded three scoreless innings before Martin retired with a worn-out arm. Miller immediately took up the slack through a magnificent four-inning, no-hit relief stint, but had to sweat until the sixth when the Lions finally solved Ciezadlo.

Jim Bucaro, author of a game-breaking extra-inning homer just two nights previous, slammed another roundtripper to open the last of the sixth to puncture the impressive scoreless streak.

Bucaro hammered a Ciezadlo fastball well over the left-centerfield fence for what proved to be the winner, but Ed Collins started a campaign for an insurance marker with a line single to left. Two errors and a weird fielder's choice later, Collins was across the cushion that was never needed.

Prior to the Lions' decisive sixth, both teams had one solid opportunity to break the contest open. Logan Square, despite stranding two runners in each of the first and third frames, passed up a golden chance in the fifth.

Tom Chapman opened the stanza with only the Lions' third hit off Ciezadlo and scampered to second on a wild pitch while Martin was drawing a pass.

With nobody out and the heart of Coach Larry Nomellini's order up, Ciezadlo calmly fanned Steve Bobowski, erased Joe Bombicino on a routine pop to short and barely preserved his shutout when Stan Bobowski drilled a line drive directly at the rightfielder.

Park Ridge was quick to reply in the top of the sixth as back-to-back Lion boots put the two leadoff hitters aboard. A walk to Russ Anderson filled the bases, but after snagging Rick Lloyd's drive to left, Mike Cook thwarted any attempt by the Ridge baserunners to advance with a perfect strike into the infield.

Chapman, probably one of the most underrated catchers in the circuit, instigated a doubleplay that afforded Miller the luxury of escaping without danger.

Tom fired a pickoff strike to Bombicino at first which resulted in the baserunner being nailed for running out of the basepath while the return throw from Bombicino to Chapman at the plate cut down Chuck Fahrner who was attempting to score on the rundown

Chen, Sobieski Pace Des Plaines

by LARRY EVERHART

The unexpected has become the expected in the American Legion Ninth District baseball race, and Sunday's game between Des Plaines and Arlington Heights fit the pattern.

It is impossible to count how many times the league lead has changed hands or how many times a team has defeated another club higher in the standings. But both occurred Sunday — though neither team playing at Recreation Park took first place — when Des Plaines staved off Arlington for a 6-4 victory.

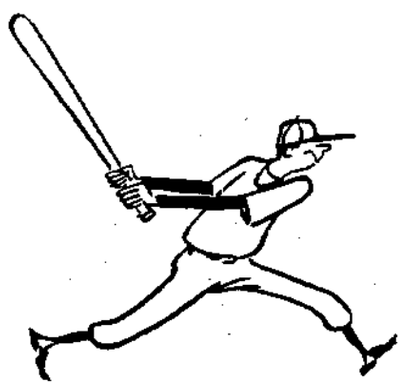

Heights could have been tied for first with a victory since Logan Square was beating Park Ridge at the same time. Des Plaines is probably out of the race but considered about the equal of the other top teams.

Actually, the regular-season race — probably the closest in league history and due to conclude in hectic fashion this week — means nothing but pride and a trophy. All teams automatically are in the league tournament, which will be the sole determining factor regarding which team represents the district in the County playoffs. (Arlington Heights is seeded directly to the state tourney here because of the host post rule).

Getting back to Sunday's clash, Bob Chen's three hits in four at-bats led Des Plaines' 10-hit attack and Bob Sobieski turned in three-plus innings of one-hit relief for the decision. Arlington's Bert Newman duplicated Chen's three-for-four feat. Both, naturally enough, had done well in the league all-star game the day before.

Heights drew first blood in the first when Newman singled, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on an error. Des Plaines got that one back in the second when Rich Haaning singled, also stole and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

The visitors of Post 36 hit Arlington starter Kevin Donahue with three in the third for a 4-1 lead when Chen singled,

Randy Jespersen doubled, Steve Scholten singled and all scored — the last run on another miscue.

Arlington cut the gap to 4-3 in the fourth on a walk, singles by Tony Fricano and Newman and an error. Heights could have had more, but a deep fly by Mark Leonhard was pulled in by Haaning for the third out with the bases loaded.

Dale Schoenbeck drove in what proved to be the winning run in the fifth with a single after a walk and another hit by Haaning.

Arlington made it 5-4 in the same inning when Zare singled, stole second and third and scored on Fricano's sacrifice fly. But Des Plaines added an insurance tally in the sixth.

The second out of that inning was a spectacular over-the-shoulder catch by Bob Harth in right field with two baserunners on their way. Harth doubled off one runner, but the other scored before the third out, tagging up after the catch.

Both teams had chances to score more, each stranding seven runners. But it was a long and interesting afternoon.

Paddock Olympics A Week Away

While much of the national interest is focused on Munich, Germany for the Summer Olympics, local enthusiasm is building to a crescendo for the Sixth Annual Paddock Olympics which are scheduled in one week at Conant High School.

Host Schaumburg Park District will welcome 10 other area participating contingents to the World Series of Track for youngsters ranging in age from 8-13.

The two-day affair features 10 events that are guaranteed to challenge the skill and endurance of boys and girls on both an individual and team basis.

Competition in the standing long jump, 50 and 100-yard dashes, jump rope, softball throw, kickball, tennis singles and basketball free-throw shooting will be contested on the individual level while team battles will develop in the shuttle relay and tug-of-war events.

Handsome rewards provide a great incentive. Each contestant, regardless of his or her performance in actual competition, will receive an emblem-type patch signifying participation in the festivities.

The winning park district will take home the mammoth traveling team trophy and may display the hardware for one year after which a permanent plaque will be awarded.

In addition to these ornaments, ribbons will be distributed to the first five positions in each individual event and to the first three places in team divisions.

Joining Schaumburg in the quest for the prestigious title will be defending champion Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Salt Creek and Wheeling.

Palatine, the only two-time winner of the crown, captured honors in both 1967 and 1968 before River Trails derailed the dynasty in 1969. Roselle conquered in 1970 before Arlington rallied for the 1971 crown.

The two-day tourney was blistering both from the standpoint of the weather and of the overall play. Upsets, romps and thrillers all found a home within the high-caliber of competition.

The 10 area representatives didn't disappoint either. No less than seven survived the first round only because they eliminated the other three in head-to-head opening-round pairings.

Three of the seven battled their way into the quarter finals while two were still alive in the semi's Sunday afternoon. Park Ridge and South Stickney earned the championship berth, however, with the overall decision shifting to the "SS" boys by a 12-4 count.

Buffalo Grove, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove, Mount Prospect, Schaumburg and Des Plaines all advanced after first-round action and all by fairly decisive scores.

The Buffalo Grove Bruins, second-seeded in the prestigious tourney, sent Arlington Heights home with a quick exit, 18-3, by virtue of scoring in every inning and on homers by Ed Pitts, Bill Nay and Ken Irzal.

Palatine sent Wheeling home early, 15-8, but needed a seven-run outburst in the first extra inning to accomplish the feat. Mike Thomas and Mark Lindstrom paced the victors with three hits apiece.

Rolling Meadows had an easy time in extinguishing Joliet from the tourney, 14-7, as Jim Weber homered and Bob Koss notched three hits.

Tight defense paved the way for Elk Grove to oust Harvey, 8-3. Offensive support came from Tom Ostuoba's homer and a trio of safeties by Jim Miles.

Mount Prospect pulled the day's biggest upset by spanking third-seeded Evanston, 11-9, behind Marty Epperly's four singles and Len Kerber's three hits.

Schaumburg earned the stingy label after deflating DeKalb, 7-4, on the hurling of Jay Carlson. Vince Franzone and John Graffio ripped homers in the affair that found Schaumburg come storming from behind on the crest of a five-run sixth.

Des Plaines started fast with a five-run first and ended even more impressively with a seven-run seventh in crushing Prospect Heights, 18-7. Jerry Lipkin, Ed Gibis and winning pitcher Shelly Skidelsky hammered circuit clouts while Ed Fink blasted three hits.

THE BEST IN Sports

The competition stiffened considerably in the second round, but three local teams still found the winning track.

Highly regarded Buffalo Grove stifled Oak Park, 8-1, as Don Welker fired a nifty seven-hitter and Bob Nay, brother Bill and Joe Sharley supplied two hits apiece.

In another cutthroat contest for the area, Mount Prospect bombed Schaumburg, 14-4, on Bob Rickman's three runs batted in and two each by Bob Braun, Jack Olson, Marty Epperly and Les Preuss.

Des Plaines was the final area entry to land a quarterfinal berth by slamming Waukegan, 16-4. Shelly Skidelsky allowed just seven hits and Jerry Lipkin and Ed Gibis walloped homers.

The second round was the limit for Palatine which got raked by Glenview, 9-3, Rolling Meadows who was the lone shutout victim wound up on the short end of a 13-6 count against Franklin Park.

Buffalo Grove etched a 9-4 verdict over Glenview to gain the semi's via a 14-hit

Larry Everhart

There are plenty of people who find it hard to agree with Spiro Agnew on any subject. But I think it very difficult to dispute Agnew's musings on athletics.

What the Vice-President calls "values and lessons of sport in our society, the vital role competition plays in our system . . . much of my philosophy on life" was expounded in a national magazine article some time back and I thought that what he had to say made a lot of sense.

We have all heard the praises of athletics sung repeatedly, and even though we may agree, we may sometimes grow weary of hearing those praises. But sometimes it is good to remind ourselves of the value of competition — especially since much of what has been happening in this country in recent years runs counter to this idea.

There are those (who probably would not read sports pages or this column in the first place) who like to philosophize against games, to "put them in their places and call them inconsequential, childish time-users.

This column, at times in the past, has attempted to point out that athletics — especially on the level of youths, the level this newspaper mostly deals with — should not be overemphasized and must be kept in proper perspective.

While this is true, there is another side to the coin. Agnew put it well when he wrote. "I believe that sport, all sport, is one of the few bits of glue that hold our society together, one of the few activities where young people can proceed along traditional avenues, where objectives are clear, where the desire to win is not only permissible but encouraged and, conversely, where a man can learn to lose without being destroyed by the experience."

This last point is an intriguing one. If you have a son in little league, high school sports or in any kind of youth competition, ask yourself the question, How well does he accept losing? Does it teach him humility, how to roll with the punches, or any other worthwhile lessons? Or is he merely learning — from you, from his coach, or otherwise — how to make excuses, how to blame everyone but himself for his failures?

Sometimes we tend to excuse nonachievers and underemphasize hard work. We generalize about certain groups of people and if they are not successful, we say it is the fault of environment or heredity or teachers.

These excuses have become more convenient in recent times because the trend of thought has been that it is bad to want to win too much. This runs counter to today's youth values of peace, love and brotherhood.

The real question is, how much is wanting to win too much? To me, that limit is not reached as long as no one is deliberately injured and rules are not broken.

What is the sense in taking the time and effort to compete (which is considerable in almost any league) if you don't play to win? Just because competition and learning values may be more important than winning in youth sports does not mean that it is wrong to go all-out. Successful athletes have never gotten where they are without maximum effort all along — to WIN.

Agnew put it well when he wrote, "I would not want to live in a society that did not include winning in its philosophy; that would have us live as identical lemmings, never trying to best anybody at anything, all headed in the same direction . . . striving not for individual excellence. I would rather be a failure in a competitive society — which is our inheritance — than to live in a waveless sea of nonachievers.

"Those who scoff at the desire to win in sport are those who basically are afraid to lose. They won't try because they do not want to risk failing."

Continuing on this train of thought, one might ask, how great are the consequences of failing? Although we try not to think negatively, what happens if we do lose?

Unfortunately, our society being what it is, losing can be a trauma. A permanent psychological scar might be left on a young boy who strikes out in a crucial situation in his team's little league championship game, or a high school kid who fumbles on the two-yard line in the big game of the year or misses the final deciding shot in a basketball tournament game. He will suffer tremendously and the bitter taste might stay with him for a long time. The same can be true on a larger scale — in one's job or personal life.

Yet, is failure in sports so undesirable that it is justification not to try as hard as one can all the time? Should we slight the importance of winning? Here is where many have a difference of opinion, and hers is where I again concur with Agnew's words: "A man who has not known failure cannot fully appreciate success. You can't know pleasure in any greater degree than you have known pain."

If this were not the case, sports would not be worth playing. In fact, they would not exist as we know them. Victory was that much sweeter for the New York Mets and their fans three years ago when they won the World Series simply because the Mets for years had been the laughing stock or professional sports.

To use more local examples, the Cubs and their fans went deliriously wild with joy in 1969 when the team spent most of the season in first place — because the Cubs had been in the second division most of the preceeding 24 years. To a lesser extent, the White Sox have had a big surge in attendance and fan excitement in the last year or so because the team was pathetic in the three seasons before.

So the moral of the story is this: It is not wrong to want to win badly even if you aren't a pro. This applies to you when you are on the golf course, bowling alley, playing ping-pong or poker. It is so because this country is based on competition. And what's so wrong about that?

Don't get me wrong. I am not necessarily a Spiro Agnew fan. I have not decided how I will vote in November and even if I knew, I am not a political editorial writer.

But I must agree with Spiro on the broad subject of athletic competition.

Lions Claw 1st Place From Ridge, 2-0

by JIM COOK

The Ninth District has in one week,, probably more to settle than the recently adjourned Democratic National Convention.

The standings took another roller-coaster ride Sunday when Logan Square, behind the combined two-hit efforts of hurlers Ken Martin and Jim Miller, blanked Park Ridge, 2-0.

Another jewel of a pitching battle that has characterized district play this season unfolded at 11:30 Sunday morning with Martin opposing Park Ridger Greg Ciezadlo.

The two magicians traded three scoreless innings before Martin retired with a worn-out arm. Miller immediately took up the slack through a magnificent four-inning, no-hit relief stint, but had to sweat until the sixth when the Lions finally solved Ciezadlo.

Jim Bucaro, author of a game-breaking extra-inning homer just two nights previous, slammed another roundtripper to open the last of the sixth to puncture the impressive scoreless streak.

Bucaro hammered a Ciezadlo fastball well over the left-centerfield fence for what proved to be the winner, but Ed Collins started a campaign for an insurance marker with a line single to left. Two errors and a weird fielder's choice later, Collins was across the cushion that was never needed.

Prior to the Lions' decisive sixth, both teams had one solid opportunity to break the contest open. Logan Square, despite stranding two runners in each of the first and third frames, passed up a golden chance in the fifth.

Tom Chapman opened the stanza with only the Lions' third hit off Ciezadlo and scampered to second on a wild pitch while Martin was drawing a pass.

With nobody out and the heart of Coach Larry Nomellini's order up, Ciezadlo calmly fanned Steve Bobowski, erased Joe Bombicino on a routine pop to short and barely preserved his shutout when Stan Bobowski drilled a line drive directly at the rightfielder.

Park Ridge was quick to reply in the top of the sixth as back-to-back Lion boots put the two leadoff hitters aboard. A walk to Russ Anderson filled the bases, but after snagging Rick Lloyd's drive to left, Mike Cook thwarted any attempt by the Ridge baserunners to advance with a perfect strike into the infield.

Chapman, probably one of the most underrated catchers in the circuit, instigated a doubleplay that afforded Miller the luxury of escaping without danger.

Tom fired a pickoff strike to Bombicino at first which resulted in the baserunner being nailed for running out of the basepath while the return throw from Bombicino to Chapman at the plate cut down Chuck Fahrner who was attempting to score on the rundown

Chen, Sobieski Pace Des Plaines

by LARRY EVERHART

The unexpected has become the expected in the American Legion Ninth District baseball race, and Sunday's game between Des Plaines and Arlington Heights fit the pattern.

It is impossible to count how many times the league lead has changed hands or how many times a team has defeated another club higher in the standings. But both occurred Sunday — though neither team playing at Recreation Park took first place — when Des Plaines staved off Arlington for a 6-4 victory.

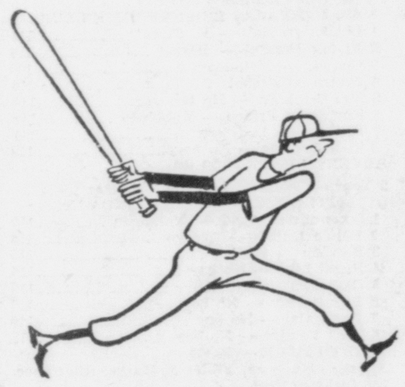

Heights could have been tied for first with a victory since Logan Square was beating Park Ridge at the same time. Des Plaines is probably out of the race but considered about the equal of the other top teams.

Actually, the regular-season race — probably the closest in league history and due to conclude in hectic fashion this week — means nothing but pride and a trophy. All teams automatically are in the league tournament, which will be the sole determining factor regarding which team represents the district in the County playoffs. (Arlington Heights is seeded directly to the state tourney here because of the host post rule).

Getting back to Sunday's clash, Bob Chen's three hits in four at-bats led Des Plaines' 10-hit attack and Bob Sobieski turned in three-plus innings of one-hit relief for the decision. Arlington's Bert Newman duplicated Chen's three-for-four feat. Both, naturally enough, had done well in the league all-star game the day before.

Heights drew first blood in the first when Newman singled, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on an error. Des Plaines got that one back in the second when Rich Haaning singled, also stole and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

The visitors of Post 36 hit Arlington starter Kevin Donahue with three in the third for a 4-1 lead when Chen singled,

Randy Jespersen doubled, Steve Scholten singled and all scored — the last run on another miscue.

Arlington cut the gap to 4-3 in the fourth on a walk, singles by Tony Fricano and Newman and an error. Heights could have had more, but a deep fly by Mark Leonhard was pulled in by Haaning for the third out with the bases loaded.

Dale Schoenbeck drove in what proved to be the winning run in the fifth with a single after a walk and another hit by Haaning.

Arlington made it 5-4 in the same inning when Zare singled, stole second and third and scored on Fricano's sacrifice fly. But Des Plaines added an insurance tally in the sixth.

The second out of that inning was a spectacular over-the-shoulder catch by Bob Harth in right field with two baserunners on their way. Harth doubled off one runner, but the other scored before the third out, tagging up after the catch.

Both teams had chances to score more, each stranding seven runners. But it was a long and interesting afternoon.

Paddock Olympics A Week Away

While much of the national interest is focused on Munich, Germany for the Summer Olympics, local enthusiasm is building to a crescendo for the Sixth Annual Paddock Olympics which are scheduled in one week at Conant High School.

Host Schaumburg Park District will welcome 10 other area participating contingents to the World Series of Track for youngsters ranging in age from 8-13.

The two-day affair features 10 events that are guaranteed to challenge the skill and endurance of boys and girls on both an individual and team basis.

Competition in the standing long jump, 50 and 100-yard dashes, jump rope, softball throw, kickball, tennis singles and basketball free-throw shooting will be contested on the individual level while team battles will develop in the shuttle relay and tug-of-war events.

Handsome rewards provide a great incentive. Each contestant, regardless of his or her performance in actual competition, will receive an emblem-type patch signifying participation in the festivities.

The winning park district will take home the mammoth traveling team trophy and may display the hardware for one year after which a permanent plaque will be awarded.

In addition to these ornaments, ribbons will be distributed to the first five positions in each individual event and to the first three places in team divisions.

Joining Schaumburg in the quest for the prestigious title will be defending champion Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Salt Creek and Wheeling.

Palatine, the only two-time winner of the crown, captured honors in both 1967 and 1968 before River Trails derailed the dynasty in 1969. Roselle conquered in 1970 before Arlington rallied for the 1971 crown.

Palatine Victim Of 'Walking Wounded'

Not even a ruptured Achilles tendon could keep Norwood Park's Nick Colletti on the bench in Sunday's Ninth District game, and Palatine is the worse for it.

Colletti, an All-Star selection, suffered the painful injury several weeks ago and was supposed to be out for the remainder of the season, but he has pinch hit a few times and even hobbled through one entire game to help his club. And he did it again Sunday.

With the score tied at 4-4 in the bottom of the sixth, Colletti stepped in and lashed a pinch hit three-run homer to lift Norwood Park to a 7-4 victory over Post 690. The loss dropped Palatine to 9-6 in the Ninth District.

Colletti's clutch home run was set up when Norwood's winning pitcher, Tom Ward, beat out a bunt single to start the sixth. After Norb Kosinski walked, Palatine's starter Randy Jones was relieved by John Ericson. Ericson got Steve Schultz on strikes, but then Colletti stroked his game-winning blast and simultaneously pushed Palatine back to one-and-one-half games off the pace set by league-leading Logan Square.

Norwood's first four runs were all accounted for by Lee Larson. Larson poked a solo homer with two out in the third for the game's first run, then hit a three-run shot in the fifth after Schultz and Carl Andrews had singled.

Palatine scored twice in the fourth giving Post 690 a temporary 2-1 lead. Gary Pemberton led off the frame by reaching on an error, but two ground outs followed and it appeared that he would be left stranded. However, George Pattee walked, and then both runners moved into scoring position on stolen bases. Then Jones helped himself by ripping a base hit to bring in both runners.

Down 4-2 heading into the top of the sixth, Post 690 tied it as Keith Steelman and Jene Bell opened the inning with back-to-back homers. But the tie didn't last long — Nick Colletti saw to that.

Jones was charged with six runs, all of them earned, in his five complete innings plus the two batters he faced in the sixth. He struck out six and walked three. Ward allowed only five hits and fanned four Palatine hitters.

Olympic Feats Of 1900

(One of a series on extraordinary happenings in each of the 16 modern Olympic Games.)

PARIS, 1900 — Prior to the Games, the organizers announced that "valuable honorary prizes" would be awarded to all champions and placed competitors.

Subsequently there was considerable trouble, even bitter controversy, over the prizes which were presented. These included such things as books and umbrellas! No proper Olympic medals had been made.

Many years after, by order of the International Olympic Committee, these medals were struck and presented to the champions and placed competitors at Paris. Unfortunately, it is on record that many of these medals had to be awarded posthumously.

For the first and only time in Olympic history, professional events were held at the Paris Games. The results, of course, were later expunged from the Olympic records. Winner of the professional high and broad jump was the Irish-American Mike Sweeney who, five years earlier, had set the world amateur high jump record of 6 feet 5 5/8 inches. In the meantime, he had taken up coaching at the Hill School, New York and had been declared a professional by the American AAU.

Addison Trail Defeats Meadows

Addison Trail broke a long Rolling Meadows winning streak in High School Summer League play by posting a 4-3 victory over the Mustangs Friday night.

The Blazers scored all four of their runs in the first inning before an out was recorded. Addison jumped all over Rolling Meadows starting pitcher Dave Thorstensen as the leadoff man walked and was followed by five consecutive singles to score all four runs.

Rolling Meadows coach Al Otto brought in Bob Schmidt, who pitched perfect ball through the fifth inning.

The Mustangs, batting for the last time in the sixth inning of a darkness-shortened game, tallied all three of their runs.

Scott Green led off the sixth with a walk, Steve Breitbeil singled and Rick Sidor was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Joe Riplinger singled in Green and Ray Pettersen delivered a base hit score two more. Another walk filled the bases again, but a called third strike set the Mustangs down.

attack that featured three RBI's by Don Welker and two hits each by Welker, Greg Burzenski, Ed Pitts and Dewey Hrycrk.

Des Plaines kept pace at the expense of Mount Prospect, 8-6, in a hard-fought engagement that found Prospect's three-run seventh-inning rally fall short. Jerry Lipkin, Ed Gibis and Gary Peckler paced the winners with two hits each.

The semis were the end of the line as far as a possible local champion was concerned. Buffalo Grove drew eventual titlist South Stickney in the upper bracket and bowed out in a thriller, 7-6.

The Bruins rallied for a 6-6 deadlock in the top of the seventh on Don Welker's two-out run-scoring triple, but Stickeny pushed the winning marker home in the last of the seventh on a single and a triple.

Park Ridge, a late entry into the tournament as far as drawing up rosters, etc., wiped out Des Plaines' hopes for the state crown, 14-5.

Top Cyclists At Santa Fe

Many of the top professional motorcycle riders in the nation will compete at Santa Fe Speedway Wednesday night, as the southwest side clay oval hosts The George Mack Classic, a 13-event American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned card on the half-mile clay oval. Starting time for the thrill-a-minute, two-wheeled action is 8:30 p.m. Time trials come one-half hour before racetime.

Led by present national point leader Mark Brelsford from San Bruno, Calif, the cream of the national cycling crop will vie for top honors in a 10-lap feature race. The George Mack Classic battle on Wednesday night could be a preview of the fierce competition in the Short-Track Grand National Championship scheduled at Santa Fe Speedway for Aug. 11.

Santa Fe Speedway hosts hard-charging motorcycle shows every Wednesday night. Chicagoland's center for exclusive AMA cycling action features the finest riders in the nation. Santa Fe Speedway also highlights quick-moving clay track stock car races each Saturday and Sunday night.

Santa Fe Speedway is located at 91st and Wolf Road.

Palatine Victim Of 'Walking Wounded'

Not even a ruptured Achilles tendon could keep Norwood Park's Nick Colletti on the bench in Sunday's Ninth District game, and Palatine is the worse for it.

Colletti, an All-Star selection, suffered the painful injury several weeks ago and was supposed to be out for the remainder of the season, but he has pinch hit a few times and even hobbled through one entire game to help his club. And he did it again Sunday.

With the score tied at 4-4 in the bottom of the sixth, Colletti stepped in and lashed a pinch hit three-run homer to lift Norwood Park to a 7-4 victory over Post 690. The loss dropped Palatine to 9-6 in the Ninth District.

Colletti's clutch home run was set up when Norwood's winning pitcher, Tom Ward, beat out a bunt single to start the sixth. After Norb Kosinski walked, Palatine's starter Randy Jones was relieved

Norwood's first four runs were all accounted for by Lee Larson. Larson poked a solo homer with two out in the third for the game's first run, then hit a three-run shot in the fifth after Schultz and Carl Andrews had singled.

Palatine scored twice in the fourth giving Post 690 a temporary 2-1 lead. Gary Pemberton led off the frame by reaching on an error, but two ground outs followed and it appeared that he would be left stranded. However, George Pattee walked, and then both runners moved into scoring position on stolen bases. Then Jones helped himself by ripping a base hit to bring in both runners.

Down 4-2 heading into the top of the sixth, Post 690 tied it as Keith Steelman and Jene Bell opened the inning with back-to-back homers. But the tie didn't last long — Nick Colletti saw to that.

Jones was charged with six runs, all of them earned, in his five complete innings plus the two batters he faced in the sixth. He struck out six and walked three. Ward allowed only five hits and fanned four Palatine hitters.

Add box scores

by John Ericson. Ericson got Steve Schultz on strikes, but then Colletti stroked his game-winning blast and simultaneously pushed Palatine back to one-and-one-half games off the pace set by league-leading Logan Square.

Olympic Feats Of 1900

(One of a series on extraordinary happenings in each of the 16 modern Olympic Games.)

PARIS, 1900 — Prior to the Games, the organizers announced that "valuable honorary prizes" would be awarded to all champions and placed competitors.

Subsequently there was considerable trouble, even bitter controversy, over the prizes which were presented. These included such things as books and umbrellas! No proper Olympic medals had been made.

Many years after, by order of the International Olympic Committee, these medals were struck and presented to the champions and placed competitors at Paris. Unfortunately, it is on record that many of these medals had to be awarded posthumously.

For the first and only time in Olympic history, professional events were held at the Paris Games. The results, of course, were later expunged from the Olympic records. Winner of the professional high and broad jump was the Irish-American Mike Sweeney who, five years earlier, had set the world amateur high jump record of 6 feet 5 5/8 inches. In the meantime, he had taken up coaching at the Hill School, New York and had been declared a professional by the American AAU.

Addison Trail Defeats Meadows

Addison Trail broke a long Rolling Meadows winning streak in High School Summer League play by posting a 4-3 victory over the Mustangs Friday night.

The Blazers scored all four of their runs in the first inning before an out was recorded. Addison jumped all over Rolling Meadows starting pitcher Dave Thorstensen as the leadoff man walked and was followed by five consecutive singles to score all four runs.

Rolling Meadows coach Al Otto brought in Bob Schmidt, who pitched perfect ball through the fifth inning.

The Mustangs, batting for the last time in the sixth inning of a darkness-shortened game, tallied all three of their runs.

Scott Green led off the sixth with a walk, Steve Breitbeil singled and Rick Sidor was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Joe Riplinger singled in Green and Ray Pettersen delivered a base hit score two more. Another walk filled the bases again, but a called third strike set the Mustangs down.

Area Teams Impressive

attack that featured three RBI's by Don Welker and two hits each by Welker, Greg Burzenski, Ed Pitts and Dewey Hrycrk.

Des Plaines kept pace at the expense of Mount Prospect, 8-6, in a hard-fought engagement that found Prospect's three-run seventh-inning rally fall short. Jerry Lipkin, Ed Gibis and Gary Peckler paced the winners with two hits each.

The semis were the end of the line as far as a possible local champion was concerned. Buffalo Grove drew eventual titlist South Stickney in the upper bracket and bowed out in a thriller, 7-6.

The Bruins rallied for a 6-6 deadlock in the top of the seventh on Don Welker's two-out run-scoring triple, but Stickeny pushed the winning marker home in the last of the seventh on a single and a triple.

Park Ridge, a late entry into the tournament as far as drawing up rosters, etc., wiped out Des Plaines' hopes for the state crown, 14-5.

Logan Square Fails To Stump The Stars

Logan Square brushed up against semi-professional competition Sunday afternoon and despite eventually trying to fight fire with fire, the Lions absorbed a 10-3 setback.

The opposition was supplied by the Chicago All-Stars, a class above the legion brand of ball, who found Lion hurler Terry Moriarity's offerings to their liking by exploding for four runs in the third and five more in the fourth to put a quick sealer on the nine-inning affair.

After Moriarity was knocked out in the fourth, Logan Square countered with flamethrower Mike Pettenuzzo, a former member of the Lion staff, but now a rostered player with the area's semi-pro contingent — the Northwest Rebels.

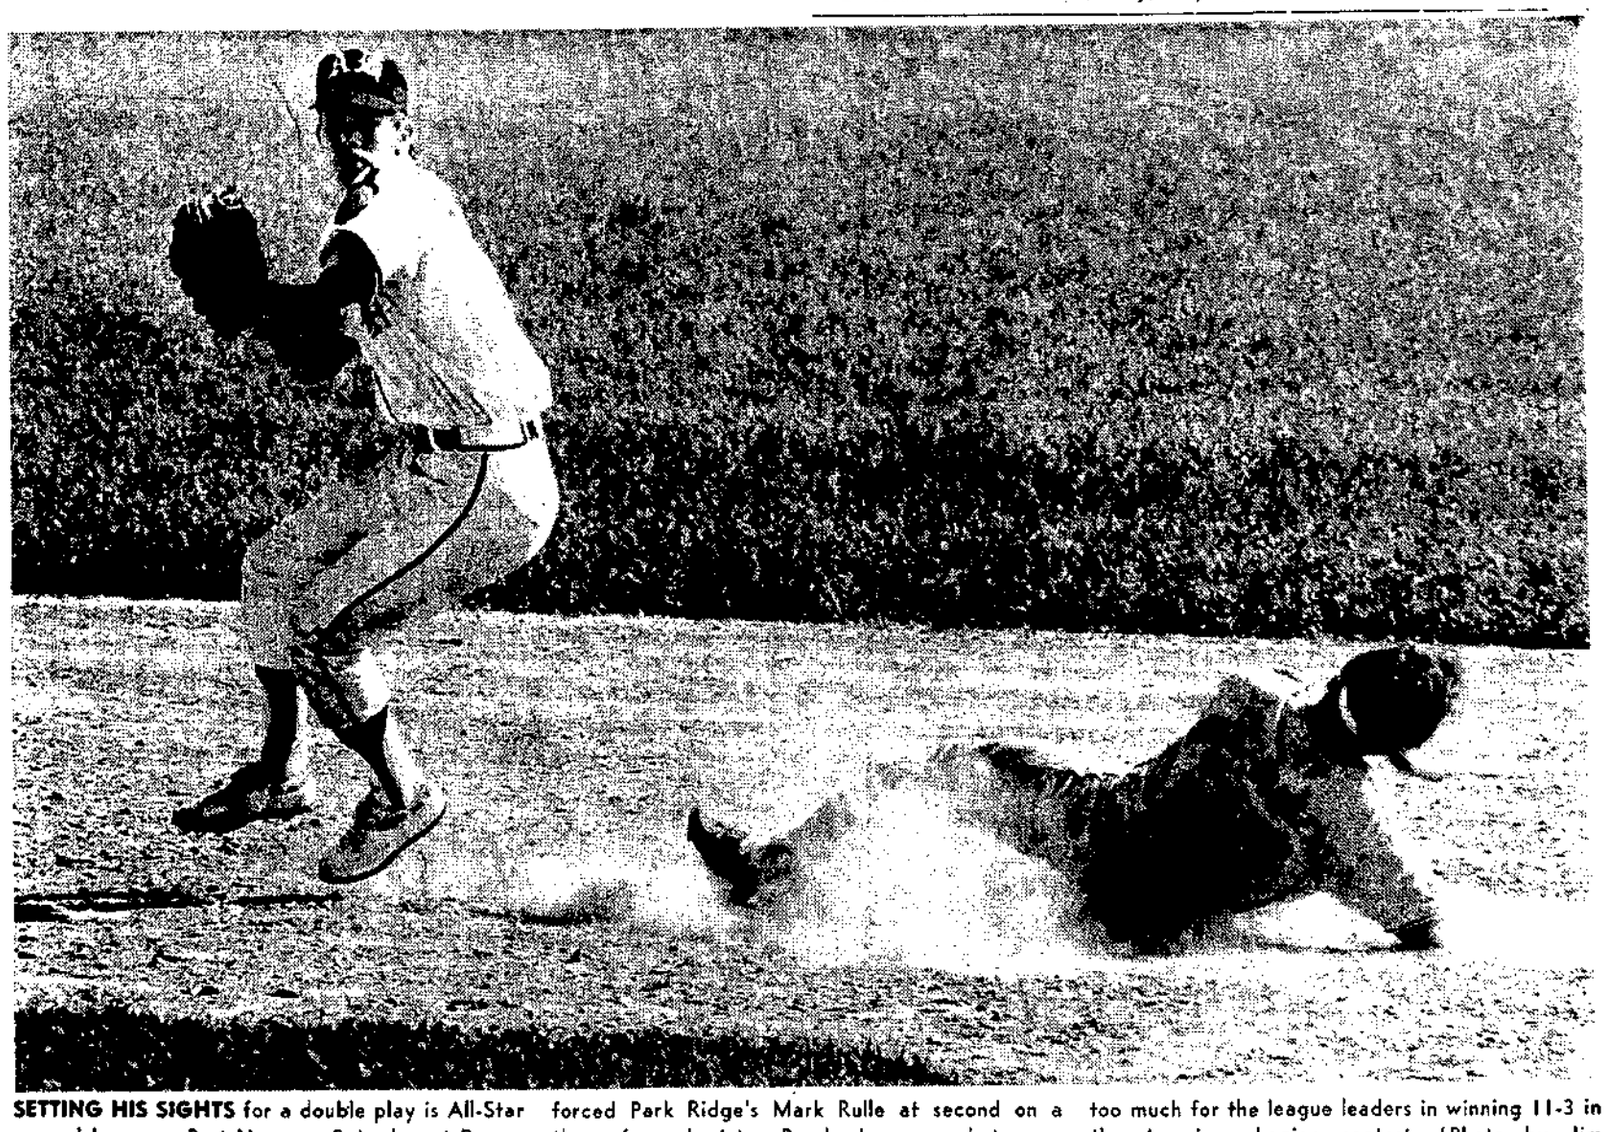

Pettenuzzo was nicked for a run in the eighth, but preempted the one-run yield with three shutout frames. His support was both late and inadequate as the Lions were limited to just four hits.

The All-Stars rampaged their way to a 9-0 advantage on a rash of singles, doubles and even a two-run homer before Logan Square dented the scoreboard. Tom Chapman's double, an error, wild pitch and another Chicago boot sent two Lion runners across.

The loser's final tally in the eighth on Jim Bucaro's single and an Ed Collins double proved to be consolation as the Stars promptly matched the effort in their half of the frame.

Arlington Minor Hockey To Play On New Rink

Arlington Heights Minor Hockey Association, a wandering league for the past few years, has found a home.

Like most homes these days, it will cost a little bit more, however.

The home, in which all games will be played, is the Arlington Ice Spectrum, Northwest Hwy. across from Arlington Park, in Palatine. Instead of paying $50 to $55 per hour for ice, as the association has been paying at ice facilities around the northwest suburbs, home ice will cost $65 per hour.

Additional cost for ice will mean additional cost to be part of the program. Each boy will now have to pay $50 instead of last year's $45 registration fee. The practice time fee will go from $2.50 per hour to $20 for the season.

"Last year practice time payments averaged about $15 per boy for the season," said Association President Robert E. Clark. "The net effect of the price changes this year will amount to about $10 per boy for the season."

Clark doesn't expect the extra $10 to be a deterrent to registration. The budget for the coming year is $48,000 as compared to $28,000 last season.

"Additional ice time is being obtained to permit us to accept about 200 new boys into the program," Clark said. "If 200 new boys join, the program will be double the enrollment of last year."

The league, which accepts boys 18 years old and under, will have a season which runs from Sept. 25 to March 26, 1973. There will be no games or practices, however, during the Christmas holidays.

Sign up for the program will be held Aug. 12 and Sept. 9 from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner, Arlington Heights. Boys who cannot sign up at that time should call Clark at 394-1468, or any member of the board of directors of the association.

Beve Leads Offensive Line, Grid Rifles' Bright Spot

The offensive line led by rookie Tom Beve, an all-Big Ten guard from the University of Indiana, is the bright spot of the Lake County Rifles professional football team, according to coach Jesse Vail.

He termed the 240-pound, 6-2 tall Beve "an outstanding all around hard nosed-aggressive player: a superb blocker."

Vail said that in the first scrimmages of the team the offensive line has been pushing the defense around the field. He said that "normally early in practice the defense will dominate the offensive linemen.

"The offensive line has excellent depth, good moves, improving speed and quickness," he continued.

Among other outstanding rookies are Bob Backland a 230-pound guard from North Dakota State; Kurk Kampendahl, a 240-pound guard, who comes from suburban Wauconda and played at Eureka College; and David Woodard, a 260-pound tackle from Albany State who is extremely quick. All three players are 6-2 tall.

Perhaps the biggest sleepr in the offensive line is Ric Gedman, a 235-pounder from Xavier College. He was not recruited by the Rifles even though Mundelein where the Rifles play is his hometown. Vail said that Gedman has many of the moves required by a professional.

Joining the club as a center from the British Columbia Lions and the Joliet Chargers is Ernie Coleman whose college ball was at St. Cloud State. The center spot until now has been considered the weakest one in the line.

Vail said that 250-pound Ed Williams, a 6-3 performer from North Eastern Oklahoma State, is looking good at tight end but Vail said that he may move Williams, a rookie, to defensive speed.

Among the returning offensive linemen is tackle Mike Herr, last year's most valuable player. Herr, a product of Xavier University weights 260 pounds and is the same height as Williams. Joining him from last year's team will be 280-pound Dave Malheire from Miami of Ohio and Mike McGlothin, a guard.

Vail said he has been impressed by Ray Carski, a tight end from Missouri Valley; he said that Carski, who catches the ball expertly, is a hustler with a good attitude and he is dependable. "You know he is going to do the right thing," added the coach.

Wide Lead For Lauterburg

Lauterburg & Oehler has opened up a big lead of 38½ points in the Arlington Heights Twilight Golf League at Thunderbird Country Club. Runner-up after last week's action was Service Stampings, a half-point ahead of Baird & Warner.

Leaders in each flight are now Chuck Staadt, Paul Nowak, Howard Kagay, Bob Hudec, Bud Bentson, Howard Vitek and Steve Gecan.

Low gross last week went to Larry Gullick with 34 on a par-35 nine. Gecan shot even par on a par-36 layout.

There was a three-way tie for low net with Staadt, Don McGowan and Gecan all checking in with 32's.

Nine birdies were carded, all but one on par-four holes. The exception was Kagay's two on a 165-yard par three. Other birds were by Gullick, Cecil Jamison, Len Haines Sr., Len Haines Jr., Paul Pish, Vince Gecan, Bill Turner and Paul Manning.

Bears Battles Again On WGN

WGN Radio will broadcast two pre-season and at least 11 regular-season games of the Chicago Bears during the coming season, Robert Henley, vice president and program manager, announced today.

In addition to the games, two pre-game features, "The Mike Pyle Show" and "Football Warm-Up" with Jack Brickhouse will return again. Also returning are the post-game "Sports Scoreboard" with Jack Brickhouse and "Football Review," with Mike Pyle and Marty McNeeley.

Brickhouse will again provide the play-by-play coverage with Irv Kupcinet handling "color" commentary.

This season will mark the 20th year that WGN Radio has broadcast the Bears' games. Coverage of the first three games of the regular-season are pending due to conflict with Chicago Cubs coverage.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

CRYPTOQUOTES

G M L S I U L L S L P S E U J S A S I T N G S F Z F P U – U S Q O U J Z B M E U U D W B C S I T B J Z B M Y N P P A B X I. – N M Q O B J M I E I B X I

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THERE'S NOTHING NEW IN COMPUTER MATCHING OF COUPLES TO EACH OTHER... GUYS HAVE BEEN HOOKED FOR MANY YEARS BY A CALCULATING MOTHER.–R. M. WALSH

ANNOUNCEMENT

AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT.

HELP WANTED headings directed specifically toward either men or women are used merely for the convenience of our readers, to let them know which jobs have historically been more attractive to persons of one sex than the other. The placement of an ad under a heading is not in itself an expression of a preference, limitation, specification or discrimination based on sex. Pardon our dust...

The folks at your Rolling Meadows Jewel really appreciate your putting up with the dust during our remodeling, but we're almost through now and we know you'll agree it was well worth the wait.

Just a few of the exciting new departments you'll find at your big, new Jewel are:

- The Chefs' Kitchen
  Select ready-to-serve foods for last minute family dinners; parties — all types of occasions
- Mr. Crispy
  bring home delicious golden southern fried chicken — fried crispy on the outside; tender and juicy on the inside . . . complete the meal with our delicious cole slaw and crispy fries.
- The Catering Corner
  here you'll be able to sit and view full color films explaining our complete line of party foods . . . elegant appetizer trays . . . gourmet main dishes and luscious desserts.
- General Merchandise Dept.
  We've enlarged the store to include a complete section of general merchandise. Now you can enjoy the convenience of one-stop shopping at Jewel even more.

May Be In Operation Next Month

Mental Health Center Opening Near

A new mental health center to serve Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships may be in operation in August, Jordan Rosen, director of Elk Grove Village Community Service, said yesterday

Community Service received a $52,000 grant earlier this month from the state to establish a mental health center to serve the two townships. Rosen said the new center would operate out of the present Community Service offices on Biesterfield Road in Elk Grove Village and possibly from space in the Schaumburg Township hall.

Rosen said his organization actually won't be recognized as a mental health center until a psychiatrist can be hired. "State funding will begin when the psychiatrist joins the staff, which hopefully will be in August," he said.

Rosen said he also has been interviewing prospective staff members, including two full-time social workers, a full-time outreach worker and a full-time secretary. The psychiatrist would be part-time, he said

ELK GROVE and Schaumburg townships, along with Wheeling and Palatine townships, have been served by the Northwest Mental Health Clinic in Arlington Heights.

Rosen said he met with Dr. Eugene Trager, director of Northwest, and Bob Geigner, of the state mental health department, Friday to discuss the transition to the new mental health center.

"We (Community Service staff) also have been meeting with various groups in Schaumburg Township, including schools and churches, to tell them about the new mental health agency that will serve the area," Rosen said.

COMMUNITY SERVICE applied for a grant from the Illinois Department of Mental Health in January, but funds for the state agency were not approved by the Illinois Legislature until June The Elk Grove Village office was notified of the grant by the governor's office this month

Dr Trager had opposed the formation of the Community Service mental health center saying the move was "premature."

Rosen earlier said Community Service applied for a grant separate from the Northwest Mental Health Association because it was felt that it would be difficult for one agency to serve the four-township area adequately considering the expected population growth

The new Community Service mental health center will provide screening for potential mental patients, care for persons released from mental hospitals and outpatient counseling for disturbed adults and children

12 Mayors Study Volunteer Moderate-Income Housing

by KAREN BLECHA

Twelve mayors, including one from the Northwest suburbs, are attempting to formulate a volunteer program for distribution of low and moderate-income housing throughout the suburban Chicago area

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert and 11 other representatives of a six-county-wide area have been meeting since December to try to piece together a tentative housing plan.

The mayors were brought together by the Housing Coalition of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities and are receiving technical assistance from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC)

THE IDEA FOR such a housing program came from Jack Pahl, an NIPC commissioner and former Elk Grove Village mayor. He has been meeting with the mayors who represent Kane, McHenry, Will, DuPage and Lake counties and the north, northwest, south, southwest and west regions of Cook County. Towns represented include Flossmoor, Wood Dale and Evanston in addition to Mount Prospect.

"The way I see it is that if we don't work out our own housing programs now under the control of local government, the federal court will give us a court-imposed program," Pahl said "And the courts are very insensitive to the backgrounds and characteristics of our communities."

Pahl pointed to a suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union that would require the distribution of 60,000 low-income housing units on a "fair-share" basis. The suit is now before U. S District Court Judge Richard Austin

Pahl said the housing meetings have been kept quiet because "no one wants high visibility on a sensitive program like this." He said this was why he chose to work through the Leadership Council, a private agency.

According to Pahl, the housing group has been studying statistics provided by NIPC that show the need for low and moderate-income housing in the various county areas. He said the 12 mayors will soon start talking to other officials in their areas about a housing plan.

"There will be 'X' number of units that will be needed for each area Then it will be up to the local communities in that area to make the decision on where the housing should go," Pahl said

HE SAID THE housing would probably include units for senior citizens, people who can't afford to live where they work and single people "who can't afford to live in the communities they were brought up in" He said the group is using federal standards when defining income $6,000 to $12,000 a year for moderate and $6,000 and under for low income The figures depend on family size.

The group hopes to have a complete six-county housing plan including proposed sites and a 10-year implementation program in two years, Pahl said

"The plan is to get a local coalition together in each community that will work on their own programs," Pahl said He said agencies such as planning commissions and zoning boards would join religious and civic leaders and local officials in the coalition

Pahl said the mayor representatives would also work with governmental agencies such as the Northwest Municipal Conference in formulating regional plans.

"The whole key to it is that everyone is doing a little bit so that no one community gets the burden. This way everyone will get their fair share," he said.

Pahl pointed out there are a variety of ways communities can provide low and moderate-income housing He said a pamphlet describing each plan is being prepared by NIPC and will be circulated in the various communities

Some communities will probably react negatively to the plan when first approached, Pahl admitted However, he said he believes those communities will finally agree

Teichert said he is now preparing a report on the housing meetings for the Mount Prospect Community Services and Mental Health Commission, which is considering the local low and moderate-income housing question in that village.

Bad Weather Is One Cause

Low Attendance Marks Migrant Camp

Some days there were as many leaders as there were children but everyone still managed to have a good time at the Girl Scout day camp for migrant children

Offered on an experimental basis by the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County, the day camp was designed for 60 Mexican-American children During the course of the two-week program, which ended Friday, 38 children attended but on some days attendance was as low as 12.

"The main problem was, we were competing with the summer migrant program offered by the school districts," said Miss Paula Siegel, camp coordinator The weather didn't help either, she added. Some days were excessively hot while on other days there were thunderstorms.

Children at the day camp ranged in age from 4 to 13 years old and came from all over the Northwest suburbs and as far away as Cary The children were referred to the program by the Northwest Opportunity Center

Working with the children and Miss Siegel were 12 Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts from the Northwest area

THE DAY camp, which was funded by the Girl Scouts, was originally planned to be a seperate unit from the regular Girl Scout Day camp. Because of low attendance the few younger and older children were integrated into the regular day camp program It also wasn't long before the units in the regular day camp were inviting the group to share their lunch

During the day camp the children worked on nature crafts, songs, games, fishing, dancing and cooking out

One day the group made a pinata which they proceeded to break open. On the following day they made sombreros and some came dressed in Mexican costumes. This was part of International Day at the camp and the group had decided to represent Mexico

Charge 5 Looted Woodfield Store

Action by a Woodfield clothing store security guard and police in Schaumburg and Elk Grove Village resulted in the arrest of five Chicagoans over the weekend.

Schaumburg police said four women and a man were arrested Saturday after a security guard allegedly observed them taking clothing valued at nearly $500 from Madigan's in Woodfield.

The four women refused to open their shopping bags for the security guard and then rushed from the store. The guard followed the four and observed them getting into a car. The guard called police, giving a description of the car and the license number. Elk Grove Village police stopped the car a short time later on Rte. 53 and made the arrest.

Police said Johnny Draper, 27; Gloria Rodgers, 20; Lynell Dampier, 23; Lee Ann Gates, 23, and Mary Hamilton, 25, were all charged with petty theft and possession of stolen property.

Besides the clothing, the group also allegedly had a puppy, believed to be stolen from a Woodfield pet store, in their possession at the time of the arrest.

Bond has been set at $5,000 for each of the five.

Sports Firm Names General Manager

Gordon Wead has been named General Manager of Tennis Affairs for Sports Centers International, according to an announcement by Jordon Kaiser, president of the firm.

Wead will direct the August opening of the Arlington Indoor Tennis Club in Palatine as well as the Lakeshore Racquet Club in Chicago.

A RUSTED APPLE peeler may not be a priceless antique, but Rev. John Sternberg believes it helps to preserve the culture and heritage of Schaumburg Township.

'Junk' Becomes Village Artifacts

Slight Detour On Way To Garbage Heap

by MARY HUTCHINGS

A lot of junk on its way to the garbage heap has taken a slight detour through the Rev. John Sternberg's basement.

Ten years ago, the pastor of St. Peter Lutheran Church, Schaumburg, began to see a value in the remnants of the township's former life.

Interest led to effort, and the result is a collection of nearly 400 artifacts scavenged from attics and basements of farmers and older area residents who sold their land for developments which make up the burgeoning villages of the township.

In 1963, with the permission of his congregation, and the contributions of volunteer help, the pastor opened a small museum in what was the first Lutheran Church here, located on Easy Street, (now more familiarly known as Schaumburg Road).

THOUGH THE white frame church served as school, meeting room and finally shed, before it became a museum, it is now being renovated. A new foundation, roof, wall board and paint job plus electricity and gas heating, should have the museum ready in September to be the final resting place of the items Sternberg has so patiently collected over the years.

He started the project because he wanted "to save something of the culture and heritage of parents and grandparents who lived here years before," he said.

Until its closing last September for remodeling, the museum hosted 2,000 to 3,000 school children annually on field-trips through the past.

"There are better and bigger museums," the pastor said, "but this is the only one that is in this community, not some other one."

What is the monetary value of old wedding dresses made of the traditional Lutheran black? Or of the hand pre-push button appliances of yesteryear — the rusted apple peeler, sausage makers, and skirt pleaters?

WHAT IS Madam Lang's Perfected Nurser worth today? Even though he knows the antique market is more than healthy, Sternberg doesn't know, nor does he care. "I don't buy or sell, I just show," he said.

Some items of course are of sentimental value to descendants of the first settlers here. The original baptismal font from St. Peters. Flowers form the original altar preserved in a glass globe. The original ballot box used in Schaumburg Township.

The list of artifacts is endless, and offers a lot of gadgets it seems someone should manufacture today. Think of the market for a boot jack, that makes removal of tight shoes or boots easy . . . or for an exercise bicycle that incidentally also sharpens knives.

Foot warmers and bed warmers may be out of date in today's more comfortable society, but they were certainly a necessity of life then.

GLASS EGGS will also be on display at the new museum, but though now only knick-knacks, they once were functional. Sternberg explains the large ones were used for darning, while the average-egg size ones were placed in nests so the chicken would know where to lay her eggs.

Other items in the pastor's collection include an old tin bathtub, a pipe organ pipe, a pegged log showing how the first buildings here were built, a tub of lye, a 100 year old cradle and a host of farm implements long since outmoded.

"Someone has to try and save some of these things," the pastor says, and judging by the collection in his basement, the new museum has a good start.

7 Face Drug Counts Today

Seven persons arrested in two area drug raids last month will appear today in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

The first raid, at 505 W. Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights, netted 35 pounds of marijuana and smaller quantities of barbiturates, amphetamines, hashish and hallucinogins. It took place June 13 and closed down what police called "the headquarters for a major north suburban wholesale drug ring."

Agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) arrested Jerry Timm, 24, of 505 W. Camp McDonald Rd.; William E. Orce, 24, and Claire L. Orce, 20, of 19 N. Dryden St., Arlington Heights; and Paul S. Gilman, 21, of 1216 Stratford, Arlington Heights. All were charged with possession of marijuana.

In addition, Timm was charged with possession of controlled substances and Orce was charged with unlawful use of a weapon.

THE OTHER THREE were arrested the following night at the Old Ivy Apartments, 2032 Algonquin Rd. in unincorporated Mount Prospect. Here the MEG officials seized 18 pounds of marijuana and other illegal drugs.

Arrested were Daniel Austin, 21, of 510 Thorndale Ave., Elk Grove Village, and William Lambert II, 23, of the raid address, on charges of delivery of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver; and Joe G. Milton, 23, of Denton, Tex. for possession of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver.

All are scheduled to appear today in court on these charges.

A fourth person, William Beck, 23, address unknown, is not expected to appear today. He was arrested in the raid at Old Ivy Apartments but there was already an FBI warrant outstanding for this arrest. The FBI charge was for flight to avoid prosecution.

The total value of the drugs seized in the two raids was $40,000, according to MEG officials.

Charged In Check Theft, Forgery

John Stelbacky Jr., 21, of 2006 W. Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect, is scheduled to appear in Elk Grove Village circuit court on charges of forgery and stealing 25 check blanks.

Elk Grove Village Police said Stelbacky admitted taking the checks from the home of Jean Shroyer, 369 Lowestoft Ln., in April. Authorities said he cashed six of the checks for a total of $290.

Stelbacky has been released on $10,000 bond.

Girl, 17, Wins Award For Excellence

Slough Study Charts Pollution Levels

by JOHN MAES

What started out as a physics project by Gabriele Ronnett of Mount Prospect in her sophomore year at Hersey High School turned out to be one of the best things that ever happened to the environmentally troubled Hillcrest Slough.

Gabriele's three-year analysis of pollution of the slough's north end, which has been dirtied from sewage dumping and soil erosion, has helped arouse a sharp public awareness of the potential danger to the wetland.

"I didn't think at first that I'd end up studying the slough as long as I did," said Gabriele, 17, whose study won her an award for excellence in scientific research from Argonne National Laboratory.

"But the more I learned about the area from studying it, the more I felt I should continue," she added.

THE PROJECT WAS basically a fact-finding mission about the life systems, soil and water conditions of that slough area in Prospect Heights along Willow Road. "That was the general scheme of the whole thing — to gather as much data as I could," Gabriele said.

Her massive fact-finding mission included taking countless water and soil samples as well as scores of photographs of the area's plant, insect and wildlife.

On Sunday mornings during the summer, she would go to the slough to collect her samples and take humidity and water temperature readings as a part of her data-gathering routine.

The water samples enabled her to determine pollution levels that registered significantly higher in the north half of the wetland. Her soil samples revealed that nitrogen, an element vital to plant growth, was dangerously low in the north half.

The photographs not only showed existing pollution levels but assisted Gabriele in charting the aging process of the slough. "I compared the photographs I took with some others taken in the 1950s and noticed that the north half is aging at a much faster rate than the south half."

"WILDLIFE IS diminishing in the north half while the south remains pretty much intact," she continued.

Sitting with binoculars, she watched the general wildlife distribution and saw that most of the blue heron, ducks and Canadian geese there in the summer were gathered mostly around the south half.

All her samples, pictures and other fact-gathers meant hours upon hours of experimentation. Beginning in February, Gabriele would spend the better part of a day experimenting either at school or at home where she has her own microscope.

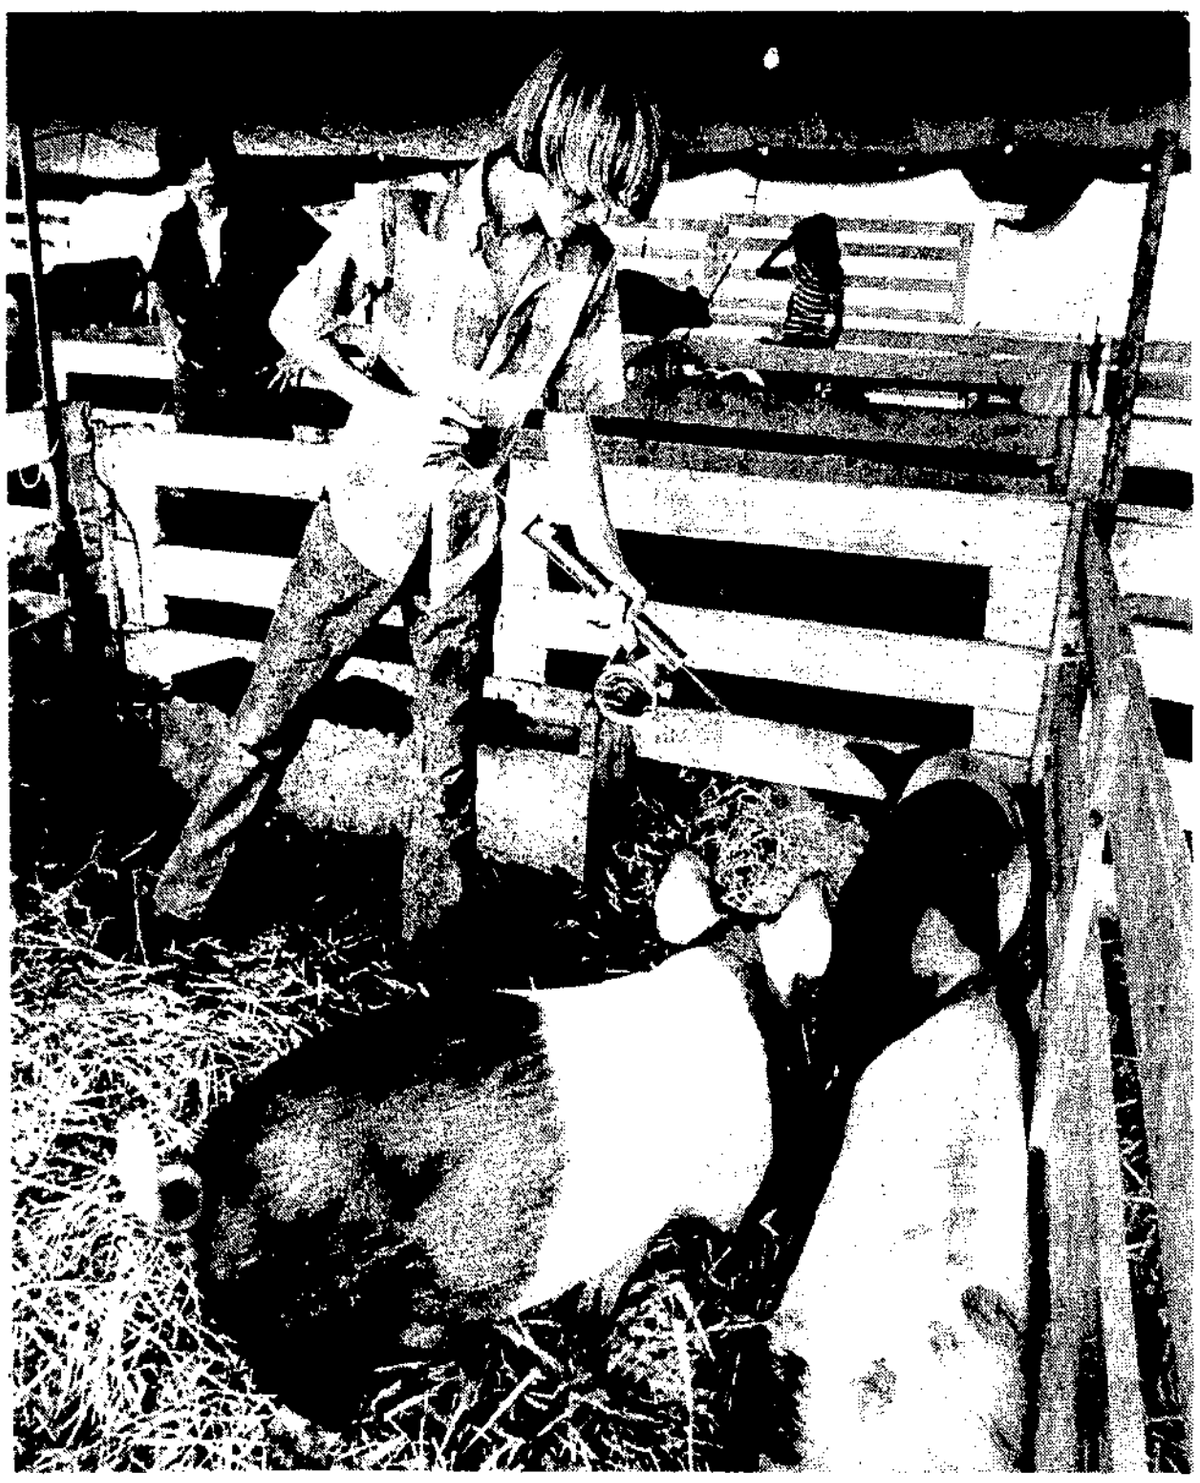

In addition to the laboratory facilities she used at Hersey High, her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Ronnett of 502 Garwood Dr., invested $200 in their daughter's project. The money paid for an aerial photograph trip over the area.

GABRIELE, WHO IS eyeing a career in biological and genetic research and hopes to attend Stanford University in the fall, said the slough could clean itself out in three or four years if a channel to the north half could be opened.

"If the south half is left alone and a natural flow between the two ends restored, it would be back to normal in a few years," she said.

Gabriele, who hopes to obtain a medical degree to aid her in research has been active in such organizations as students for Environmental Action, The Illinois Junior Academy of Science and the National Honor Society at Hersey. She also served on the "Save the Slough" committee.

Gabriele feels that the mounds if information she collected during three years will be of value to people living in the area of the slough. "Now that they know what the situation is, maybe people will look at the area from a more ecological point of view."

PREPARING THE PIGS for competition takes many hours, and the last effort includes a quick spray, as demonstrated here by Todd Kuechler of Elgin. The competition was held as part of the 1972 North Cook County 4-H Fair in Arlington Heights during the weekend. More than one-third of the 57 trophies were donated by Arlington Heights merchants.

Japanese Girl To Be 'Citizen' Of Village

A 16-year-old student from Japan will be given honorary Elk Grove Village citizenship at 8 p.m. tonight at the board of trustees meeting at the village hall, George Spees, village trustee, said Monday.

Spees said Village Pres. Charles Zettek will bestow the honorary citizenship on Makiko Yasunaga, of Ochi-Gun, Japan, who is participating in the Lions Club International youth exchange program.

Miss Yasunaga arrived in Chicago in July and will stay with families of Elk Grove Village Lions Club members for six weeks. Her father is president of a chemical manufacturing company and a Lions Club member in Japan.

Spees said this past weekend Miss Yasunaga stayed with his family and toured Chicago and visited the Lincoln Park Zoo. He said they also went bowling and saw a movie to give Miss Yasunaga a better idea what American life is like.

Miss Yasunaga speaks English, and her hobbies include traveling and music.

Villages Investigate Methods Of Piping Water

by STEVE FORSYTH

Piping water frm Lake Michigan to Wheeling and Buffalo Grove could be done in one of at least three ways, but both villages will likely not consider such a move for several years.

Buffalo Grove Village Mgr. Dan Larson said, "We've had exploratory meetings with DAMP, and village engineer Arnold Seaberg will attend their meetings, as an observer."

DAMP is the water commission formed to bring water to the Northwest Suburbs from Lake Michigan by 1975. The commission is titled according to the communities directly involved — Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

WHEELING VILLAGE Mgr. George Passolt said, however, "the cost is exorbitant. If we can successfully continue to run our wells, we'd prefer to keep our well system." He said the cost of the piped water is considerably higher than water from local wells.

Buffalo Grove recently received a complete water study done by Alvord, Burdick and Howson, outlining the possibilities for water supply in the future.

In that report, which was designed to serve the village until 1990, the engineers said, "Other sources of supply (other than wells), such as from Lake Michigan, have not been considered at this time, as it will take many years to develop policy for regional distribution of water from that source to the suburban communiies.

"In addition, the village can produce water at a cost of about one-third of the Chicago water rate to suburban communities, and, as long as sufficient groundwater is available to meet the village water needs, it would be economically unfeasible to purchase Lake Michigan water."

Larson said there are three possible alternatives if purchasing lake water is desired. One is the DAMP line, which will extend to about Arlington Heights and Hintz roads. A 60-inch main might be available from the area of O'Hare Airport, from which water would be purchased from Chicago, and Northbrook has a 54-inch water line from the lake to their filtration plant.

At present it isn't known that volumes of water would be needed, or whether these sources could supply enough to be satisfactory.

The Northbrook Line would most likely be a joint venture with Buffalo Grove and Wheeling, and would follow Lake-Cook Road.

PASSOLT INDICATED Wheeling would be interested in such a venture only if wells prove inadequate, and Larson said he is investigating only to get groundwork established. "We'd have to make a number of improvements, and it wouldn't happen for seven to 10 years," Larson said.

He indicated the village might have to go to a combination system for best results.

The DAMP commission itself is more than a year behind a similar water commission study in the western suburbs, according to John Guillou, director of the state division of water resource management.

Guillou said the commission is not ready to move on the approval given by the state Friday for moving the water to the suburbs.

William Cellini, head of the Illinois Department of Transportation, Friday approved the request from DAMP to allocate 34.8 cubic feet per second of lake water through a pipeline to the area in 1975.

Guillou said the Tree Towns Water Commission, serving Elmhurst, Villa Park and Lombard, is ready to go immediately.

The pipeline allocations for both commissions are set for 1975 because the system could not be constructed before that date state officials say.

MAMY AND DAISY MAE, played by Nancy Knowles, left, and Donna Neukuckatz, give Li'l Abner (Bill Stewart) a piece of their minds in this scene from the Wheeling High School production of the musical set in Dogpatch. Work Over Creek To Begin In August

Improvement work on the Soo Line R.R. bridge over McDonald Creek probably will begin the middle or latter part of August, according to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Poor drainage through the present culvert system under the bridge has caused severe flooding problems in Prospect Heights.

The project, a result of a bill passed recently in the State Legislature, calls for $170,000 in improvements and enlargements to be made, thus increasing the drainage capacity of the creek.

The bridge is located south of the intersection of Wolf and Euclid Roads in Mount Prospect.

According to Schlickman, negotiations have just concluded between John Guillou, of the Illinois Division of Waterways and Soo Line representatives.

HE SAID Soo Line officials have agreed to support the project with $47,000 which will be used for construction of new culverts and enlargement of the drainage area. "We'll take some of the state money and use it for realignment of the creek's path."

The bill actually passed the state legislature last year, but Soo Line personnel would not approve the project saying they wanted a higher quality structure on their property than the state wanted to build. In addition, appropriations were released too late for work to begin in the spring, Guillou said last month.

June's heavy flooding caused creek waters to rise as high as six feet in some places. Schlickman noted the culvert's inefficiency and said he was going to push for the appropriation after he and Guillou toured the flooded area.

Another downpour last week caused creek runoff to flood homes in the Country Gardens area of Prospect Heights. Residents there were critical of Schlickman because improvements had not yet begun.

Schlickman said though that he had secured a commitment from Gov. Ogilvie for release of the necessary funds and the flooding had occurred while the bill was being rewritten.

HE ADDED THAT advertising for construction bids has already begun and improvements will be completed in the late fall or early winter.

Included in the senate package awaiting Ogilvie's signature with the McDonald Creek project is an $80,000 plan for construction of a retention basin and other improvements for Buffalo Creek in Wheeling where flooding problems were also caused by inadequate drainage.

Two Wheeling Homes Looted

Two Wheeling residences were burglarized last weekend. More than $2,450 worth of jewelry and $1,081 in silverware was taken from the apartment of Hildegarde K. Hesslink, 850 Mark Ln. The burglar apparently entered through a sliding glass patio door, emptied her jewel box and took her silverware, police said.

A burglar cut a screen in the bathroom window at the home of Lester Olsen, 440 Crescent Dr., and took a wedding band with 10 diamond chips. He also took $40 in change.

2 Charged With Drag Racing

Two youths were charged Sunday night with drag racing on motorcycles on Wolf Road in Wheeling.

James T. Kuhn, 21, of 114 S. Ioka St., Mount Prospect, and Robert R. Leibrook, 19, of 539 W. Lance Dr., Des Plaines, spent the remainder of Sunday night in jail, and were scheduled to appear in court Monday morning in Arlington Heights.

Kuhn did not have $50 to post bond, and the two decided on an immediate trial.

Annexation Suit Granted Continuance

The suit challenging the annexation of 40 acres in Prospect Heights by the Village of Wheeling has been continued to Sept. 5.

The suit was filed in March of 1971 by a Prospect Heights group known as the Wheeling Road Zoning Committee. The suit contends that Wheeling annexed the 40-acre parcel illegally because the land is not sufficiently contiguous to Wheeling. The question now before the court is whether there was undue delay in filing the suit.

Arnold Liebling wants to build a multi-family development on the Wheeling Road site, and the land was rezoned for the complex by Wheeling.

Yesterday's continuance was granted after Liebling and his attorney failed to appear. He had been granted permission to intervene in the suit several months ago.

Mayors Study Volunteer Housing Plan

NIPC that show the need for low and moderate-income housing in the various county areas. He said the 12 mayors will soon start talking to other officials in their areas about a housing plan.

"There will be 'X' number of units that will be needed for each area. Then it will be up to the local communities in that area to make the decision on where the housing should go," Pahl said.

HE SAID THE housing would probably include units for senior citizens, people who can't afford to live where they work and single people "who can't afford to live in the communities they were brought up in." He said the group is using federal standards when defining income: $6,000 to $12,000 a year for moderate and $6,000 and under for low income. The figures depend on family size.

The group hopes to have a complete six-county housing plan including proposed sites and a 10-year implementation program in two years, Pahl said.

"The plan is to get a local coalition together in each community that will work on their own programs," Pahl said. He said agencies such as planning commissions and zoning boards would join religious and civic leaders and local officials in the coalition.

Pahl said the mayor representatives would also work with governmental agencies such as the Northwest Municipal Conference in formulating regional plans.

"The whole key to it is that everyone is doing a little bit so that no one community gets the burden. This way everyone will get their fair share," he said.

Pahl pointed out there are a variety of ways communities can provide low and moderate-income housing. He said a pamphlet describing each plan is being prepared by NIPC and will be circulated in the various communities.

Some communities will probably react negatively to the plan when first approached, Pahl admitted. However, he said he believes those communities will finally agree.

TEICHERT. WHO has not yet talked with other officials, said it is "hard to say" if every community will cooperate. "I don't know myself if I will vote for it until the plan is all put together," he said. "I don't think I'm different from other mayors in our area."

Teichert said he is now preparing a report on the housing meetings for the Mount Prospect Community Services and Mental Health Commission, which is considering the local low and moderate-income housing question in that village.

7 In Two Drug Raids In Court Today

Seven persons arrested in two area drug raids last month will appear today in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

The first raid, at 505 W. Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights, netted 35 pounds of marijuana and smaller quantities of barbiturates, amphetamines, hashish and hallucinogins. It took place June 13 and closed down what police called "the headquarters for a major north suburban wholesale drug ring."

Agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) arrested Jerry Timm, 24, of 505 W. Camp McDonald Rd.; William E. Orce, 24, and Claire L. Orce, 20, of 19 N. Dryden St., Arlington Heights; and Paul S. Gilman, 21, of 1216 Stratford, Arlington Heights. All were charged with possession of marijuana.

In addition, Timm was charged with possession of controlled substances and Orce was charged with unlawful use of a weapon.

THE OTHER THREE were arrested the following night at the Old Ivy Apartments, 2032 Algonquin Rd. in unincorporated Mount Prospect. Here the MEG officials seized 18 pounds of marijuana and other illegal drugs.

Arrested were Daniel Austin, 21, of 510 Thorndale Ave., Elk Grove Village, and William Lambert II, 23, of the raid address, on charges of delivery of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver; and Joe G. Milton, 23, of Denton, Tex. for possession of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver.

All are scheduled to appear today in court on these charges.

A fourth person, William Beck, 23, address unknown, is not expected to appear today. He was arrested in the raid at Old Ivy Apartments but there was already an FBI warrant outstanding for this arrest. The FBI charge was for flight to avoid prosecution.

The total value of the drugs seized in the two raids was $40,000, according to MEG officials.

by JOHN MAES

What started out as a physics project by Gabriele Ronnett of Mount Prospect in her sophomore year at Hersey High School turned out to be one of the best things that ever happened to the environmentally troubled Hillcrest Slough.

Gabriele's three-year analysis of pollution of the slough's north end, which has been dirtied from sewage dumping and soil erosion, has helped arouse a sharp public awareness of the potential danger to the wetland.

"I didn't think at first that I'd end up studying the slough as long as I did," said Gabriele, 17, whose study won her an award for excellence in scientific research from Argonne National Laboratory.

"But the more I learned about the area from studying it, the more I felt I should continue," she added.

THE PROJECT WAS basically a fact-finding mission about the life systems, soil and water conditions of that slough area in Prospect Heights along Willow Road. "That was the general scheme of the whole thing — to gather as much data as I could," Gabriele said.

Her massive fact-finding mission included taking countless water and soil samples as well as scores of photographs of the area's plant, insect and wildlife.

On Sunday mornings during the summer, she would go to the slough to collect her samples and take humidity and water temperature readings as a part of her data-gathering routine.

The water samples enabled her to determine pollution levels that registered significantly higher in the north half of the wetland. Her soil samples revealed that nitrogen, an element vital to plant growth, was dangerously low in the north half.

The photographs not only showed existing pollution levels but assisted Gabriele in charting the aging process of the slough. "I compared the photographs I took with some others taken in the 1950s and noticed that the north half is aging at a much faster rate than the south half."

"WILDLIFE IS diminishing in the north half while the south remains pretty much intact," she continued.

Sitting with binoculars, she watched the general wildlife distribution and saw that most of the blue heron, ducks and Canadian geese there in the summer were gathered mostly around the south half.

All her samples, pictures and other fact-gathers meant hours upon hours of experimentation. Beginning in February, Gabriele would spend the better part of a day experimenting either at school or at home where she has her own microscope.

In addition to the laboratory facilities she used at Hersey High, her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Ronnett of 502 Garwood Dr., invested $200 in their daughter's project. The money paid for an aerial photograph trip over the area.

GABRIELE, WHO IS eyeing a career in biological and genetic research and hopes to attend Stanford University in the fall, said the slough could clean itself out in three or four years if a channel to the north half could be opened.

"If the south half is left alone and a natural flow between the two ends restored, it would be back to normal in a few years," she said.

Gabriele, who hopes to obtain a medical degree to aid her in research has been active in such organizations as students for Environmental Action, The Illinois Junior Academy of Science and the National Honor Society at Hersey. She also served on the "Save the Slough" committee.

Gabriele feels that the mounds if information she collected during three years will be of value to people living in the area of the slough. "Now that they know what the situation is, maybe people will look at the area from a more ecological point of view."

Residents Report Varied Incidents Of Vandalism

Owners of backyard pools expect to have to cope with leaves, bugs and occasional other debris, but waking up to find two bicycles in your pool is just too much to handle. At least, Edgar Barten, 289 Glendale Rd., Buffalo Grove, thought so.

Barten reported to Buffalo Grove police Friday that someone had thrown two bicycles in his pool, along with a soft drink bottle and numerous cigarette butts. He also reported the pool liner had been ripped in a previous incident.

Mrs. Marion Branski, 529 White Pine Rd., told police Saturday that sometime Friday night eggs were thrown at her house. Mrs. Branski siad her niece had seen two boys she said did the damage. A neighbor also said she saw two boys running from the scene. The names of the two suspects have been turned over to a juvenile officer.

Another Buffalo Grove resident, John Kelbecka, 370 Hiawatha, thought he too was the victim of an egg or rock thrower when he heard a strange noise Friday night, but he later found out someone had been shooting at his house with a BB gun.

Klebecka said he found BB holes in a bedroom window and the windshield of his car. He also said he noticed a boy across the street shooting with a BB gun at a target which faced the Klebecka home.

The name of the suspect has also been turned over to a juvenile officer.

It wasn't all glory for the more than 50 judges who worked at the fair, however, as some reported temperatures in excess of 110 degrees in their judging tents.

12 Mayors Study Moderate-Income Housing Proposal

by KAREN BLECHA

Twelve mayors, including one from the Northwest suburbs, are attempting to formulate a volunteer program for distribution of low and moderate-income housing throughout the suburban Chicago area.

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert and 11 other representatives of a six-county-wide area have been meeting since December to try to piece together a tentative housing plan.

The mayors were brought together by the Housing Coalition of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities and are receiving technical assistance from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC).

THE IDEA FOR such a housing program came from Jack Pahl, an NIPC commissioner and former Elk Grove Village mayor. He has been meeting with the mayors who represent Kane, McHenry, Will, DuPage and Lake counties and the north, northwest, south, southwest and west regions of Cook County. Towns represented include Flossmoor, Wood Dale and Evanston in addition to Mount Prospect.

"The way I see it is that if we don't work out our own housing programs now under the control of local government, the federal court will give us a court-imposed program," Pahl said. "And the courts are very insensitive to the backgrounds and characteristics of our communities."

Pahl pointed to a suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union that would require the distribution of 60,000 low-income housing units on a "fair-share" basis. The suit is now before U. S. District Court Judge Richard Austin.

Pahl said the housing meetings have been kept quiet because "no one wants high visibility on a sensitive program like this." He said this was why he chose to work through the Leadership Council, a private agency.

According to Pahl, the housing group has been studying statistics provided by NIPC that show the need for low and moderate-income housing in the various county areas. He said the 12 mayors will soon start talking to other officials in their areas about a housing plan.

"There will be 'X' number of units that will be needed for each area. Then it will be up to the local communities in that area to make the decision on where the housing should go," Pahl said.

HE SAID THE housing would probably include units for senior citizens, people who can't afford to live where they work and single people "who can't afford to live in the communities they were brought up in." He said the group is using federal standards when defining income: $6,000 to $12,000 a year for moderate and $6,000 and under for low income. The figures depend on family size.

The group hopes to have a complete six-county housing plan including proposed sites and a 10-year implementation program in two years, Pahl said.

"The plan is to get a local coalition together in each community that will work on their own programs," Pahl said. He said agencies such as planning commissions and zoning boards would join religious and civic leaders and local officials in the coalition.

Pahl said the mayor representatives would also work with governmental agencies such as the Northwest Municipal Conference in formulating regional plans.

"The whole key to it is that everyone is doing a little bit so that no one community gets the burden. This way everyone will get their fair share," he said.

Pahl pointed out there are a variety of ways communities can provide low and moderate-income housing. He said a pamphlet describing each plan is being prepared by NIPC and will be circulated in the various communities.

Some communities will probably react negatively to the plan when first approached, Pahl admitted. However, he said he believes those communities will finally agree.

Teichert said he is now preparing a report on the housing meetings for the Mount Prospect Community Services and Mental Health Commission, which is considering the local low and moderate-income housing question in that village.

BETTE JO JORDAHL, Miss Palatine 1972, may have hoped for more in the Miss Illinois competition over the weekend, but she didn't come home empty-handed. The 18-year-old graduate of Fremd High School won the "Best Actress" award and a $50 scholarship for her dramatic reading of "The Box," an antiwar poem by John Denver. Thirty-seven other local pageant winners were entered in the Miss Illinois competition, won by Miss Macomb. Judging took places in Aurora.

Y'ER OUT! Glen Beckert may not be there, but the Palatine youngsters enrolled in the baseball day camp named for the Chicago Cubs' second baseman are learning the fundamentals nevertheless. Classes in the two-week session are conducted at the St. Theresa school playing field in Palatine.

Spray Ban Suit To Stay Unresolved

The pending lawsuit involving the spraying of a mosquito-control chemical insecticide that is banned in Palatine and Schaumburg apparently won't be resolved this season.

The case is scheduled to come up for a hearing Thursday before Cook County Circuit Court Judge Edward J. Egan, but it is expected to be continued for a third time.

This time the request for a postponement is expected to be made by the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District.

The abatement district is challenging local ordinances in Palatine and Schaumburg which prohibit the spraying of Malathion, a mosquito-killing insecticide, within their corporate limits.

Both communities maintain that the environmental disadvantages of spraying the chemical outweigh the immediate advantages of eliminating mosquitoes.

In addition, Palatine environmental health director Richard Dawson contends that the spraying would wipe out only 5 per cent of the adult mosquitoes.

THE ABATEMENT district, however, maintains that spraying is part of its overall program to eliminate insects, and because mosquitoes do not respect village boundaries, the inability to spray in Palatine and Schaumburg jeopardizes the effectiveness of the program.

The Palatine anti-spraying ordinance constitutes an attempt to enact home rule powers granted by the state constitution to communities with populations over 25,000.

The hearing on the matter is expected to be continued by Judge Egan until late August.

Meanwhile, the mosquito outlook in Palatine and Schaumburg is considered worse than usual, but the health directors in the two towns blame that condition on the weather, rather than on the lack of spraying.

BOTH PALATINE'S Dawson and Schaumburg's Robert Grossman expressed the belief that "it's bad all over" and "no worse" in their communities than in neighboring suburbs.

The heavy rainfalls this summer, followed by warm weather, have created ideal conditions for breeding mosquitoes, they indicated.

Dawson suggested that residents seeking to eliminate mosquitoes get rid of standing water, keep weeds trimmed and use repellent — cream or oil repellent, he added, not spray.

Vandals Break Seven Windows

Rock-throwing vandals broke seven windows in a four-block area of Palatine during the weekend.

Three windows valued at $65 were knocked out at the Joel Wood school, 50 E. Wood St., sometime Saturday. On the same day, W. Ramser reported that a $45 double pane window had been broken at his home, 140 E. Sherman.

In one block of Fremont Street, three homeowners reported windows broken: David L. Newell, 262 N. Fremont St., Dr. Rolley C. Bateman, 261 W. Fremont St., and Mrs. H. Rosen, 239 N. Fremont St. Newell told police that his window had been broken once Saturday, then broken again the next day. Picture windows were destroyed at the Bateman and Rosen residences.

Two boys were apprehended while they were throwing rocks at lights at Palatine High School, Palatine police report. Both youths denied involvement in the other incidents and were released to their parents.

Sidewalk Days Open Here Thursday

It's that time of year again when storeowners take merchandise from the shelves and display it on the streets.

The annual Sidewalk Days in Palatine are scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Some 35 merchants are expected to participate, in addition to numerous clubs and church organizations.

According to Sy Moorman, chairman of the retail affairs committee of the Palatine Chamber of Commerce and Industry, which is sponsoring the event, the participating stores are scattered throughout Palatine, including downtown, the Palatine Plaza, Village Oasis and other areas.

Moorman said the stores will maintain regular shopping hours, which in many cases include evening hours on Thursday and Friday.

Village parking meters will not be in effect during the Sidewalk Days.

Palatine South All-Stars In Semifinals

The Palatine South All-Stars, fresh from their resounding 4-1 victory over Schiller Park last week, move on to the semi-finals of the District 14 Tournament this evening against host Des Plaines at 6 p.m.

Playing at the Des Plaines Central School diamond, on Pearson Street two blocks south of the downtown area, the locals will be seeking a berth in the championship game. That also will be held at Central School on Thursday at the same time.

In last week's action, Palatine trailed 1-0 after the first inning. The South Siders surged back in the bottom of the inning with two and matched that performance the next frame.

Despite being out-hit 6-2, Palatine managed to come out on top with some alert base running, several costly Schiller errors and control problems by the losing pitcher. He hit three batters and walked four.

John Josten went the distance for the winners, scattering the half dozen hits, striking out four and walking only one.

The Senate voted to kill a $1.8 million foreign military assistance bill, nullifying adoption of the strongest anti-war amendment yet voted. In a startling reversal, the Senate rejected the aid measure after first including it in a provision cutting off funds to maintain U.S. troops in Indochina in exchange for the release of American prisoners-of-war. It would have been the first time that the Senate approved legislation cutting off funds for the war.

Staff Reaction Favorable To Summer School Changes

An evaluation of the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 summer school program is currently in progress.

"In general we are extremely satisfied with this year's program and feel it offered an excellent educational opportunity for many students," said Bob Anderson, director of the summer school.

Anderson met with all the building principals and staff members to discuss aspects of the program, its general format, organization, materials used and the effectiveness of teacher aides after the program ended July 18.

Some of the principals have also sent letters home to parents of students in the summer school asking for their evaluation and comments.

THE MAIN changes being contemplated now are in class offerings, making definite period assignments for classes and handling registration manually, said Anderson.

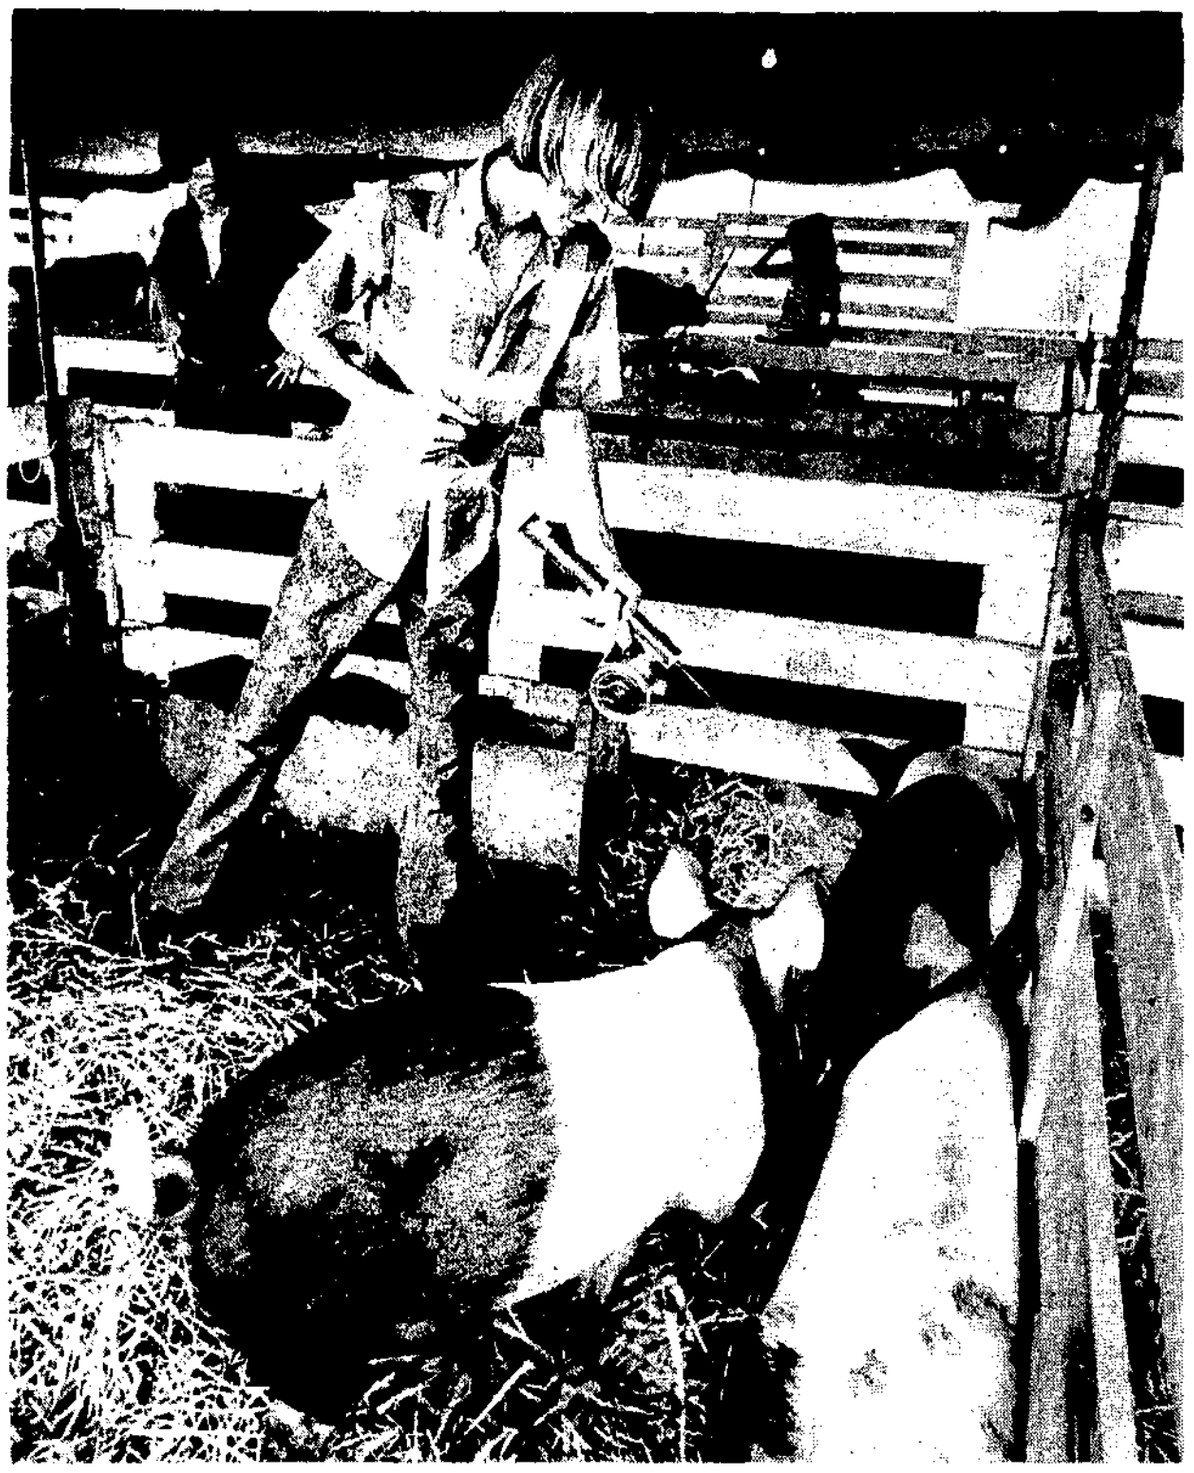

Anderson hopes to make a report to the board of education on the summer school at the September board meeting. He said proposed changes would not be presented to the board until early in 1973. Planning for next year's summer school will start in November.

Of the changes instituted this year, Anderson said staff reaction was favorable.

The developmental programs were reduced in length from three hours to 80 minutes. In the developmental reading program the students were pretested and posttested. On an average the students showed about three months growth. Progress reports on the students in the developmental programs were sent home to the parents this year.

Instead of four 45-minute periods, this year two 80-minute programs were offered. This gave the students and teachers an opportunity to take a 20-minute break and worked out well, according to Anderson.

This year 2,756 non-tuition students and 107 tuition students were enrolled in the program at one of the eight centers. There were 74 teacher aides and 165 classroom teachers.

PREPARING THE PIGS for competition takes many hours, and the last effort includes a quick spray, as demonstrated here by Todd Kuechler of Elgin. The competition was held as part of the 1972 North Cook County 4-H Fair in Arlington Heights during the weekend. More than one-third of the 57 trophies were donated by Arlington Heights merchants.

Bad Weather Is One Cause

Low Attendance Marks Migrant Camp

Some days there were as many leaders as there were children but everyone still managed to have a good time at the Girl Scout day camp for migrant children.

Offered on an experimental basis by the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County, the day camp was designed for 60 Mexican-American children. During the course of the two-week program, which ended Friday, 38 children attended but on some days attendance was as low as 12.

"The main problem was, we were competing with the summer migrant program offered by the school districts," said Miss Paula Siegel, camp coordinator. The weather didn't help either, she added. Some days were excessively hot while on other days there were thunderstorms.

Children at the day camp ranged in age from 4 to 13 years old and came from all over the Northwest suburbs and as far away as Cary. The children were referred to the program by the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Working with the children and Miss Siegel were 12 Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts from the Northwest area.

THE DAY camp, which was funded by the Girl Scouts, was originally planned to be a seperate unit from the regular Girl Scout Day camp. Because of low attendance the few younger and older children were integrated into the regular day camp program. It also wasn't long before the units in the regular day camp were inviting the group to share their lunch.

During the day camp the children worked on nature crafts, songs, games, fishing, dancing and cooking out.

One day the group made a pinata which they proceeded to break open. On the following day they made sombreros and some came dressed in Mexican costumes. This was part of International Day at the camp and the group had decided to represent Mexico.

3 Hurt In Separate Traffic Mishaps

Injuries were reported in three separate traffic accidents in Palatine during the weekend.

Mrs. Thelma Townsend was hospitalized with fractures after the car in which she was riding hit another car at Northwest Highway and Smith Street Saturday. Arthur Jaquet, 1650 W. Thomas, Arlington Heights, reportedly was making a left turn onto Smith Street as he headed west on Northwest Highway. Herbert Townsend, 114 Turkeyrun Rd., Carey was driving east on Northwest Highway when he hit Jaquet's car. Jaquet was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way, Palatine police report.

In an early morning motorcycle accident Sunday, Donald Holthe, 3403 S. Olive Dr., Rolling Meadows, received head injuries and a broken right arm. He told police he was forced off the road by a black and green 1969 Chevrolet while he was riding his motorcycle near 632 S. Plum Grove Rd. Holthe's cycle apparently skidded as he drove onto the shoulder of the road. He is being treated at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Betty Anderson, 2400 Fulle St., Rolling Meadows, was treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital after she was hit while riding her bicycle on Northwest Highway yesterday morning. Police report that Mrs. Helen Wonder of Hot Springs, Ark., wes driving in the right lane of Northwest Highway when she made a right turn into the parking lot at 293 N. Northwest Hwy. Mrs. Anderson was riding her bike between the auto and the curb when Mrs. Wonder made the turn, according to police.

No tickets were issued.

7 Face Drug Counts Today

Seven persons arrested in two area drug raids last month will appear today in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

The first raid, at 505 W. Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights, netted 35 pounds of marijuana and smaller quantities of barbiturates, amphetamines, hashish and hallucinogins. It took place June 13 and closed down what police called "the headquarters for a major north suburban wholesale drug ring."

Agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) arrested Jerry Timm, 24, of 505 W. Camp McDonald Rd.; William E. Orce, 24, and Claire L. Orce, 20, of 19 N. Dryden St., Arlington Heights; and Paul S. Gilman, 21, of 1216 Stratford, Arlington Heights. All were charged with possession of marijuana.

In addition, Timm was charged with possession of controlled substances and Orce was charged with unlawful use of a weapon.

THE OTHER THREE were arrested the following night at the Old Ivy Apartments, 2032 Algonquin Rd. in unincorporated Mount Prospect. Here the MEG officials seized 18 pounds of marijuana and other illegal drugs.

Arrested were Daniel Austin, 21, of 510 Thorndale Ave., Elk Grove Village, and William Lambert II, 23, of the raid address, on charges of delivery of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver; and Joe G. Milton, 23, of Denton, Tex. for possession of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver.

All are scheduled to appear today in court on these charges.

A fourth person, William Beck, 23, address unknown, is not expected to appear today. He was arrested in the raid at Old Ivy Apartments but there was already an FBI warrant outstanding for this arrest. The FBI charge was for flight to avoid prosecution.

The total value of the drugs seized in the two raids was $40,000, according to MEG officials.

Robbry Attempt Fails, Youth Charged

An 18-year-old Des Plaines youth was arrested by police yesterday during a holdup attempt at the Des Plaines Bank, 1223 Oakton St.

The youth, George A. Laos, of 1269 Cora St., was apprehended in his car at the bank's drive-in window lane after he allegedly gave the teller a note attached to a withdrawal slip which read: "This is a holdup. Put $10,000 into the machine. Thank you."

A 17-year-old girl, also of Des Plaines, was waiting with Laos in his auto at the time of the arrest but was later released to her parents.

According to police, the bank teller pushed an alarm button upon receiving the note while another bank employe called police with a description of Laos' auto.

Patrolmen Mike Lambeau, Jerry Liggett, and Daniel Carr arrived at 4:23 p.m., at the bank, shortly after being called by a bank employe. They blocked Laos' auto and arrested him and the girl.

LAOS WAS TURNED over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation because bank robbery is a federal offense.

St. Colette Teens Sponsor Car Wash

A car wash is being sponsored by the teens from the Community Life Committee at St. Colette Church in Rolling Meadows on Sunday.

The teens will be washing cars in the church's west parking lot during the 9:15, 10:30 and 11:45 a.m. masses. There will be a $1 charge per car. The proceeds will go to the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Fire District Takeover Law Drafted

An ordinance establishing the terms of the city's Aug. 19 referendum to take over the Rolling Meadows Fire Protection District will be presented to the city council tonight.

The aldermen will be asked to approve a ballot that will include two questions, one of an advisory nature, the other necessary for the city to appropriate the fire district's taxing power.

The first question will ask residents to indicate whether they think the city should take over the fire district and assume responsibility for fire protection in the city.

The second question will ask voters to give the city authority to tax for fire protection at a rate not to exceed the 40 cents per $100 assessed property valuation that the fire district now levies.

Neither of the questions is binding on either party, according to city attorney Donald Rose. If both questions are on the ballot, and if both pass by the simple majority that would be required, neither party would be bound to go through with the annexation.

Church Announces Corn Fest Menu

All the corn you can eat will be featured at the 15th Annual Corn Fest of the Community Church of Rolling Meadows on Aug. 5 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

In addition to the fresh, buttered sweet corn picked the morning of the Corn Fest at the neighboring Pingle Farm, the menu will feature charcoal-broiled hamburgers, choice of beverage and watermelon.

The Corn Fest is sponsored annually by the Men of the Yoke, a men's group at the church. Approximately 2,000 people are served each year and the proceeds from the event are used for improvement of church property.

Everyone is invited and admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12. A corn eating contest for children 12 years old and younger is scheduled for 2 p.m. Tickets will be available on the church grounds, located at Kirchoff Road and Meadow Drive, the day of the Corn Fest.

Scouting News

Twenty Japanese Girl Guides with their leaders and chaperones will visit Rolling Meadows Girl Scouts from Aug. 4 to Aug. 6 as part of their "U.S. Adventure Tour."

The Japanese Girl Guides are arriving in Los Angeles on July 26. Before coming to Rolling Meadows they will already have visited Disneyland, the Grand Canyon, Salt Lake City, Denver and Omaha. When they leave Rolling Meadows their tour will take them to Lansing, Mich.; Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Cleveland, Washington D.C., New York City and Honolulu.

The Japanese girls will stay in the homes of Rolling Meadows scouts during the weekend. On Aug. 4 there will be a reception for the girls at 9 p.m. at city hall. The following day the girls will meet at the corn fest at Community Church of Rolling Meadows at 1 p.m. and have lunch. This will be followed by a reception at city hall from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and dinner at the Trinity Lutheran Church.

12 Mayors Study Volunteer Moderate-Income Housing

by KAREN BLECHA

Twelve mayors, including one from the Northwest suburbs, are attempting to formulate a volunteer program for distribution of low and moderate-income housing throughout the suburban Chicago area.

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert and 11 other representatives of a six-county-wide area have been meeting since December to try to piece together a tentative housing plan.

The mayors were brought together by the Housing Coalition of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities and are receiving technical assistance from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC).

THE IDEA FOR such a housing program came from Jack Pahl, an NIPC commissioner and former Elk Grove Village mayor. He has been meeting with the mayors who represent Kane, McHenry, Will, DuPage and Lake counties and the north, northwest, south, southwest and west regions of Cook County. Towns represented include Flossmoor, Wood Dale and Evanston in addition to Mount Prospect.

"The way I see it is that if we don't work out our own housing programs now under the control of local government, the federal court will give us a court-imposed program," Pahl said. "And the courts are very insensitive to the backgrounds and characteristics of our communities."

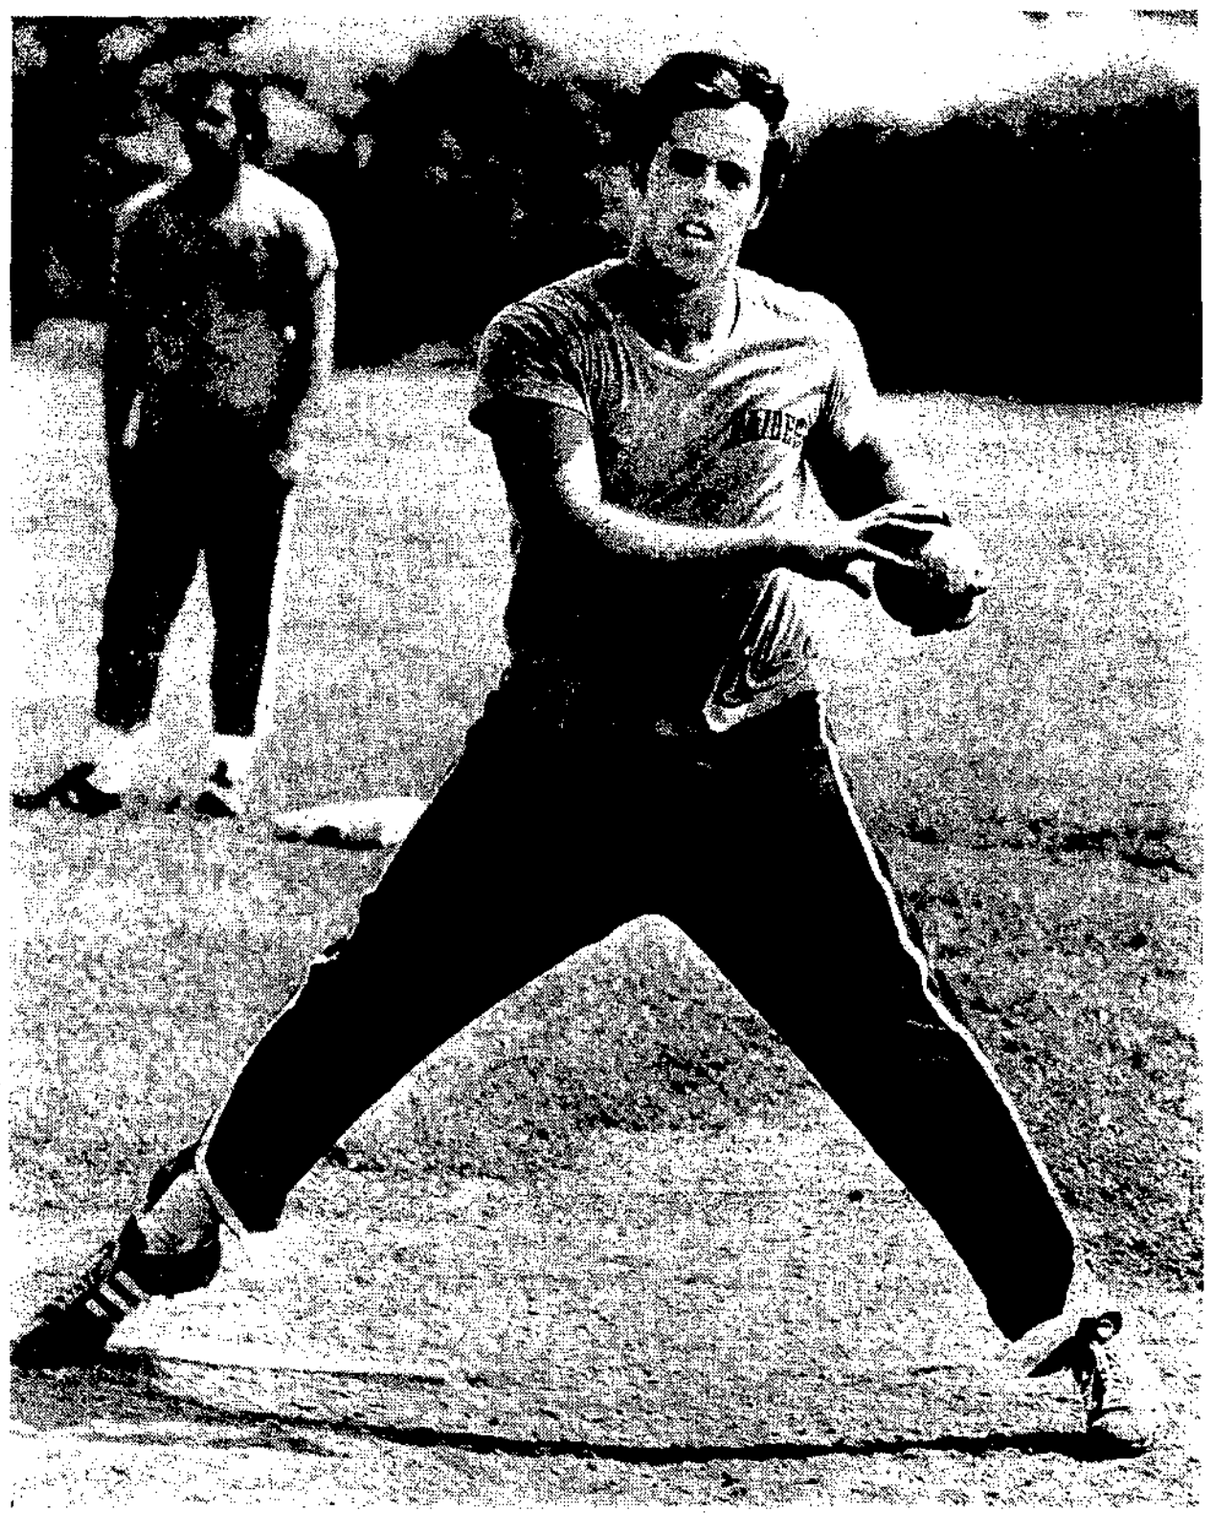

Pahl pointed to a suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union that would require the distribution of 60,000 low-income housing units on a "fair-share" basis. The suit is now before U. S. District Court Judge Richard Austin.

Pahl said the housing meetings have been kept quiet because "no one wants high visibility on a sensitive program like this." He said this was why he chose to work through the Leadership Council, a private agency.

According to Pahl, the housing group has been studying statistics provided by NIPC that show the need for low and moderate-income housing in the various county areas. He said the 12 mayors will soon start talking to other officials in their areas about a housing plan.

"There will be 'X' number of units that will be needed for each area. Then it will be up to the local communities in that area to make the decision on where the housing should go," Pahl said.

HE SAID THE housing would probably include units for senior citizens, people who can't afford to live where they work and single people "who can't afford to live in the communities they were brought up in." He said the group is using federal standards when defining income: $6,000 to $12,000 a year for moderate and $6,000 and under for low income. The figures depend on family size.

City's Water Role Unclear

Where Rolling Meadows will fit into the plans of four area towns to bring water from Lake Michigan is still uncertain.

But city officials are pursuing attempts to get a share of the water recently alloted to Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine, the four towns that comprise the DAMP commission.

The city is awaiting a reply on a water allocation application that was filed two years ago. The city requested a supply of approximately 64 gallons per second.

Rolling Meadows hopes to participate in the DAMP program as what is called a charter member. Under the terms of that charter the DAMP commission can bring water to this area and sell portions of that supply to charter towns.

CITY OFFICIALS think Rolling Meadows will need lake water by 1980.

"It's been said that by the 1980s well water will be difficult to come by," said Mayor Roland Meyer. "We don't know for certain if that's right or wrong, but we can't afford to sit here and say it's wrong."

Interest in getting water from the lake runs so high that provisions are already being made in Roling Meadows to set aside revenue over the next several years in anticipation of building a local pipeline that will tap into the proposed DAMP water transport network.

Meyer said it will probably cost the city $5 million to build the necessary transport, pumping and storage facilities by 1980.

He hopes that money can be raised by diverting some anticipated surplus revenues into a special water fund.

"WE'D LIKE TO take it (the money) out of the city's income over the next seven or eight years. Any surplus (left at the end of a fiscal year) could go into that fund," Meyer said.

Rolling Meadows presently stores two million gallons of water in five wells and storage tanks. It is anticipated that they would need facilities to store about twice that much once they started drawing water from the lake.

Edgar Fletcher, head of Fletcher Enneering, the city's consulting engineers, explained that although no formal plans have been drawn, there is some idea of what the city will have to construct to accommodate the new water supply.

He said there will probaby be a pipeline constructed along Kirchoff Road tapping into the DAMP network, and several storage tanks and pumping stations along Kirchoff.

Raiders Take Opener, But...

The Nation

The Senate voted to kill a $1.8 billion foreign military assistance bill, nullifying adoption of the strongest anti-war amendment yet voted. In a startling reversal, the Senate rejected the aid measure after first including it in a provision cutting off funds to maintain U.S. troops in Indochina in exchange for the release of American prisoners-of-war. It would have been the first time that the Senate approved legislation cutting off funds for the war.

Staff Reaction Favorable To Summer School Changes

An evaluation of the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 summer school program is currently in progress.

"In general we are extremely satisfied with this year's program and feel it offered an excellent educational opportunity for many students," said Bob Anderson, director of the summer school.

Anderson met with all the building principals and staff members to discuss aspects of the program, its general format, organization, materials used and the effectiveness of teacher aides after the program ended July 18.

Some of the principals have also sent letters home to parents of students in the summer school asking for their evaluation and comments.

THE MAIN changes being contemplated now are in class offerings, making definite period assignments for classes and handling registration manually, said Anderson.

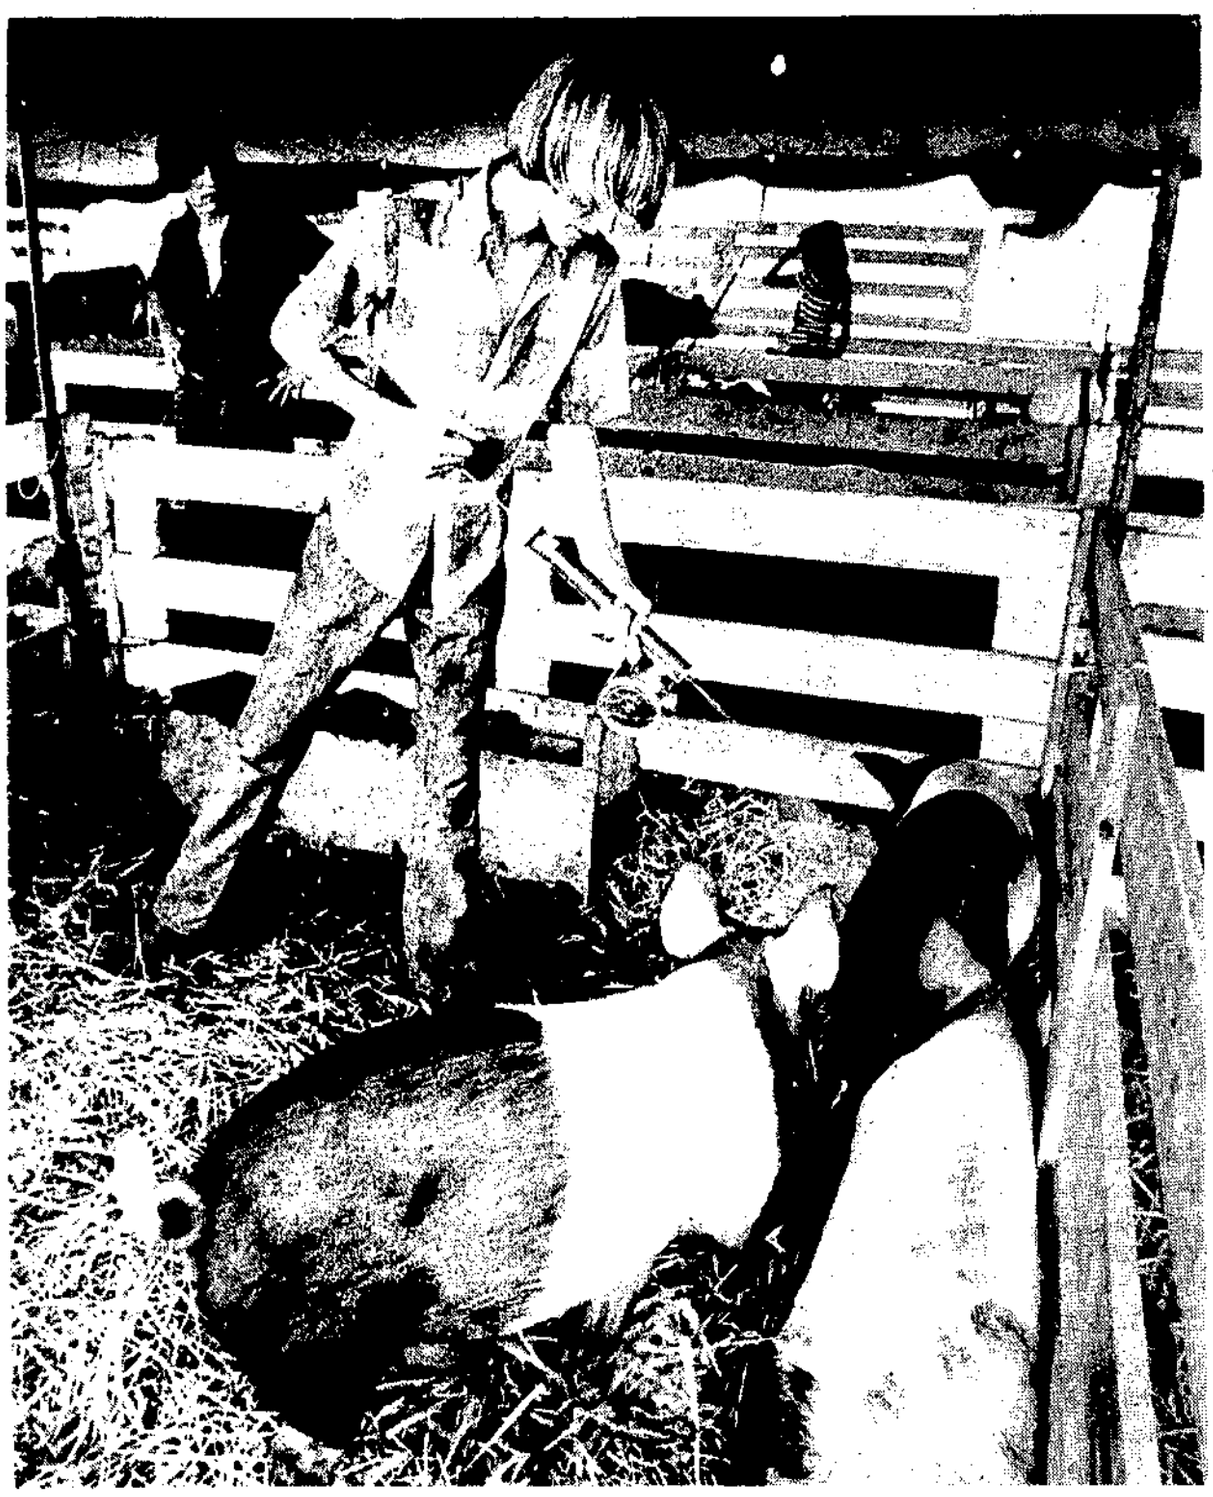

Anderson hopes to make a report to the board of education on the summer school at the September board meeting. He said proposed changes would not be presented to the board until early in 1973. Planning for next year's summer school will start in November.

Of the changes instituted this year, Anderson said staff reaction was favorable.

The developmental programs were reduced in length from three hours to 80 minutes. In the developmental reading program the students were pretested and posttested. On an average the students showed about three months growth. Progress reports on the students in the developmental programs were sent home to the parents this year.

Instead of four 45-minute periods, this year two 80-minute programs were offered. This gave the students and teachers an opportunity to take a 20-minute break and worked out well, according to Anderson.

This year 2,756 non-tuition students and 107 tuition students were enrolled in the program at one of the eight centers. There were 74 teacher aides and 165 classroom teachers.

PREPARING THE PIGS for competition takes many hours, and the last effort includes a quick spray, as demonstrated here by Todd Kuechler of Elgin. The competition was held as part of the 1972 North Cook County 4-H Fair in Arlington Heights during the weekend. More than one-third of the 57 trophies were donated by Arlington Heights merchants.

Bad Weather Is One Cause

Low Attendance Marks Migrant Camp

Some days there were as many leaders as there were children but everyone still managed to have a good time at the Girl Scout day camp for migrant children.

Offered on an experimental basis by the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County, the day camp was designed for 60 Mexican-American children. During the course of the two-week program, which ended Friday, 38 children attended but on some days attendance was as low as 12.

"The main problem was, we were competing with the summer migrant program offered by the school districts," said Miss Paula Siegel, camp coordinator. The weather didn't help either, she added. Some days were excessively hot while on other days there were thunderstorms.

Children at the day camp ranged in age from 4 to 13 years old and came from all over the Northwest suburbs and as far away as Cary. The children were referred to the program by the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Working with the children and Miss Siegel were 12 Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts from the Northwest area.

THE DAY camp, which was funded by the Girl Scouts, was originally planned to be a seperate unit from the regular Girl Scout Day camp. Because of low attendance the few younger and older children were integrated into the regular day camp program. It also wasn't long before the units in the regular day camp were inviting the group to share their lunch.

During the day camp the children worked on nature crafts, songs, games, fishing, dancing and cooking out.

One day the group made a pinata which they proceeded to break open. On the following day they made sombreros and some came dressed in Mexican costumes. This was part of International Day at the camp and the group had decided to represent Mexico.

Pahl said the housing meetings have been kept quiet because "no one wants high visibility on a sensitive program like this." He said this was why he chose to work through the Leadership Council, a private agency.

According to Pahl, the housing group has been studying statistics provided by NIPC that show the need for low and moderate-income housing in the various county areas. He said the 12 mayors will soon start talking to other officials in their areas about a housing plan.

"There will be 'X' number of units that will be needed for each area. Then it will be up to the local communities in that area to make the decision on where the housing should go," Pahl said.

HE SAID THE housing would probably include units for senior citizens, people who can't afford to live where they work and single people "who can't afford to live in the communities they were brought up in." He said the group is using federal standards when defining income: $6,000 to $12,000 a year for moderate and $6,000 and under for low income. The figures depend on family size.

The group hopes to have a complete six-county housing plan including proposed sites and a 10-year implementation program in two years, Pahl said.

"The plan is to get a local coalition together in each community that will work on their own programs," Pahl said. He said agencies such as planning commissions and zoning boards would join religious and civic leaders and local officials in the coalition.

Pahl said the mayor representatives would also work with governmental agencies such as the Northwest Municipal Conference in formulating regional plans.

"The whole key to it is that everyone is doing a little bit so that no one community gets the burden. This way everyone will get their fair share," he said.

Pahl pointed out there are a variety of ways communities can provide low and

Work Over Creek To Begin In August

Improvement work on the Soo Line R.R. bridge over McDonald Creek probably will begin the middle or latter part of August, according to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Poor drainage through the present culvert system under the bridge has caused severe flooding problems in Prospect Heights.

The project, a result of a bill passed recently in the State Legislature, calls for $170,000 in improvements and enlargements to be made, thus increasing the drainage capacity of the creek.

The bridge is located south of the intersection of Wolf and Euclid Roads in Mount Prospect.

According to Schlickman, negotiations have just concluded between John Guillou, of the Illinois Division of Waterways and Soo Line representatives.

HE SAID Soo Line officials have agreed to support the project with $47,000 which will be used for construction of new culverts and enlargement of the drainage area. "We'll take some of the state money and use it for realignment of the creek's path."

The bill actually passed the state legislature last year, but Soo Line personnel would not approve the project saying they wanted a higher quality structure on their property than the state wanted to build. In addition, appropriations were released too late for work to begin in the spring, Guillou said last month.

June's heavy flooding caused creek waters to rise as high as six feet in some places. Schlickman noted the culvert's inefficiency and said he was going to push for the appropriation after he and Guillou toured the flooded area.

Another downpour last week caused creek runoff to flood homes in the Country Gardens area of Prospect Heights. Residents there were critical of Schlickman because improvements had not yet begun.

Schlickman said though that he had secured a commitment from Gov. Ogilvie for release of the necessary funds and the flooding had occurred while the bill was being rewritten.

HE ADDED THAT advertising for construction bids has already begun and improvements will be completed in the late fall or early winter.

Included in the senate package awaiting Ogilvie's signature with the McDonald Creek project is an $80,000 plan for construction of a retention basin and other improvements for Buffalo Creek in Wheeling where flooding problems were also caused by inadequate drainage.

7 Face Drug Counts Today

Seven persons arrested in two area drug raids last month will appear today in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

The first raid, at 505 W. Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights, netted 35 pounds of marijuana and smaller quantities of barbiturates, amphetamines, hashish and hallucinogins. It took place June 13 and closed down what police called "the headquarters for a major north suburban wholesale drug ring."

Agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) arrested Jerry Timm, 24, of 505 W. Camp McDonald Rd.; William E. Orce, 24, and Claire L. Orce, 20, of 19 N. Dryden St., Arlington Heights; and Paul S. Gilman, 21, of 1216 Stratford, Arlington Heights. All were charged with possession of marijuana.

In addition, Timm was charged with possession of controlled substances and Orce was charged with unlawful use of a weapon.

THE OTHER THREE were arrested the following night at the Old Ivy Apartments, 2032 Algonquin Rd. in unincorporated Mount Prospect. Here the MEG officials seized 18 pounds of marijuana and other illegal drugs.

Arrested were Daniel Austin, 21, of 510 Thorndale Ave., Elk Grove Village, and William Lambert II, 23, of the raid address, on charges of delivery of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver; and Joe G. Milton, 23, of Denton, Tex. for possession of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver.

All are scheduled to appear today in court on these charges.

A fourth person, William Beck, 23, address unknown, is not expected to appear today. He was arrested in the raid at Old Ivy Apartments but there was already an FBI warrant outstanding for this arrest. The FBI charge was for flight to avoid prosecution.

The total value of the drugs seized in the two raids was $40,000, according to MEG officials.

Arrest Man On Battery Charge

George E. Blackstone, 311 S. Pine St., has been charged with battery and criminal damage to property following a neighborhood incident Sunday.

Blackstone allegedly struck Mrs. John J. O'Hara, 310 S. Pine St., several times with his fists after he kicked in the screen door and front door of her home. This was about 6:30 p.m. Sunday, while the woman's husband was at work.

According to Mount Prospect police, Blackstone admitted to breaking into the house and "throwing some household items around." The damage was estimated at $150 by police.

Police said some young children entered Blackstone's unlocked house Saturday, causing an estimated $100 damage. Blackstone has claimed the children were Mrs. O'Hara's, police said.

Blackstose allegedly was trying to talk with Mrs. O'Hara about her children when she refused to open the door for him. The altercation then followed.

Mrs. O'Hara, who is pregnant, signed complaints against Blackstone yesterday morning.

Kendall Named Wauconda Police Chief

A Mount Prospect man has been named chief of the Wauconda Police Department.

Wayne Kendall, of 103 S. Wa-Pella Ave., assumed his duties last week as chief of the 11-man force. A former Cook County Sheriff's police and security guard, he was chosen from a field of 42 applicants.

Kendall, 31, served six years with the Cook County Sheriff's Police and left as a lieutenant. He was chief of security for two yaars at J.C. Penney Co. in Niles. He received his training at the Chicago Police Academy and has taken special police courses at the University of Illinois.

The new chief has two children.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The Senate voted to kill a $1.8 billion foreign military assistance bill, nullifying adoption of the strongest anti-war amendment yet voted. In a startling reversal, the Senate rejected the aid measure after first including it in a provision cutting off funds to maintain U.S. troops in Indochina in exchange for the release of American prisoners-of-war. It would have been the first time that the Senate approved legislation cutting off funds for the war.

Most kids would rebel at the thought of practicing music lessons two hours a day. But 14-year-old Lindy Lang is doing it happily — and spending the rest of her day taking piano and flute lessons, learning keyboard improvisation, and playing in the band.

She's taking part in a special three-week program at Northwestern University in Evanston. This live-on-campus program is planned for talented high school students who are interested in music. Also included are special outings such as to Grant Park and Ravinia outdoor concerts and theatrical productions.

Lindy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lang, 212 N. Fairview Ave. She has been studying piano with Elsie Beran of Mount Prospect and also played flute in the Lincoln Junior High School symphonic band, directed by Robert Henry.

SUE WICKLINE, the Mount Prospect Girl Scout with airline reservation problems, has reached Montana safely and on time.

As you may recall, Sue planned to fly to Montana, for a special three-week program sponsored by the girl Scout Council of Great Falls, via Northwest Orient Airlines. One of 66 girls in the United States chosen to participate, she had earned all the money for the trip herself.

Then the airline pilots went on strike. For awhile it looked as if the only way for Sue to reach Montana on time was to fly standby with a first-class ticket. This would double her air fare. Also, she could have been "bumped" at any one of several places along the way.

"She was so worried that she lost 10 pounds," reported her mother. "But Northwest Orient did a beautiful job. They got her confirmed reservations on TWA. Then someone met her in Denver to help get her on a Western Airline flight to Montana. She arrived and so did her guitar. I talked to her on the phone, and she's just having a ball."

After a few days as guests of Montana families, the Scouts began the traveling part of their trip. Sue plans to return to her home at 1725 Rusty Dr. sometime next week.

ANOTHER PIECE of good news has come from Linda and Charles DeBruler of 206 S. Pine St. In June, Frosty, their miniature Schnauzer, wandered off. House-to-house inquiries, newspaper ads, and extensive searching turned up no information about their missing pet.

"On July 13 the Des Plaines police called and said they had found Frosty," said Linda. "It was really a miracle. After six weeks we had just about given up hope. We are absolutely delighted."

During her absence, Frosty became a little anemic and lost weight, Linda added. That is being remedied with lots of good food and vitamins.

Now the DeBrulers have two miniature Schnauzers. To ease the loss of Frosty, Linda gave Charles a puppy for Fathers' Day.

"The two dogs are getting along just great!" she reported.

MR. AND MRS. James Grelak and son Jay, of 808 Deborah Ln., recently enjoyed a 10-day visit from Mrs. Grelak's English cousin and his wife.

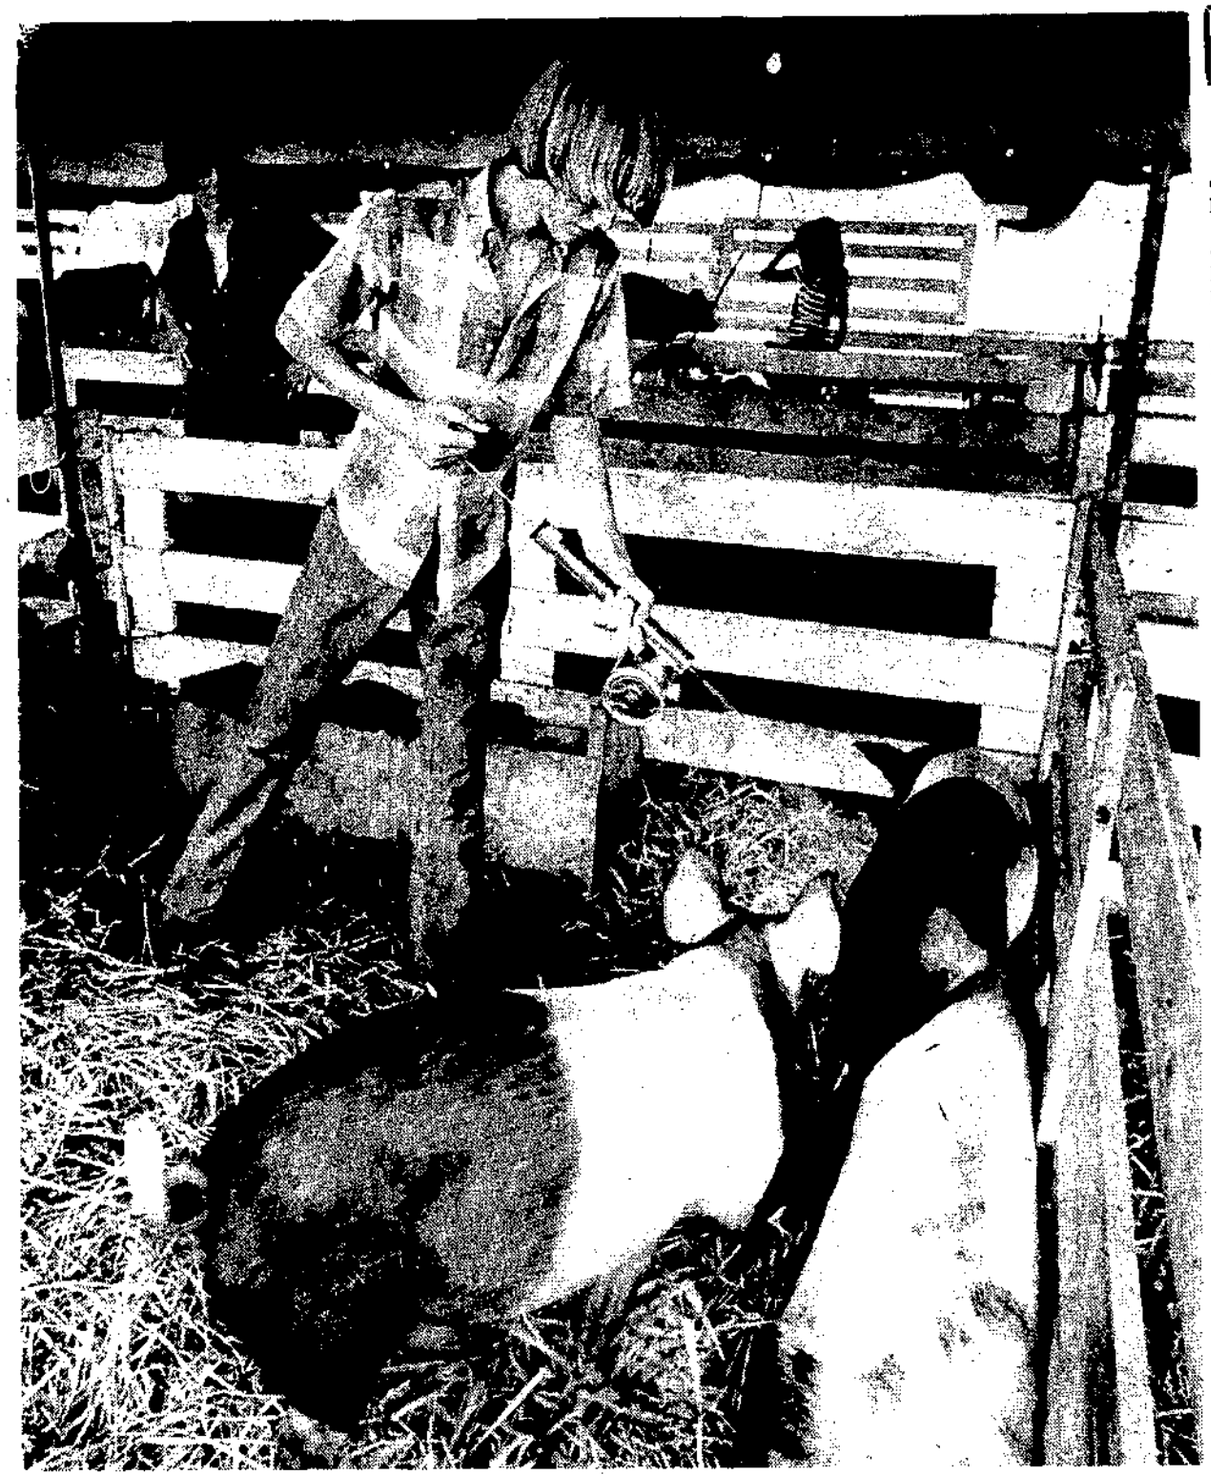

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Neill are proprietors of Haddon Hall and Pub in Leeds, York, England. During their visit, Mrs. Grelak's mother, Mrs. Ellen McDonough of Chicago, also stayed with the Grelaks.

"We had a good crack" is the way the O'Neills described their visit to Mount Prospect. In other words, explained Mrs. Grelak, "They had a ball." They visited points of interest and also met many of the Grelaks' friends and neighbors. On Friday the O'Neills will sail for England on Queen Elizabeth II.

MANY FRIENDS of the Lowell Ackmann family have been asking about Bob and Lee, who were hurt July 10 in a San Francisco, Calif., cable car accident. When two automobiles collided, one went out of control and hit the cable car. Lowell was home briefly last week and reported that the boys are improving.

Lee has had skin grafts on his leg and should now be getting around in a wheel chair. Bob was scheduled to go into surgery for the third time for further work on his leg.

Cards, letters, or phone calls would help the time pass more quickly for the boys while they are hospitalized. They are in Room 509, Mary's Help Hospital, 1900 Sullivan Ave., Daly City, Calif. 94015. Their phone number is (415)-992-4000.

Appliances Stolen

Four appliances, valued at $524, were stolen last week from the Huntington Commons construction site, 1240 S. Elmhurst Rd., Mount Prospect.

The two dishwashers and the two gas stoves, all green, were taken from the building at 1240 S. Elmhurst Rd. According to construction foreman Ralph Hartwig, the buildings are locked at night. Mount Prospect police are unsure how the building was entered.

Bargaining Will Resume In August

Teacher and school board bargaining teams in River Trails Dist. 26 will probably wait until late August to meet again, despite attempts by the board to meet sooner.

Board Pres. Lloyd Demel last week asked representatives of the River Trails Education Association (RTEA) if the two sides could resume talks as soon as possible. Demel asked the RTEA to suggest meeting dates earlier than late August. The two sides have not met since June 19, and no agreements on a 1972-73 contract have been reached.

"I think the board was honest to try and get things going again and seems to be willing to listen to all sides," said Gary Rathgeber, RTEA president. However, Rathgeber said, members of the teacher bargaining team are now out of town and will not be back until the end of August.

Rathgeber also said Richard Zwieback, professional negotiator for the board, was reluctant to meet again until August or early September. Zwieback, however, said last week he has been willing to meet with teachers all summer.

"I would have met with them any time," said Zwieback. "What I told them was that if they did not change their position, the meetings would just be a waste of time. It's not the matter of meeting but a question of what the teachers want. If they maintain the same position we are not going to be able to accomplish much."

Zwieback said the board is waiting for teachers to reply to an offer that would give teachers an average $350 raise. The raise, approximately 3.7 per cent, would be in the form of an increment, a raise based on experience and education. The amount of the increment would be the same as that in last year's salary schedule and would cost the district $52,000, according to Zwieback.

"We've been willing to move the whole time. It's the board who hasn't been willing to move," said Rathgeber. "It's their proposals we're hung up by, and Zwieback won't explain those proposals."

The original RTEA proposal included a 6.5 per cent salary increase plus the increment. Teachers then said they expected the increment plus a cost of living raise which they estimated at about 3.2 per cent.

Bad Weather Is One Cause

Low Attendance Marks Migrant Camp

Some days there were as many leaders as there were children but everyone still managed to have a good time at the Girl Scout day camp for migrant children.

Offered on an experimental basis by the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County, the day camp was designed for 60 Mexican-American children. During the course of the two-week program, which ended Friday, 38 children attended but on some days attendance was as low as 12.

"The main problem was, we were competing with the summer migrant program offered by the school districts," said Miss Paula Siegel, camp coordinator. The weather didn't help either, she added. Some days were excessively hot while on other days there were thunderstorms.

Children at the day camp ranged in age from 4 to 13 years old and came from all over the Northwest suburbs and as far away as Cary. The children were referred to the program by the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Working with the children and Miss Siegel were 12 Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts from the Northwest area.

THE DAY camp, which was funded by the Girl Scouts, was originally planned to be a seperate unit from the regular Girl Scout Day camp. Because of low attendance the few younger and older children were integrated into the regular day camp program. It also wasn't long before the units in the regular day camp were inviting the group to share their lunch.

During the day camp the children worked on nature crafts, songs, games, fishing, dancing and cooking out.

One day the group made a pinata which they proceeded to break open. On the following day they made sombreros and some came dressed in Mexican costumes. This was part of International Day at the camp and the group had decided to represent Mexico.

moderate-income housing. He said a pamphlet describing each plan is being prepared by NIPC and will be circulated in the various communities.

Some communities will probably react negatively to the plan when first approached, Pahl admitted. However, he said he believes those communities will finally agree.

TEICHERT, WHO has not yet talked with other officials, said it is "hard to say" if every community will cooperate. "I don't know myself if I will vote for it until the plan is all put together," he said. "I don't think I'm different from other mayors in our area."

Teichert said he is now preparing a report on the housing meetings for the Mount Prospect Community Services and Mental Health Commission, which is considering the local low and moderate-income housing question in that village.

Incinerator Said To Be A Mistake: Environment Unit

Building an incinerator in Arlington Heights would be a mistake, according to the draft report of the solid waste committee of the Arlington Heights Environmental Control Commission (ECC) presented last night

"We do not support the village administration's proposed plans for an incinerator," the report said "We do not feel that a landfill crisis exists in our area and believe there are too many uncertainties involved in the operation of present-day incinerators"

Landfilling solid waste, along with the use of high-pressure baling system and increased recycling stations, are possible answers to the solid waste problem, according to the committee report The committee also suggests that the village help create a regional committee to deal with the solid waste problem

THE 84-PAGE report was released after nearly a year of study and in the wake of a January solid waste report by the village administration recommending the construction of a $4 5 million incinerator to handle the village's increasing amount of solid waste

The proposed incinerator, which would probably be built at the present landfill site in north Arlington Heights, has come under sharp criticism from several civic and governmental groups in Buffalo Grove Some areas in Buffalo Grove are within a mile of the site

A recent Harza engineering study, which still has not been presented to the village in final form, states that the Arlington Heights landfill has a life expectancy of one year if the current landfill plan is followed The committee suggests altering the current landfill plan

"The useful life of the existing landfill can be increased to 20 years," the report said "No capital expenditure would be required to obtain this extra useful life"

Altering the present landfill plan would "result in different recreational end use benefits than originally anticipated, but we believe the public benefits in solid waste disposal will offset this problem," the report said

At the present time, the plan for the landfill includes a height limit of 780 feet and gentle slopes to provide for several recreational facilities, including an outdoor theater The committee suggests increasing the final contour of the landfill as one method of increasing its life

"We feel that a sanitary landfill has less pollution potential than an incinerator," the report said "The state of the art is better developed and this process has inherently less potential for disturbing the environment"

The four-member committee said, however, that it is not against incineration in principal, and that there is a great deal of potential for the use of some type of incinerator in the future At the present time, however, the committee said incineration technology is in a state of flux, as are the regulations which govern incinerator emissions

'To our knowledge there are only one or two municipal incinerators in the country which comply with the new federal and state regulations,' the report said 'It is also possible that a new process (of incineration) would become available in the near future and leave us with a monumental 'white elephant' of little residual value"

THE COMMITTEE S recommendations to the village are

by KAREN BLECHA

Twelve mayors including one from the Northwest suburbs, are attempting to formulate a volunteer program for distribution of low and moderate-income housing throughout the suburban Chicago area

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D Teichert and 11 other representatives of a six county-wide area have been meeting since December to try to piece together a tentative housing plan

The mayors were brought together by the Housing Coalition of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities and are receiving technical assistance from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC)

THE IDEA FOR such a housing program came from Jack Pahl an NIPC commissioner and former Elk Grove Village mayor He has been meeting with the mayors who represent Kane McHenry, Will, DuPage and Lake counties and the north, northwest, south, southwest and west regions of Cook County Towns represented include Flossmoor, Wood Dale and Evanston in addition to Mount Prospect

'The way I see it is that if we don't work out our own housing programs now under the control of local government, the federal court will give us a court-imposed program," Pahl said 'And the courts are very insensitive to the backgrounds and characteristics of our communities"

Pahl pointed to a suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union that would require the distribution of 60 000 low-income housing units on a "fair-share" basis The suit is now before U S District Court Judge Richard Austin

Pahl said the housing meetings have been kept quiet because "no one wants high visibility on a sensitive program like this" He said this was why he chose to work through the Leadership Council, a private agency

According to Pahl, the housing group has been studying statistics provided by NIPC that show the need for low and moderate-income housing in the various county areas He said the 12 mayors will soon start talking to other officials in their areas about a housing plan

"There will be 'X' number of units that will be needed for each area Then it will be up to the local communities in that area to make the decision on where the housing should go," Pahl said

HE SAID THE housing would probably include units for senior citizens, people who can't afford to live where they work and single people "who can't afford to live in the communities they were brought up in" He said the group is using federal standards when defining income $6 000 to $12,000 a year for moderate and $6,000 and under for low income The figures depend on family size

The group hopes to have a complete six-county housing plan including proposed sites and a 10-year implementation program in two years, Pahl said

"The plan is to get a local coalition together in each community that will work on their own programs," Pahl said He said agencies such as planning commissions and zoning boards would join religious and civic leaders and local offi-

Lake Water Could Double Bills Here

Arlington Heights water bills are likely to increase, perhaps by as much as two-thirds over their present level, if and when water is brought here from Lake Michigan

Village Pres John Woods said Friday that the DAMP estimates he has seen suggest that the cost per 1,000 gallons of water for Arlington Heights customers would be two-thirds to double the present rate of 63 cents per 1,000 gallons

An average residential water bill in Arlington Heights today is about $15 per quarter, village sources said

"The cost increase is one reason why we (Arlington Heights) have never wanted to go to the lake until it was absolutely necessary to do it," Woods said

Under an emergency situation, Woods said he estimated that DAMP could engineer and construct its pipeline within three years but that more likely completion of the DAMP project would take about five years

PARTICIPATING municipalities will sign a contract with DAMP for the purchase of lake water That contract will specify the minimum and the maximum amount of water the city can purchase, Woods explained

The contract system is similar to that now in force between the cities of Des Plaines and Chicago

Revenues paid to DAMP will be used to cover the cost of operating the system as well as to retire the estimated $60 to $90 million worth of revenue bonds DAMP will have to sell to finance the construction of the underground water network

The cost to DAMP will depend on a number of factors such as whether DAMP and Tree Towns cooperate on a single pipeline and how many other communities decide they also want to buy water from the DAMP system

Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village already have expressed an interest in connecting to a Lake Michigan water supply

SAMPLING THE GOODS was one of the highlights for the judges of the 1972 North Cook County 4-H Fair held this weekend in Arlington Heights. Home Economist Harriet Baker had one of the best judging jobs as she got a chance to sink her teeth into an award-winning brownie It wasn't all glory for the more than 50 judges who worked at the fair, however, as some reported temperatures in excess of 110 degrees in their judging tents

Pahl said the mayor representatives would also work with governmental agencies such as the Northwest Municipal Conference in formulating regional plans

'The whole key to it is that everyone is doing a little bit so that no one community gets the burden This way everyone will get their fair share," he said

Pahl pointed out there are a variety of ways communities can provide low and moderate-income housing He said a pamphlet describing each plan is being prepared by NIPC and will be circulated in the various communities

Some communities will probably react negatively to the plan when first approached Pahl admitted However, he said he believes those communities will finally agree

TEICHERT WHO has not yet talked with other officials said it is "hard to say' if every community will cooperate 'I don t know myself if I will vote for it until the plan is all put together," he said 'I don't think I'm different from other mayors in our area '

Teichert said he is now preparing a report on the housing meetings for the Mount Prospect Community Services and Mental Health Commission which is considering the local low and moderate-income housing question in that village

Ask Municipal Conference For Tree-Burning Answer

Efforts are under way to have the Northwest Municipal Conference come up with a solution to the current ban on tree burning in this area

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D Teichert says he will ask the group to consider purchasing its own burning equipment for use by member municipalities or 'subsidizing the county '

The Cook County Forest Preserve District burning area near Wheeling was closed June 30 because the county could not afford to install the air curtain destructors required by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency These burners are designed to cut down on the amount of smoke released into the air

Teichert said the county estimated it would cost $250,000 to install the five curtain destructors that would be necessary to handle the burning needs of the area

'I INTEND TO write to all the mayors of the conference,' Teichert said, 'We all have the same problem "

The problem is that diseased and damaged trees have to be cut down and removed Burning of the trees is the most effective means of staying the disease It is also the least expensive, much cheaper than using the landfill method

"It looks like it will be seven to 10 times more expensive for us to go with a landfill,' Teichert said "Collective actions would be a very real approach "

Should the conference decide to buy its own equipment, a suitable site would have to be found first and Teicher admitted that could be difficult "Although it shouldn't be because the curtain device cuts down the smoke "

There is no August meeting scheduled for the conference but Teichert said he hopes a special meeting could be called if necessary

SO FAR THIS year Mount Prospect has had to cut down very few diseased trees The cold weather has kept the bugs in control for the first part of the summer Although Herbert Weeks, assistant public works director fears the very recent warm weather may change the situation

Weeks said that about 30 trees have been cut down since the ban was put in effect These trees have been stored in West Park Golf and Busse roads

Another 30 should come down Weeks said, but instead they are stripping off the branches and leaving just the trunks up, a type of 'on site" storage Once September is here, the danger of the spread of tree disease lessens and the diseased trees can be cut down at any time

Village Mgr Robert J Eppley said that under their contract it would cost about $99 a tree to have them hauled to a burning site near Melrose Park The village cannot afford this, he said A total of $10,000 has been budgeted for tree and stump removal this year

Many of the village's trees have been damaged by the recent storms, and Eppley said the branches and trimmings removed from these trees has been shredded and the resulting material used as temporary roads in West Park

Bad Weather Is One Cause

Low Attendance Marks Migrant Camp

Some days there were as many leaders as there were children but everyone still managed to have a good time at the Girl Scout day camp for migrant children

Offered on an experimental basis by the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County the day camp was designed for 60 Mexican American children During the course of the two week program which ended Friday 75 children attended but on some days attendance was as low as 12

'The main problem was we were competing with the summer migrant program offered by the school districts" said Miss Paula Siegel camp coordinator The weather didn t help either, she added Some days were excessively hot while on other days there were thunderstorms

Children at the day camp ranged in age from 4 to 13 years old and came from all over the Northwest suburbs and as far away as Cary The children were referred to the program by the Northwest Opportunity Center

Working with the children and Miss Siegel were 12 Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts from the Northwest area

THE DAY camp, which was funded by the Girl Scouts was originally planned to be a seperate unit from the regular Girl Scout Day camp Because of low attendance the few younger and older children were integrated into the regular day camp program It also wasn't long before the units in the regular day camp were inviting the group to share their lunch

During the day camp the children worked on nature crafts, songs, games, fishing, dancing and cooking out

One day the group made a pinata which they proceeded to break open On the following day they made sombreros and some came dressed in Mexican costumes This was part of International Day at the camp and the group had decided to represent Mexico

Holdup Attempt Foiled; Youth, 18, Caught By Police

The youth, George A. Laos, of 1269 Cora St., was apprehended in his car at the bank's drive-in window lane after he allegedly gave the teller a note attached to a withdrawal slip which read: "This is a holdup. Put $10,000 into the machine. Thank you."

A 17-year-old girl, also of Des Plaines, was waiting with Laos in his auto at the time of the arrest but was later released to her parents.

According to police, the bank teller pushed an alarm button upon receiving the note while another bank employe called police with a description of Laos' auto.

Patrolmen Mike Lambeau, Jerry Liggett, and Daniel Carr arrived at 4:23 p.m., at the bank, shortly after being called by a bank employe. They blocked Laos' auto and arrested him and the girl.

LAOS WAS TURNED over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation because bank robbery is a federal offense.

Police said they found no weapons on Laos or in his car. He is being held in the Des Plaines lockup and is expected to be charged with strong arm bank robbery this morning in Federal District Court.

At least 15 FBI agents were at the Des Plaines police station after the robbery attempt to question Laos on other robberies in the area, according to police.

Officer Lambeau told the Herald that when he and Liggett arrived at the bank they approached Laos' vehicle with guns drawn. He surrendered to police who handcuffed him before bringing him to the station. Carr apprehended the girl and brought her to the station. She was later released after police were advised by the FBI that she would not be charged.

Lambeau said Laos made no statement to Des Plaines police before being turned over to the FBI.

CENTRAL SCHOOL, 1526 Thacker, Des Plaines, is offering a federally funded summer school program for the children of migrant workers. Free lunch and bus service are provided for the 100 children enrolled in the day-long session. The program is designed to give the children help in the English language and provide a successful school experience. See additional photo on Page 2.

Housing Commission Will Meet Soon

The new Des Plaines special housing commission will meet soon to decide if it will conduct a study of low and moderate-income housing.

According to its newly appointed chairman, Ralph Martin, the commission will meet to determine which city housing problems should be studied, to examine the responsibilities it has been given by the city council, and to establish its study procedures.

Martin, a former alderman who has been active in efforts to bring about downtown Des Plaines redevelopment, said no meeting date has been set as yet, although the commission will meet as "soon as possible."

The council, when it created the commission last February, ordered the commission to meet within two weeks of the appointment of its members. Seven commission members were appointed July 17.

THE SEVEN ARE Martin, John Brennan, a research chemist; Harold Harvey, a former member of the Elk Grove Township Elementary District 59 Board of Education; Edward Sherwood, president of the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce and Industry; Joseph Botte, president of the Des Plaines Citizens Opposed to Low and Moderate-Income Housing; Lee Marconi, a building contractor; and William Vedral, an attorney.

According to the resolution which created the commission it must meet "regularly" and as often as necessary to complete a written study within one year. The commission was ordered to submit quarterly reports and a final, year-end report, with recommendations.

Although the council disagreed on several topics for commission study — and also indicated the commission would have some freedom to set its own study agenda — the council ordered studies of "substandard housing," possible senior citizen housing studies, and the possible need for a local housing authority.

Aldermen disagreed over whether the commission should be authorized to study government subsidized housing for low and moderate-income families, and this issue was not fully settled. At the end of council debates, some aldermen felt that the authorization to study "substandard housing" also meant that the commission could study low and moderate-income housing. Other council members said the commission itself would decide whether it could or couldn't study low and moderate-income housing.

THE COMMISSION was created at the request of the council's health and welfare commission, which had recommended rejection of a low and moderate-income housing proposal because of a "lack of information."

Acting on the recommendation of committee chairman Ald. Robert Sherwood (2nd), the council majority defeated a move by Ald. Robert Michaels (8th) to authorize specifically a low and moderate-income housing study.

Later, a U.S. Dept of Housing and Urban Development spokesman said that by rejecting Ald. Michael's proposal for a study, the council may have endangered future federal grants for low and moderate-income housing for senior citizens. However, this would not affect the current grant expected for a 128-unit senior citizen apartment building at Ashland and Lee streets, the Herald learned.

Michaels said the commission would be "crippled" if it could not study low and moderate-income housing.

Michaels, who has said he will neither endorse nor reject low and moderate-income housing until more study is done, said the commission could only recommend building code enforcement as a way of solving substandard housing problems, if forbidden to examine low and moderate-income housing.

SINCE SENIOR citizen housing is federally subsidized low and moderate-income housing for the elderly, the commission could not study this topic, he had said.

And a housing authority's sole job is to funnel governmental funds to local housing, so the commission cannot study this without studying low and moderate-income housing, Michaels also said.

Acting upon a request from Michaels, City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi drew up a legal opinion on whether the council had forbidden a low and moderate-income housing study, by refusing to specifically authorize such a study.

DiLeonardi said the council's action in authorizing a study of "substandard housing" but not low and moderate-income housing was "unclear." He said the council should either vote to specifically deny a study of low and moderate-income housing, or it should specifically vote to allow such a study.

These actions left the council position in doubt, according to DiLeonardi.

Ex-School Chief Williams Heads Historical Unit

A former chairman of the Des Plaines School Dist. 62 Board of Education has been elected president of the Des Plaines Historical Society.

James Williams, who retired from the school board in 1970 to become a member of the St. Martin's Episcopal Church council, succeeds David Wolfe, who recently became chairman of the city's new landmark commission.

Williams has served as a member of the historical society since 1967, and he also helped create the society, according to spokesmen.

Others elected by the society membership include Joan Evans, a former historical society director, who now will serve as vice president.

Arthur Wetter, who heads a public relations and advertising firm, will serve as secretary. Joan DiLeonardi, wife of City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi, will serve as treasurer.

Former Mayor Kenneth Meyer will serve as a director and will contribute legal advice, a spokesman said.

Youth Arrested For Pot Possession

An Arlington Heights youth was arrested by Des Plaines police Sunday evening for possession of marijuana after the youth reportedly was seen smoking a marijuana cigarette in the 600 block of Beau Drive.

According to reports, patrolman Ron Diehl saw an unlighted marijuana cigarette in the hand of George Craig, 19, of 2808 Briarwood, Arlington Heights. Diehl said he approached Craig and a companion because they were on private property belonging to Commonwealth Edison Co. and there had been reports of youths smoking marijuana on the property.

Diehl said he found a plastic bag containing a large quantity of the plant in Craig's pocket. Craig's companion was not charged.

Craig was released on a $1,000 bond and was scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court Sept. 7 at 11 a.m.

Particles On Shoes Lead To Arrest Of Suspects

Glass Gives Away Burglaries

Two men were arrested yesterday, an hour after they allegedly burglarized two Des Plaines service stations when police reportedly found glass particles similar to those at the scene of one of the burglaries on the bottoms of the suspect's shoes.

Richard Banks, 19, of 1828 Webster Ln., Des Plaines and Terry Ingram, 22, of 131 N. Hale St., Wheaton, were arrested at the Clark Service Station, Oakton and Orchard streets, at 4:30 a.m.

Police said Banks and Ingram smashed in a window at Brunswick Shell Service Station, 2110 E. Touhy Ave., Des Plaines, entered and ransacked the office area, escaping with nothing.

A few minutes laer, according to reports, the pair allegedly kicked in the door of Wally's Gas-For-Less, 1900 Touhy Ave., ransacked the office area and tried to pry open a vending machine. A total of 101 pennies were taken from the station, a frequent target of burglaries and thefts.

"AN HOUR later, patrolmen Jack Whetstone and Michael Dawson along with Det. Robert Zelmet observed Banks and Ingram in the Clark station. The pair reportedly told the policemen they were out driving around because of the hot weather.

While questioning the suspects, the three policemen noticed glass particles on the bottoms of the two men's shoes. Police said the glass particles were similar to those left on the floor of the Brunswick Shell station after the window was smashed.

Police said the two men were then ordered to open their car trunk where a tire iron with paint scrapings matching the color of the paint on the vending machine at Wally's was found.

Banks is being held in the Cook County Jail in lieu of $15,000 bond and Ingram is being held in lieu of $10,000 bond. Both are scheduled to appear in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court this morning at 9:30 a.m.

Auto Parts Stolen

Robert Sternberg, 1184 River Rd., told police thieves entered his unlocked garage sometime Thursday and took the auto parts, which included two carburetors.

Girl, 17, Wins Award For Excellence

by JOHN MAES

What started out as a physics project by Gabriele Ronnett of Mount Prospect in her sophomore year at Hersey High School turned out to be one of the best things that ever happened to the environmentally troubled Hillcrest Slough.

Gabriele's three-year analysis of pollution of the slough's north end, which has been dirtied from sewage dumping and soil erosion, has helped arouse a sharp public awareness of the potential danger to the wetland.

"I didn't think at first that I'd end up studying the slough as long as I did," said Gabriele, 17, whose study won her an award for excellence in scientific research from Argonne National Laboratory.

"But the more I learned about the area from studying it, the more I felt I should continue," she added.

THE PROJECT WAS basically a fact-finding mission about the life systems, soil and water conditions of that slough area in Prospect Heights along Willow Road. "That was the general scheme of the whole thing — to gather as much data as I could," Gabriele said.

Her massive fact-finding mission included taking countless water and soil samples as well as scores of photographs of the area's plant, insect and wildlife.

On Sunday mornings during the summer, she would go to the slough to collect her samples and take humidity and water temperature readings as a part of her data-gathering routine.

The water samples enabled her to determine pollution levels that registered significantly higher in the north half of the wetland. Her soil samples revealed that nitrogen, an element vital to plant growth, was dangerously low in the north half.

The photographs not only showed existing pollution levels but assisted Gabriele in charting the aging process of the slough. "I compared the photographs I took with some others taken in the 1950s and noticed that the north half is aging at a much faster rate than the south half."

"WILDLIFE IS diminishing in the north half while the south remains pretty much intact," she continued.

Sitting with binoculars, she watched the general wildlife distribution and saw that most of the blue heron, ducks and Canadian geese there in the summer were gathered mostly around the south half.

All her samples, pictures and other fact-gathers meant hours upon hours of experimentation. Beginning in February, Gabriele would spend the better part of a day experimenting either at school or at home where she has her own microscope.

In addition to the laboratory facilities she used at Hersey High, her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Ronnett of 502 Garwood Dr., invested $200 in their daughter's project. The money paid for an aerial photograph trip over the area.

GABRIELE, WHO IS eyeing a career in biological and genetic research and hopes to attend Stanford University in the fall, said the slough could clean itself out in three or four years if a channel to the north half could be opened.

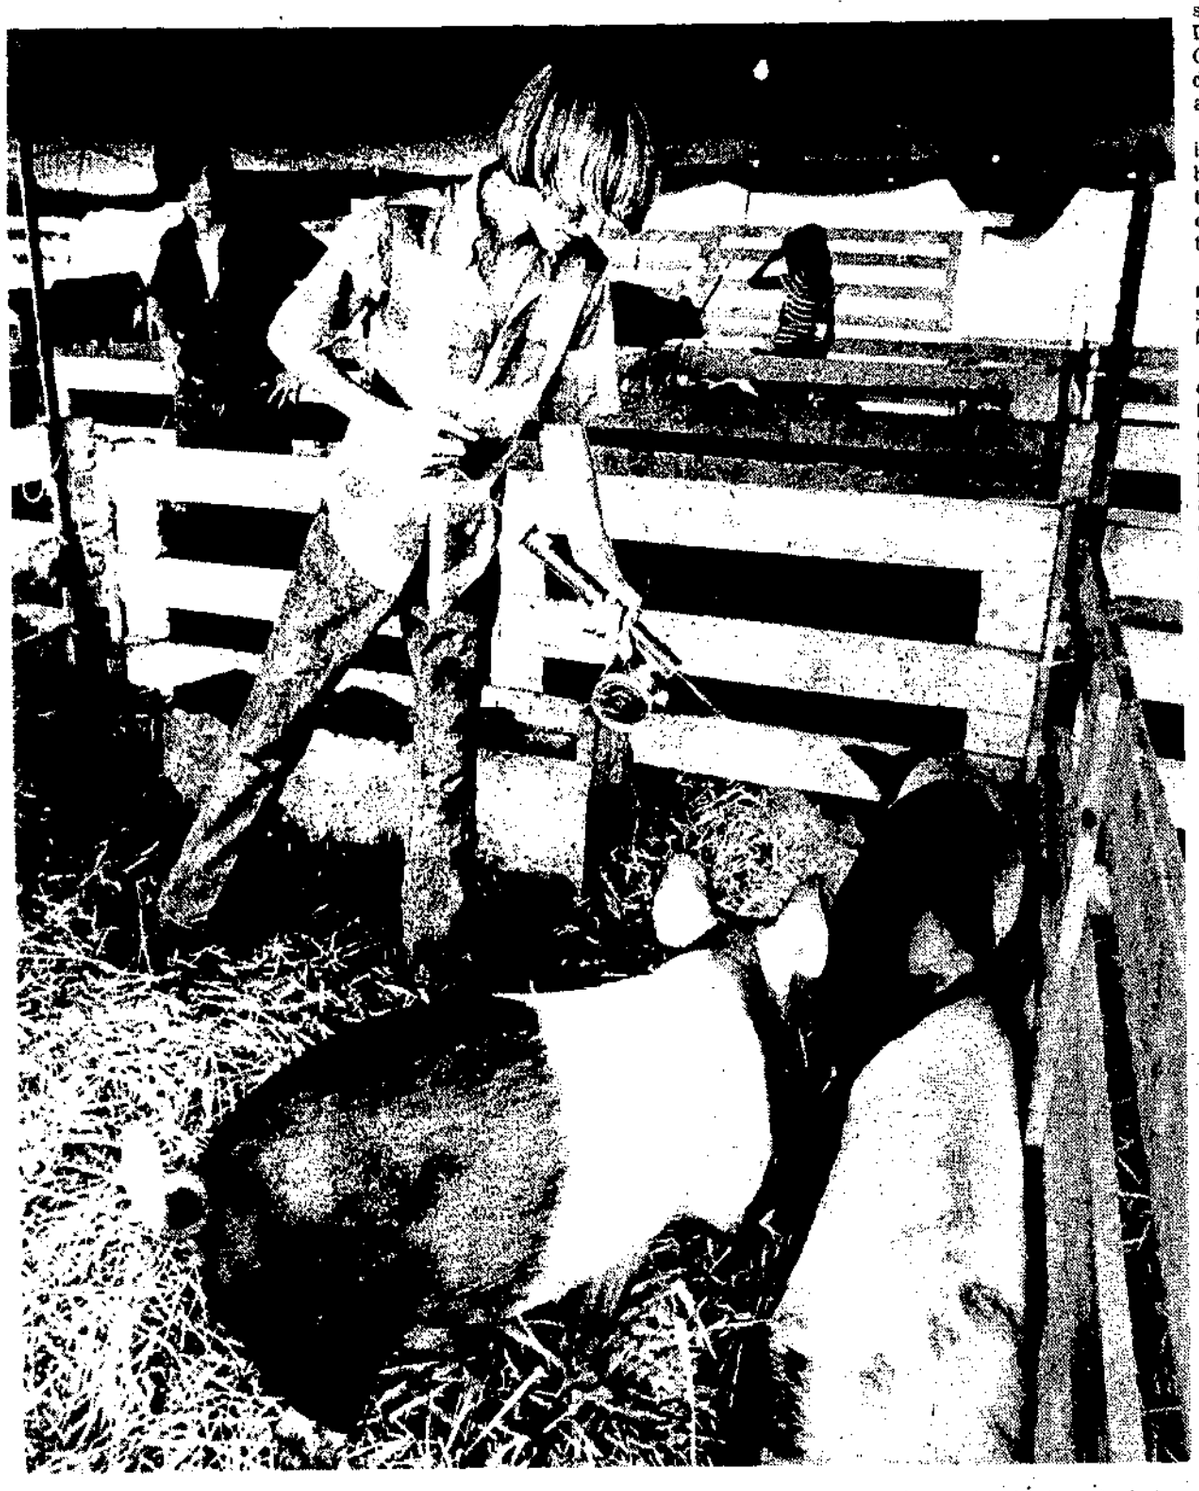

"If the south half is left alone and a natural flow between the two ends restored, it would be back to normal in a few years," she said.

Gabriele, who hopes to obtain a medical degree to aid her in research has been active in such organizations as students for Environmental Action, The Illinois Junior Academy of Science and the National Honor Society at Hersey. She also served on the "Save the Slough" committee.

Gabriele feels that the mounds if information she collected during three years will be of value to people living in the area of the slough. "Now that they know what the situation is, maybe people will look at the area from a more ecological point of view."

NURSERY CLASSES at the Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines, will begin September 5. Under the direction of the Board of Jewish Education, the new school will offer instruction for the three to five-year-olds in religious orientation as well as activities which foster creativity, self-confidence and social awareness. Parents may choose morning or afternoon sessions, two or three half-days a week. Shown here are the director, Barbara Pomerantz, and students, Jamie Orlowsky and her brother, Joby, of 8430 Oak Ave., Niles. For further information, call 297-2006.

PREPARING THE PIGS for competition takes many hours, and the last effort includes a quick spray, as demonstrated here by Todd Kuechler of Elgin. The competition was held as part of the 1972 North Cook County 4-H Fair in Arlington Heights during the weekend. More than one-third of the 57 trophies were donated by Arlington Heights merchants.

Mayors Study Volunteer Housing Plan

by KAREN BLECHA

Twelve mayors, including one from the Northwest suburbs, are attempting to formulate a volunteer program for distribution of low and moderate-income housing throughout the suburban Chicago area.

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert and 11 other representatives of a six-county-wide area have been meeting since December to try to piece together a tentative housing plan.

The mayors were brought together by the Housing Coalition of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities and are receiving technical assistance from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC).

THE IDEA FOR such a housing program came from Jack Pahl, an NIPC commissioner and former Elk Grove Village mayor. He has been meeting with the mayors who represent Kane, McHenry, Will, DuPage and Lake counties and the north, northwest, south, southwest and west regions of Cook County. Towns represented include Flossmoor, Wood Dale and Evanston in addition to Mount Prospect.

"The way I see it is that if we don't work out our own housing programs now under the control of local government, the federal court will give us a court-imposed program," Pahl said. "And the courts are very insensitive to the backgrounds and characteristics of our communities."

Pahl pointed to a suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union that would require the distribution of 60,000 low-income housing units on a "fair-share" basis. The suit is now before U. S. District Court Judge Richard Austin.

Pahl said the housing meetings have been kept quiet because "no one wants high visibility on a sensitive program like this." He said this was why he chose to work through the Leadership Council, a private agency.

According to Pahl, the housing group has been studying statistics provided by NIPC that show the need for low and moderate-income housing in the various county areas. He said the 12 mayors will soon start talking to other officials in their areas about a housing plan.

"There will be 'X' number of units that will be needed for each area. Then it will be up to the local communities in that area to make the decision on where the housing should go," Pahl said.

HE SAID THE housing would probably include units for senior citizens, people who can't afford to live where they work and single people "who can't afford to live in the communities they were brought up in." He said the group is using federal standards when defining income: $6,000 to $12,000 a year for moderate and $6,000 and under for low income. The figures depend on family size.

The group hopes to have a complete six-county housing plan including proposed sites and a 10-year implementation program in two years, Pahl said.

"The plan is to get a local coalition together in each community that will work on their own programs," Pahl said. He said agencies such as planning commissions and zoning boards would join religious and civic leaders and local officials in the coalition.

Pahl said the mayor representatives would also work with governmental agencies such as the Northwest Municipal Conference in formulating regional plans.

"The whole key to it is that everyone is doing a little bit so that no one community gets the burden. This way everyone will get their fair share," he said.

Pahl pointed out there are a variety of ways communities can provide low and moderate-income housing. He said a pamphlet describing each plan is being prepared by NIPC and will be circulated in the various communities.

Some communities will probably react negatively to the plan when first approached, Pahl admitted. However, he said he believes those communities will finally agree.

TEICHERT, WHO has not yet talked with other officials, said it is "hard to say" if every community will cooperate. "I don't know myself if I will vote for it until the plan is all put together," he said. "I don't think I'm different from other mayors in our area."

Teichert said he is now preparing a report on the housing meetings for the Mount Prospect Community Services and Mental Health Commission, which is considering the local low and moderate-income housing question in that village.

Bargaining Will Resume In August

Teacher and school board bargaining teams in River Trails Dist. 26 will probably wait until late August to meet again, despite attempts by the board to meet sooner.

Board Pres. Lloyd Demel last week asked representatives of the River Trails Education Association (RTEA) if the two sides could resume talks as soon as possible. Demel asked the RTEA to suggest meeting dates earlier than late August. The two sides have not met since June 19, and no agreements on a 1972-73 contract have been reached.

"I think the board was honest to try and get things going again and seems to be willing to listen to all sides," said Gary Rathgeber, RTEA president. However, Rathgeber said, members of the teacher bargaining team are now out of town and will not be back until the end of August.

Rathgeber also said Richard Zwieback, professional negotiator for the board, was reluctant to meet again until August or early September. Zwieback, however, said last week he has been willing to meet with teachers all summer.

"I would have met with them any time," said Zwieback. "What I told them was that if they did not change their position, the meetings would just be a waste of time. It's not the matter of meeting but a question of what the teachers want. If they maintain the same position we are not going to be able to accomplish much."

Zwieback said the board is waiting for teachers to reply to an offer that would give teachers an average $350 raise. The raise, approximately 3.7 per cent, would be in the form of an increment, a raise based on experience and education. The amount of the increment would be the same as that in last year's salary schedule and would cost the district $52,000, according to Zwieback.

"We've been willing to move the whole time. It's the board who hasn't been willing to move," said Rathgeber. "It's their proposals we're hung up by, and Zwieback won't explain those proposals."

The original RTEA proposal included a 6.5 per cent salary increase plus the increment. Teachers then said they expected the increment plus a cost of living raise which they estimated at about 3.2 per cent.

Air Hammer Stolen

An air hammer valued at $400 was stolen from a construction site at the rear of Littelfuse Inc., 800 Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines, it was reported last Friday.

Police said the theft occured Thursday afternoon when the construction workers took a short break.

Charged With Obscene Calls

A Chicago man, 22, who allegedly made six obscene phone calls to a Des Plaines woman was arrested by Des Plaines police Thursday night after the woman reportedly met the man at a restaurant staked out by police.

Police charged Thomas Palko, 3107 S. Morgan, Chicago, with disorderly conduct after the woman, her husband and a Des Plaines police officer, who all heard the obscene caller's voice over the telephone, reportedly identified Palko's voice.

According to reports, the woman received five obscene calls Wednesday night and a sixth Thursday night. During the sixth call the woman set up a meeting with the caller at a local restaurant as suggested by police.

The caller reportedly gave the woman a description of himself. Palko was arrested when he arrived at the restaurant and approached the woman, reportedly telling her he was the caller.

Palko was released on a $25 bond and scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit court Aug. 17 at 9:30 a.m.

Bishop Washburn To Speak

The Rev. Paul A. Washburn, newly appointed bishop of the Northern Illinois United Methodist Conference, will speak at the United Methodist Campgrounds at Des Plaines in Waldorf Tabernacle, at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

This will be one of his first appearances since assuming his new assignment, coming here from the Minnesota area of the church. Chicago area members and ministers are invited to the service and to meet him later in a reception in the dining hall.

The Wier family, Lacon, will be making its third appearance on the camp schedule that same day at 11 a.m. in Wesley Tabernacle. Mrs. Wier is Peoria area representative of the American Bible Society. Their program, "Worship — Family Style," is in much demand in Central Illinois. Both father and son are active in the lay witness movement there as well.

Sunday morning and Wednesday evening services at the Campgrounds continue through August, closing with a Communion Service on Labor Day Sunday, Sept. 3. The annual "Country Fair" at the campgrounds will be Saturday, Aug. 12.

Property Classification

Public Tax Assessment Hearings Set This Week

Citizens, builders, real estate agents, businessmen and school officials are scheduled to testify at public hearings this week on a new system of tax assessments for Cook County.

Public hearings will be held today and Thursday by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton on how to classify various types of property for assessment and local taxation purposes.

THE HEARINGS are being held in connection with the new Illinois State Constitution which permits the classification of different types of properties in computing assessments.

Under the old constitution, all property was required to be assessed at 100 per cent of its value, although in practice the law was rarely enforced.

Thomas M. Tully, chief deputy assessor, said the hearings are to help the assessor decide how many categories should be established for classification of property and at what percentages of market value various categories of property should be assessed.

This week's hearings follow a series held last week at which testimony was heard from the Greater Chicago Committee, the Town Hall assembly, theChicago Real Estate Board and The Citizens Action Program.

Slated to testify today or Thursday are Cook County Supt. of Schools Richard Martwick, the Greater North Michigan Avenue Association, the United Builders Association of Chicago and the Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

OTHERS WHO will appear include Philhp Watson, the assessor of Los Angeles County and president of the International Association of Assessing Officers; Edward Durschlag, a South Side real estate agent; the South Side Builders Association and the Hegewisch Community Committee.

Richard Michael, a Loyola University law professor, is presiding as the chief hearing examiner at the sessions.

The meetings will be from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the county board chambers on the fifth floor of the Cook County building in Chicago.

"After the hearings have been concluded and a thorough study of the problems is completed, Prof Michael as the chief hearing examiner, then will make recommendations to Assessor Cullerton on these important questions," Tully said

Deborah Johnson, who was sleeping next to Fred Hampton the night the Black Panther leader was killed in a police raid, testified yesterday that she kept a loaded 12-gauge shotgun in the bedroom.

Miss Johnson, 21, said the shotgun was assigned to her as a party member. She said Hampton also was assigned a shotgun and sometimes kept a 45 automatic in the bedroom

She made the statements during some four hours of meticulous cross-examination by defense attorney Thomas Sullivan during the conspiracy trial of Cook County State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 codefendants.

The 14 are accused of conspiracy to obstruct justice by altering and concealing evidence about the Dec. 4, 1969, weapons raid on a West Side apartment in which Hampton and Mark Clark, another Panther leader, were killed

MISS JOHNSON also told Sullivan that she was aware of a "mandate" from national party leaders advocating resistance to police raiding parties.

In a vivid description of the predawn raid during direct testimony Friday, Miss Johnson said neither she, Hampton or another party member who was in the bedroom with them attempted to pick up weapons or otherwise resist the police raiders.

Miss Johnson told Sullivan that Hampton taught her to use the shotgun and other weapons between May and December, 1969. She said she practiced firing the shotgun in an open field.

ON THE NIGHT before the raid, she testified, Hampton and other party members attended a political orientation class on "the strategic means to resist the power structure." But Miss Johnson said she went to a girl friend's house and did not attend the session.

Miss Johnson said she quit the Panthers in 1971 and now lives alone with her 2½-year-old child. She is employed in the billings and accounts department at Marshall Field & Co. department store.

She told Sullivan that as a party member she frequently used the word "pig" and defined it as referring to "any person who moves to take the life or attempts to take the life" of a Panther member

Girl, 17, Wins Award For Excellence

by JOHN MAES

What started out as a physics project by Gabriele Ronnett of Mount Prospect in her sophomore year at Hersey High School turned out to be one of the best things that ever happened to the environmentally troubled Hillcrest Slough

Gabriele s three year analysis of pollution of the slough's north end, which has been dirtied from sewage dumping and soil erosion, has helped arouse a sharp public awareness of the potential danger to the wetland

I didn t think at first that I d end up studying the slough as long as I did said Gabriele 17 whose study won her an award for excellence in scientific research from Argonne National Laboratory

' But the more I learned about the area from studying it the more I felt I should continue, ' she added

THE PROJECT WAS basically a fact-finding mission about the life systems soil and water conditions of that slough area in Prospect Heights along Willow Road That was the general scheme of the whole thing — to gather as much data as I could, Gabriele said

Her massive fact finding mission included taking countless water and soil samples as well as scores of photographs of the area s plant insect and wildlife

On Sunday mornings during the summer she would go to the slough to collect her samples and take humidity and water temperature readings as a part of her data gathering routine

The water samples enabled her to determine pollution levels that registered significantly higher in the north half of the wetland Her soil samples revealed that nitrogen, an element vital to plant growth was dangerously low in the north half

The photographs not only showed existing pollution levels but assisted Gabriele in charting the aging process of the slough I compared the photographs I took with some others taken in the 1950s and noticed that the north half is aging at a much faster rate than the south half '

WILDLIFE IS diminishing in the north half while the south remains pretty much intact ' she continued

Sitting with binoculars, she watched the general wildlife distribution and saw that most of the blue heron, ducks and Canadian geese there in the summer were gathered mostly around the south half

All her samples, pictures and other fact-gathers meant hours upon hours of experimentation Beginning in February Gabriele would spend the better part of a day experimenting either at school or at home where she has her own microscope

In addition to the laboratory facilities she used at Hersey High, her parents, Dr and Mrs Alexander Ronnett of 502 Garwood Dr invested $200 in their daughter s project The money paid for an aerial photograph trip over the area

GABRIELE, WHO IS eyeing a career in biological and genetic research and hopes to attend Stanford University in the fall, said the slough could clean itself out in three or four years if a channel to the north half could be opened

If the south half is left alone and a natural flow between the two ends restored it would be back to normal in a few years," she said

Gabriele who hopes to obtain a medical degree to aid her in research has been active in such organizations as students for Environmental Action, The Illinois Junior Academy of Science and the National Honor Society at Hersey She also served on the "Save the Slough" committee

Gabriele feels that the mounds if information she collected during three years will be of value to people living in the area of the slough "Now that they know what the situation is, maybe people will look at the area from a more ecological point of view '

'I think the board was honest to try and get things going again and seems to be willing to listen to all sides said Gary Rathgeber, RTEA president However Rathgeber said, members of the teacher bargaining team are now out of town and will not be back until the end of August

Rathgeber also said Richard Zwieback professional negotiator for the board was reluctant to meet again until August or early September Zwieback however, said last week he has been willing to meet with teachers all summer

' I would have met with them any time said Zwieback ' What I told them was that if they did not change their position the meetings would just be a waste of time It s not the matter of meeting but a question of what the teachers want If they maintain the same position we are not going to be able to accomplish much

Zwieback said the board is waiting for teachers to reply to an offer that would give teachers an average $350 raise The raise approximately 3 7 per cent would be in the form of an increment, a raise based on experience and education The amount of the increment would be the same as that in last year's salary schedule and would cost the district $52,000, according to Zwieback

"We ve been willing to move the whole time It's the board who hasn't been willing to move,' said Rathgeber 'It's their proposals we re hung up by, and Zwieback won't explain those proposals "

The original RTEA proposal included a 6 5 per cent salary increase plus the increment Teachers then said they expected the increment plus a cost of living raise which they estimated at about 3 2 per cent

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

THERE WAS QUITE a bit of cleaning up to do so members of the This Beleagured Earth study group of the Northwest Suburban Branch of the American Association of University Women gathered early in downtown Des Plaines along the Chicago and North Western Railroad tracks. Julie Acker, right, and Merle Wagley, both of Des Plaines, began picking up trash with 12 other members of the study group at 8:30 a.m. last Wednesday. The study groups concerns itself with ecology; this and other upcoming projects are designed to put their beliefs into action.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: We have a dreadful mole problem. Every time we look out, there is another stack of fresh dirt. Do you know of any insecticide or other method to control these pests?

—J. K.

No insecticide will have any effect on moles. However, the proper insecticides to get rid of earthworms, grubs, beetles and insect larvae will get rid of the moles, too. After all, these are what moles live on and once you eliminate their food supply, they will leave.

Some readers report they've had success with putting the laundry detergent (with little blue particles in it) or mothballs or crystals in the runs. The experts sneer at these home remedies and say that not even poisonous gas will do the trick. The Department of Interior says traps will work if put in the most frequently used runs.

Tip to brides: If you like cucumber, try adding some chopped cucumber to your potato salad. They're good, too, added to a bowl of borsch mixed with a heaping tablespoon of sour cream

Stopped in at a neighbor's to see how their moving was coming along and, to my complete surprise, saw a bare wall on which had been a beautiful pastoral scene. All along I thought it had been wallpaper. She had bought two lengths of this beautiful material, sewed them together and pasted them on the wall with sticky tape just made for this kind of enterprise.

Dear Dorothy: I had a lot of trouble with black marks on my tile floor from a portable dishwasher. Couldn't find any casters to replace the offending black ones so wrapped the casters in strapping tape and the trouble has been eliminated.

Matchmaking Still Common In Asia

by MAX VANZI

SINGAPORE (UPI) —Although the "arranged" marriage has almost completely disappeared from Western civilization it still is very much a part of life in most of Asia.

Arranged marriages — wherein third parties bring couples together or hold the power to pull them apart — account for an estimated 95 per cent of marriages in India, about half those in Japan and South Korea, well over half in Malaysia and three-quarters or perhaps more among the overseas Chinese in Southeast Asia.

Communist China discourages arranged marriages but matchmakers are believed still consulted — as they have been for 41 centuries — in rural districts far from China's cities. By contrast such matchmaking has all but disappeared in Nationalist Chinese Taiwan.

SPOUSE-SELECTING by parents is confined mainly to the noble and the wealthy in Thailand and Cambodia, but the professional matchmaker gets a good trade in both countries.

Freedom of marital choice has become nearly universal in the Philippines. But government officials report marriages are still arranged among some of the country's 4 million minorities and in some isolated Christian communities. The pagan T'Boli tribe on Mindanao Island is reported still arranging marriages between 14 and 15-year-olds amid colorful rituals and exchanges of dowries.

Arranged marriages remain popular in Indonesia and are losing ground only in the few urban centers where foreign influences have an impact.

In Malaysia, the Malay population adheres to the practice in the extreme in many cases. It is not uncommon for prospective marriage partners to remain strangers who meet for the first time at their wedding ceremony. The professional matchmaker is common to every Kampong native village in Malaysia, where the system is as common as ever.

A RANDOM sampling of "arranged" marital partners by UPI reporters indicated that in many cases, at least, it works out well for both parties. Malaysian Mohamad Tap bin Selamat said when he was 25 years old, his parents retained a widowed midwife, Zaharah Ahmad, 62, to find him a wife.

"I found out my prospective bride lived in the next village and discovered who the family was. I though I'd try at least to get a look at her. I tried several times but failed and laid eyes on her for the first time only on the wedding day."

In seven years of marriage since, Tap said in an interview in Kuala Lumpur, he has had no regrets about his lack of personal choice in his mate.

Tap's wife, Rokiah, said she was as much in the dark as he was while their marriage preparations were under way.

"MY MOTHER told me one day before the wedding that I was to be married," she said. "She was so strict I was afraid to say no and I was afraid of him, too, because I heard he was in the army and was afraid he would be rough and tough. My fears were unfounded. We have a good life together, and love."

Among the Singapore-Malayasia region's Chinese, the business of mate selection is very businesslike indeed.

Chua Kwee Huat, 42, a hotel employe in Singapore, said when he was married 20 years ago, he was able to choose his own bride, after parental approval on both sides, but all the details were handled through a matchmaker.

"She and representatives from the bride's family negotiated a dowry from my family to the bride's consisting of 12 red paper packets each containing 16 Singapore dollars ($5.35), one whole leg of roast pork and four gold ornaments," Chua said.

ANOTHER AID to matrimony, particularly in cities with large numbers of Chinese marriageables, is the marriage bureau. Andrew Soh, manager of the Asia Marriage Aid Bureau in Singapore, has arranged more than 1,000 marriages in nine years.

"Most of my clients are professional people who have little time to mix around," Soh said. "Their only hope is through a matchmaker."

Soh charges $20 a client to find him or her a mate. When a match is made, he collects another $50 as a "word of thanks."

Japan's mixture of traditional and modern has left the arranged marriage an intact institution.

The selection method in Japan, known as miai kekkon, is favored by parents and, according to the government, by couples, too. "A government survey shows that arranged marriages are likely to result in fewer divorces than love marriages," a Labor Ministry spokesman told UPI.

OF ALL COUNTRIES India is the one where arranged marriags remain strongest. Unions between man and woman simply take place by no other means in rural India, where 75 to 80 per cent of the country's 550 million population live. Even in India's cities, rare is the marriage decided by the betrothed alone.

A combination of India's poverty and near total control of parents over children —a power that has hardly slackened in 2,500 years — accounts for the rocklike quality of the arranged marriage institution there.

To buck the system, economic independence from the famly is required by both man and woman and in India such independence is made nearly impossible, even for the most resolute, because of the lack of jobs in India's urban centers.

A Paddock Review

'That Lady' Mediocre Fare

by GENIE CAMPBELL

"Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?," the current Pheasant Run Playhouse offering, is amateurish theatrical fare.

The play is tasteless mediocrity characterized by a weak plot, inadequate stage direction and bumbling scene changes which succeed ultimately in breaking the comedy's continuity.

Opening night last week was a farce, but an unintentional one.

Comedy is one of the most available commodities going, but good comedy is difficult to come by. "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" has a few good lines, a couple of funny scenes and a well cast leading lady. It's not enough, however, even when technical difficulties are disregarded, to ignite an audience.

BOB CRANE, star for six years in the television series "Hogan's Heroes," is the billed big name of the show. He doesn't do a bad job, but his performance is less than stimulating primarily because the role itself is rather staid. There's not much chance for him to break loose.

Crane plays David Williams, a college professor who is caught by his wife kissing a foreign exchange student. A very jealous woman, the wife, Kay, refuses to believe a very simple explanation and threatens to walk out on him.

But if Williams can prove that his action was all in the line of duty, Kay would be most understanding.

With the aid of his inventive bachelor friend, Michael Haney, played by Sidney Eden who decidedly has the more colorful role, Williams comes up with a beautiful story. He is an FBI agent, the student was a foreign spy and well . . . he was merely fulfilling his assignment.

THROUGH A "juxtaposition of unfortunate circumstances," as is frequently stated throughout the play, the little white lie turns into a huge international blunder.

The one high note of the evening is a rewarding performance by attractive Pam Hayes who plays David's wife, Kay.

Her reactions to learning that her husband is an FBI agent are highly amusing. Even more effective are her innocent conversations with agent Harry Powell, played by Ralph Foody, and her enthusiastic drive to help her husband and stand by him, no matter how dangerous the assignment. Miss Hayes succeeds in tying all the loose ends of the play together with a very convincing act of extreme gullibility.

USED TO WORKING with Crane, she has appeared with him in several different productions during the past two years.

The second act is by far the funnier. The setting is a Chinese restaurant where David and Michael are dining with two spacy but rather well-built sisters, supposedly to find out some top secret information. At least that is what Kay is told by the two imposters.

Kay arrives on the scene because David forgets his gun. A distraught Powell accompanies Mrs. Williams to confiscate the fake FBI identification card and end the masquerade. Alas, he is too late. The situation is too far out of hand.

A huge drawback to staging "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" at Pheasant Run is that the stage is just not large enough for or conducive to the many required scene changes. From the beginning it hampers the overall success of the play.

Summer Engagements Announced

Kathryn Flerlage

Kathryn A. Flerlage of Des Plaines and her fiance, Michael A. Kowalczyk of Evanston, are planning a Sept. 2 wedding. Their engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Kathryn's parents, the Ronald C. Flerlages of 222 Anderson Terr.

The bride-elect, a graduate of Elk Grove High School and Harper College, works at the Bank of Rolling Meadows. Michael, son of the Stan Kowalczyks, attended Harper and works for A. C. Nielson in Chicago.

Elaine Dinou

Former Arlington Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Dinou of Glenview announce the engagement of their daughter, Elaine Joanne, to Conrad C. Bar, son of the Stanley Bars of Des Plaines. An Aug. 27 wedding is planned.

Elaine is a Harper College graduate and works at Arlington High School. Her fiance attended St. Mary's College in Minnesota and is with Marina-Lee Corp.

South Stickney Captures 32-Team Bonanza

Bruins, Rosati's Impress In State Softball Bids

by JIM COOK

The letters "SS" mean "Super Sport" in the minds of automotive buffs, but in Des Plaines and specifically Rand Park over the weekend, the "SS" tag belonged to the supersports from South Stickney — the newly-crowned 1972 State 16-Inch Softball Tournament Champions.

South Stickney overcame a field of 32 entries in the 7th annual affair sponsored by the Illinois Park and Recreational Society and hosted by the Des Plaines Park District.

The two-day tourney was blistering both from the standpoint of the weather and of the overall play. Upsets, romps and thrillers all found a home within the high-caliber of competition.

The 16 area representatives didn't disappoint either. No less than seven survived the first round only because they eliminated the other three in head-to-head opening-round pairings.

Three of the seven battled their way into the quarter finals while two were still alive in the semi's Sunday afternoon. Park Ridge and South Stickney earned the championship berth, however, with the overall decision shifting to the "SS" boys by a 12-4 count.

Buffalo Grove, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove, Mount Prospect, Schaumburg and Des Plaines all advanced after first-round action and all by fairly decisive scores.

The Buffalo Grove Bruins, second-seeded in the prestigious tourney, sent Arlington Heights home with a quick exit, 18-3, by virtue of scoring in every inning and on homers by Ed Pitts, Bill Nay and Ken Irzal.

Palatine sent Wheeling home early, 15-8, but needed a seven-run outburst in the first extra inning to accomplish the feat. Mike Thomas and Mark Lindstrom paced the victors with three hits apiece.

Rolling Meadows had an easy time in extinguishing Joliet from the tourney, 14-7, as Jim Weber homered and Bob Koss notched three hits.

Tight defense paved the way for Elk Grove to oust Harvey, 8-3. Offensive support came from Tom Ostuoba's homer and a trio of safeties by Jim Miles.

Mount Prospect pulled the day's biggest upset by spanking third-seeded Evanston, 11-9, behind Marty Epperly's four singles and Len Kerber's three hits.

Schaumburg earned the stingy label after deflating DeKalb, 7-4, on the hurling of Jay Carlson. Vince Franzone and John Graffio ripped homers in the affair that found Schaumburg come storming from behind on the crest of a five-run sixth.

Des Plaines started fast with a five-run first and ended even more impressively with a seven-run seventh in crushing Prospect Heights, 18-7. Jerry Lipkin, Ed Gibis and winning pitcher Shelly Skidelsky hammered circuit clouts while Ed Fink blasted three hits.

The competition stiffened considerably in the second round, but three local teams still found the winning track.

Highly regarded Buffalo Grove stifled Oak Park, 8-1, as Don Welker fired a nifty seven-hitter and Bob Nay, brother Bill and Joe Sharley supplied two hits apiece.

In another cutthroat contest for the area, Mount Prospect bombed Schaumburg, 14-4, on Bob Rickman's three runs batted in and two each by Bob Braun, Jack Olson, Marty Epperly and Les Preuss.

Des Plaines was the final area entry to land a quarterfinal berth by slamming Waukegan, 16-4. Shelly Skidelsky allowed just seven hits and Jerry Lipkin and Ed Gibis walloped homers.

The second round was the limit for Palatine which got raked by Glenview, 9-3, Rolling Meadows who was the lone shutout victim wound up on the short end of a 13-6 count against Franklin Park.

Buffalo Grove etched a 9-4 verdict over Glenview to gain the semi's via a 14-hit

BRUIN STOP SIGN. Buffalo Grove sponsor and third base coach Ken Wirth holds up pitcher Don Welker after a fifth-inning triple. The Bruins eliminated Arlington Heights, 18-3, and pounded their way into the semi-finals, but dropped a 7-6 heartbreaker to eventual State Champion South Stickney. (Photo by Mike Seeling).

Plot Thickens Down Mid-Teen Stretch

The plot has thickened in both divisions of Des Plaines' Mid-Teen baseball league after a hectic but crucial weekend of clashes.

Upon entering the final week of regularly scheduled contests, the second-half American and National League circuits are still far from crowned.

Allen's has an edge in the AL with a 5-2 mark, but both Johnson's and the Optimists are threatening at 3-3. Bantam is the only ineligible at 2-5.

The National League is equally a toss-up with First National showing the way with a 5-1 standard. Kunkel challenging at 4-3, the Elks at an even 3-3 and Sellergren at 1-6.

The Optimists moved into striking range with a superbly-played 2-1 conquest of Bantam. Optimist lefty Paul Kosac authored a brilliant two-hitter in going the distance on a yield of no walks and eight strikeouts.

Bantam's Steve Solarz deserved a better fate. He also didn't pass a batter and claimed 10 via the whiff route. The intense pitcher's duel was certainly one of the best of the year.

The winners dented the scoreboard initially in the third when Dave Sullivant slammed a double to left center and Jeff Heist followed with an infield hit. Zeke Zaleski grounded to the right side to send the first marker home and Heist eventually tallied on Kevin Maloney's short sacrifice pop just behind the infield.

Bantam fought back in the fifth and sliced the deficit in half at 2-1 as John Leer reached on an error, advanced to second on an infield out, pilfered third and tallied on Dave Scherer's bloop single to right.

Kosac and Solarz regained command of the game with two more shutout innings. Solarz notched the only other hit off Kosac in the second when he rocketed a triple, but was left stranded.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Bantam	000	010	0—1-2-0

The Elks and Kunkel kept the theme of close ball games intact by going into overtime before the Elks claimed a 4-3 triumph. Regulation play ended in a 1-1 standoff, but the Elks pushed three across in the top of the eighth and then withstood a two-run rally by Kunkel for honors.

Elk Rick Wolfgram and Dan Myszka locked up in a honey of a pitcher's struggle over the first seven frames. Kunkel scratched the surface in the very first inning when Mark Eichorn and Fred Campobasso sandwiched walks around Joe Hanley's single and Ken Geimers boosted one home on his infield out.

Myszka made the lead stand through six shutout innings, but Elk Jeff Schwarz singled, stole second and tallied on Ron Schroeder's safety to knot the score in the top of the seventh.

Both teams required relief help on the mound in that extra stanza. The opportunistic Elks loaded the bases on Bill Heyse's single and walks to Tom Thevdt and Wolfgram. A wild pitch allowed the deadlock to be broken and Schwarz's two-run single made it 4-1 Elks.

Kunkel stormed back, though, as successive walks to Norm Hillner and Tim Willett and Bob Ward's single loaded the sacks. Myszka was passed to force one home and another crossed on a fielder's choice, but the Kunkel rally fell one-run short.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Kunkel	100	000	02—3-5-1

In the third contest of the afternoon, First National hammered Sellergren, 10-1 behind the one-hit hurling of Leon Wilkins.

The victors solved both Sellergren hurlers Chris Bouchee and Roger Bloomer for shots throughout the course of the game and were never seriously challenged.

First National maintained a game and one-half advantage over the rest of the loop while the setback forced Sellergren out of the running.

Paddock Olympics A Week Away

While much of the national interest is focused on Munich, Germany for the Summer Olympics, local enthusiasm is building to a crescendo for the Sixth Annual Paddock Olympics which are scheduled in one week at Conant High School.

Host Schaumburg Park District will welcome 10 other area participating contingents to the World Series of Track for youngsters ranging in age from 8-13.

The two-day affair features 10 events that are guaranteed to challenge the skill and endurance of boys and girls on both an individual and team basis.

Competition in the standing long jump, 50 and 100-yard dashes, jump rope, softball throw, kickball, tennis singles and basketball free-throw shooting will be contested on the individual level while team battles will develop in the shuttle relay and tug-of-war events.

Handsome rewards provide a great incentive. Each contestant, regardless of his or her performance in actual competition, will receive an emblem-type patch signifying participation in the festivities.

The winning park district will take home the mammoth traveling team trophy and may display the hardware for one year after which a permanent plaque will be awarded.

In addition to these ornaments, ribbons will be distributed to the first five positions in each individual event and to the first three places in team divisions.

Joining Schaumburg in the quest for the prestigious title will be defending champion Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Salt Creek and Wheeling.

Palatine, the only two-time winner of the crown, captured honors in both 1967 and 1968 before River Trails derailed the dynasty in 1969. Roselle conquered in 1970 before Arlington rallied for the 1971 crown.

Top Cyclists At Santa Fe

Many of the top professional motorcycle riders in the nation will compete at Santa Fe Speedway Wednesday night, as the southwest side clay oval hosts The George Mack Classic, a 13-event American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned card on the half-mile clay oval. Starting time for the thrill-a-minute, two-wheeled action is 8:30 p.m. Time trials come one-half hour before racetime.

Led by present national point leader Mark Brelsford from San Bruno, Calif, the cream of the national cycling crop will vie for top honors in a 10-lap feature race. The George Mack Classic battle on Wednesday night could be a preview of the fierce competition in the Short-Track Grand National Championship scheduled at Santa Fe Speedway for Aug. 11.

Santa Fe Speedway hosts hard-charging motorcycle shows every Wednesday night. Chicagoland's center for exclusive AMA cycling action features the finest riders in the nation. Santa Fe Speedway also highlights quick-moving clay track stock car races each Saturday and Sunday night.

Santa Fe Speedway is located at 91st and Wolf Road.

DIANE BEHAN, a Conant High School senior, works in the bacteriology lab of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, where she was sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Unit of the American Cancer Society.

WORKING IN THE laboratory of Alexian Brothers Medical Center was a "learning experience" for aspiring medical student Mike Blood, a sophomore at Conant High School. He worked with Dr Donald Fox for six weeks this summer under a program sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Unit of the American Cancer Society.

A Head Start On Careers

by MARY HUTCHINGS

It's not "Marcus Welby," "The Doctors" or "Hospital," but a program sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Unit of the American Cancer Society has introduced two Hoffman Estates students to real-life hospital work.

Diane Behan and Mike Blood, seniors at Conant High School, received scholarships from the society which gave them the opportunity to spend the past six weeks in the lab of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

Working under Dr. Donald Fox, the students spent a week watching lab technicians and doctors work in each of five departments, including surgical pathology, chemistry, bacteriology, humantology and blood bank.

The program was designed to help aspiring medical students decide if they are really interested in a medical career. Mike, who is thinking about Illinois Wesleyan for his pre-med program, said the summer work has confirmed his intentions to be a doctor. He commended the program because "some people have to wait until they are out of medical school to find they don't like it."

Diane "isn't absolutely sure," that she wants to be a doctor, though she plans to apply to Northwestern University's six-year medical sciences program. Being a woman doctor "isn't as big a deal as it used to be," she said and she's fairly certain she'd like to try.

SHE GETS upset when some hospital personnel don't take her ambitions seriously and she was disturbed when they described her as "typical" when she left an autopsy before it was over. She knows she will get used to it, as the doctors have told her they "stop thinking about it" after enough experience.

Both students are surprised at how much they have learned from watching the doctors analyze surgical specimens and from performing some of the tests and experiments themselves.

The Cancer Society pays transportation and meals for the students, who are in the lab from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily. Not yet 18, Mike says it's difficult to find summer jobs. "This is more fun than working in McDonalds, and much more interesting. You're not pressured to learn stuff, and you don't have to do anything with it."

Diane and Mike are honor students at Conant; Mike is in the band and Diane is in Drama Club. Both have a background in biology and chemistry.

DR. FOX said the main impetus of the program is to "keep their interest in medicine, and the secondary effect is cancer control." Though he won't encourage or discourage Diane in her pursuit of a medical career, he says, "she's a bright girl, and if that's what she wants, that's what she should try to do."

He believes the lab is a good experience for aspiring doctors because "it's not divorced from any part of medicine."

Students from 35 suburbs, Dr. Fox reports, were eligible for the program. Students from all over Chicago who were involved in it will be the guests of the Cancer society Aug. 11 at luncheon and a tour of the society's Chicago hospital laboratory.

As they finish up their six weeks of watching, asking why and learning, the two prospective M.D.'s are enthusiastic about hospital workers who so patiently explained things to them.

"Sometimes you knew you were getting in the way," Mike says, "but nobody said anything and nobody looked down on you. If you did something wrong, nobody got upset."

A Million-line Saleswoman

Anita Wilkins, pictured with Gil Aronsen, Pedian Rug Co., discussing Hi-Fi four-color advertising and its sale results after exposure in Paddock Publications.

A keen interest in people and dedication to the advertising profession has enabled Anita Wilkins to become Paddock Publications' first million-line saleswoman. Eighteen years ago Anita came to Paddock as a proofreader. She also became proficient at keylining and authored the "Way Back When" column for several years. In her second year she began selling advertising.

To her many customers Anita is a qualified advertising consultant, drawing upon her background and vast experience in the communications, sales and public relations field.

A graduate of North Central College, she has taken post graduate work in the School of Journalism, Northwestern University. A resident of Arlington Heights for 22 years, she is also an expert seamstress and has more recently discovered the delights of decoupaging.

It's so hard to save a buck. By the time all the bills are paid, there's nothing left to squeeze out of your paycheck for savings.

But there is a way to build a nest egg without having to worry about it. When you join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, an amount you designate will be set aside automatically from each paycheck and invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. By saving a little from each paycheck, you don't feel the pinch. And before long, you'll find you've a sizable nest egg stashed away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Ease your savings squeeze. Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.
